

Beach conference center finally underway

By LBS-CANILL
SUN Public Affairs Writer

Virginia Beach City Council approved a contract for the construction of the Arts and Conference Center which will push the total cost of the project $2 million beyond the $16 million originally estimated by City Manager George L. Hanbury.

The vote was not unanimous, 7-4, but the item had been placed on the "consent agenda" reserved for matters considered to be routine by the City Council. These items are usually voted with a single motion.

Councilwoman Myra Oberdorf protested, saying, "My understanding was that the consent agenda would include non-controversial items." She asked that the contract award be removed from the consent agenda along with another line of the three items included—the second reading of an ordinance appropriating funds to operate and to pay the debt service of the Pembroke, Princess Anne and Annapolis Utilities.

Council approved the low bid of Basic Construction Company for $16,063 which reflects a $2,104,680 reduction from the original bid of $18,168 of $2,104,600. The reduction was made possible with the elimination of the north canopy, tree wells, the substitution of cast-in-place concrete for prestressed concrete, substitution of a suspended acoustical ceiling for sprayed ceiling and the elimination of decorative lighting.

Architects fees ($1.5 million), roads, curbs and gutters ($700,000) and contingencies ($500,000) will bring the entire project over the $18 million mark.

Last week, F. Reid Davis, former city councilman and a subcontractor, said that Council should rebid the project to get a better price. He said the alternatives eliminated from the plans were not alternatives but vital to a first class building. He said that the only guarantee that the city has of getting a fair bargain is to rebid the job.

Councilman J. Curtis Payne said Monday that the mail and room tax imposed two years ago, specifically to finance the center, has already generated $2 million. He said rebidding would not be successful for various reasons which had been explained to him.

Mayor Clarence A. Holland said that the building will generate a tax base benefiting all citizens.

Councilman George R. Ferrell said that he wasn't against the center but did not think the time was right. He voted against approving the bid.

Councilman J. Henry McCoy, who also voted no, said about the same thing.

Councilman H. L. Riggs said the center is not going to be built with tax money but with tourist dollars. McCoy said it would still come out of General Obligation Bonds and Ferrell said, "We are paying that tax, too. The tourists are not paying it all."

In addition to the mayor, Payne and Riggs, others voting to award the bid were Councilmen Floyd E. Waterfield, Jr., John A. Baum and Robert R. Cromwell and Vice Mayor Patrick L. Stauder.

"Rampant growth" hit

By Rhonda Miller
SUN Staff Writer

To halt "rampant, uncontrolled growth" James F. Willesbrink and the Council of Civic Organization of Virginia Beach formally submitted a list of suggestions to councilmen and planners.

State law requires a comprehensive land use plan for each city by 1980, and the COO intends to do its best "to make sure that the plan is more than just a hollow document in response to state requirement."

Willesbrink describes the Virginia Beach Planning Department and Planning Commission as "dedicated, sincere and capable people," but says that "they are probably too small in number to take on the magnitude of the task in Virginia Beach."

COO proposals ask for stringent requirements on zoning regulations and on coastal zone development.

A suggestion that would have a great impact on city development is to "limit zoning changes that increase density, thereby reversing the current trend of responding generally favorably to zoning changes that increase density."

"We don't want to stop growth," says Willesbrink, "we want to develop a new concept toward growth."

Faced with the statement that the Virginia Beach city council has been called a "developer's council," Willesbrink said, "I won't argue with that."

Beach planning director Robert Scott told the SUN that his department has not analyzed the recommendations of the COO yet, but called the document a "positive step that shows they are concerned and that we can count on their participation."

"We will have to address the question of zoning changes," said Scott, but presently, "it is too early to tell" whether the COO's recommendations are feasible.

Willesbrink stressed that the recommendations have been checked thoroughly and they are "applicable, practical, and economically and legally feasible."

The plans are currently being employed in other municipalities, he said.

"We believe that we have a finger on the pulse of the people of Virginia Beach," he said.

If growth is not carefully controlled there is a "greater chance of diminishing the quality of life" in Virginia Beach.

Currently, Scott said that the city is working hard on the comprehensive plan and expects to have a first draft available for public review and comment by spring.

Treasure hunt uncovers elusive wedding ring

By Rhonda Miller
SUN Staff Writer

Treasure hunting is Martha Henry's hobby. Her love-for metal detecting last week turned out to be a bolt of happiness for a Virginia Beach couple.

On a sunny Sunday afternoon, with the leaves turning into their fall glory and the breeze brisk and invigorating, Mrs. Henry's phone rang.

"I've lost my wedding ring in the sand," came an excited voice. "I know it's sandy, but I'm afraid that if I let it go near night I won't be able to find it. I've only been married for a month."

Martha Henry searches with the skill of a pro and the joy of a child with a new toy.

Fortunately, Mrs. Henry had relatives visiting from Missouri and wanted to show them around. Although her son's shop, M & S Metal Detector Center doesn't usually cost equipment on Sunday, Mrs. Henry immediately responded to a treasure hunt.

She arrived at the young couple's house, introduced three metal detectors, and went with them right into the search for the treasure.

Beeping machines turned up pop top after pop top, and every bit of metal conceivable in a sandy spot in Seashore State Park where the ring had been lost.

"If it's around here, we'll find it," predicted Mrs. Henry confidently, and detected with the skill of a pro and the joy of a child with a new toy.

About 30 minutes later, shrieks, smiles, and laughter flowed at the uncovering of the treasure.

True to her nature as a treasure hunter, Mrs. Henry refused offers of money, and simply smiled at the fact that, "we found our treasure this time."

Her treasure hunting started when she began dabbling with some of her son's equipment. Over the past few years, she has collected quite an interesting assortment of artifacts and put them on display at her shop. Her treasures include coins, doorknobs and bits and pieces that some people might not consider valuable, but Mrs. Henry has made these pieces of art. Her displays are open to the public and she enjoys having visitors share her finds with her.

Mrs. Henry's museum of treasured finds are at the shop at 2108 Thorngood Road, Virginia Beach, just off Pleasure House Road.

Council adds voice

The Virginia Beach City Council has added its voice to that of the Hampton Sanitation District Commission to "encourage" Congress to approve the Atlantic Treatment Plant.

A resolution approved by Council encourages Virginia Congressmen to expedite the adoption of the amendment which has been under consideration for two years.

Once the project is approved it still has to be funded.

City Manager George L. Hanbury said that the State Water Control Board which once listed the project $2 on the priority list, has a hand-picked listing by priority.

Councilman J. Henry McCoy Jr. said last week that three years ago the project was listed as 77. "Now we don't know where we stand."

Beach seeks water loan

The City of Virginia Beach is proceeding with an application for a $3 million loan under the Federal Emergency Drought Relief Act of 1977 to reimburse the city for water tanks and water pumping stations constructed during the drought.

The city has also received $900,000 of the $1 million grant from the Economic Development Administration.

Revenue bonds will serve as collateral for the loan. City Council Approved the loan.

MARTY BECK, Queen Elizabeth Drive:
"No, they're not doing a good job. We're growing too fast, there's not enough schools and no water. I just think they're not doing a good job at all."

WANDA HILER, Tajo Avenue:
"They're sticking shopping centers where there could be schools or homes. They could do a better job as far as that's concerned."

WILLIAM NICKMAN, Green Cedar Lane:
"The roads are coming up (better). I don't see anything wrong (with the planning.) The people complaining about Green Run government subsidized housing are just stuck up."

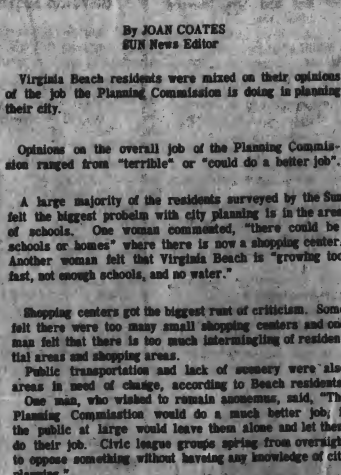

BOB LASHBROOK, DuBelle Crescent:
"Could do a lot better job on zoning. There's all kinds of mixtures of residents, living and shopping centers. There's too much commercial."

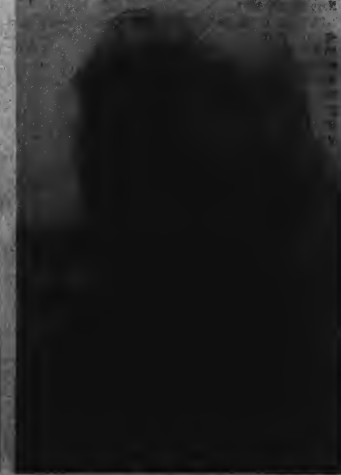

Beach residents look at planning

JOHN LEE, Lynn Shores:
"I think they're doing a magnificent job. I've lived in Virginia Beach for almost 10 years...and can remember when Virginia Beach Blvd. was only two lanes. It's a difficult job of planning with the rapid growth."

RUBY GRAVELLY, Laurel Cove:
"There's too many shopping centers. Too many little ones. Like the stores on the (Virginia Beach) Blvd...there's too many little ones."

TERESA LANCHANTIN, Royal Palm Arch:
"We need some improvement in the long range planning. One problem is (there is not enough planning in the school population. The public transportation is inefficient, too."

By JOAN COATES
SUN News Editor

Virginia Beach residents were mixed on their opinions of the job the Planning Commission is doing in planning their city.

Opinions on the overall job of the Planning Commission ranged from "terrible" or "could do a better job."

A large majority of the residents surveyed by the Sun felt the biggest problem with city planning is in the area of schools. One woman commented, "there could be schools or homes" where there is now a shopping center. Another woman felt that Virginia Beach is "growing too fast, not enough schools, and no water."

Shopping centers got the biggest run of criticism. Some felt there were too many small shopping centers and one man felt that there is too much intermingling of residential areas and shopping areas.

Public transportation and lack of scenery were also areas in need of change, according to Beach residents.

One man, who wished to remain anonymous, said, "The Planning Commission would do a much better job, if the public at large would leave them alone and let them do their job. Civic league groups spring from oversight to oppose something without having any knowledge of city planning."

Quarterless boothing risky business

It's where you "pay-as-you-go." It's where the flow of traffic stops. It's where you dig down for another quarter. There's a lot of action going on around the toll booth between the Virginia Beach-Norfolk Expressway.

Normal people slow down when they come to pay their toll. They toss their quarter in at square aim, the red light turns green and off they go. That's the normal way to pay the toll.

But the average Tidewater driver is not too normal these days. So it's a lesson in creativity to watch the way drivers get out of "paying-as-they-go."

One of the most common ways to avoid losing another quarter is by using a penny. Of course, the red light doesn't turn green until the driver aims, and throws, most people assume, the toll keepers, still figure it's the fault of the quarter. There, drivers are punished for being in a hurry.

Another option is to stop, wait, and then take off.

A less dangerous option of not paying is to appeal to the toll keeper. By using degrees of crying, sobbing or just looking depressed, those kind-hearted keepers of the quarters can usually be reached. One driver who has utilized this method in the past, said he was given an envelope and told to pay an extra quarter the next trip through. Alas, another quarter saved.

The award for originality goes to two men on motorcycles who went completely around the toll gates. Figuring that to ignore the quarter eaters was the best solution, these men were promptly busted down by state troopers and fined. Twenty-five dollars worth of quarters was the result of their ingenuity.

During rush hour, one very creative method of avoiding quarter paying is to go with the flow ahead of you. This method of sharing a ride in traffic but when done effectively is the best possible method. The driver must be smooth and quick as well as lucky.

There are risks in waiting for the toll keepers. The main hazard is the police. If a driver could be up to $28.50.

Another hazard is the earthen ball and flashing red light. If the toll machine does not get it's quarter, the entire vicinity is notified.

Quarters add up to a lot of money for the daily expressway user. It's a quarter every time you turn around. The State of Virginia could be drawing in an ocean of quarters by now...and pennies, dimes and dimes, or whatever else the expressway engineer has dreamed of.

A city for all seasons

While city council looks away at the $19.5 million art center trying to get the awesome figure a bit less awesome, Virginia Beach is waiting to burst into maturity.

Hotels and restaurants are fine tourist town basics, but once professionals start filtering in for year-round conventions, Virginia Beach will become a city for all seasons.

Local always discover ways to fill winter days that tourists never dreamed of, but the winter towns are soon to be as pretentious as those of any metropolitan center.

What scope did the Norfolk, the Arts and Conference center can do for Virginia Beach. Which is to say, that something factor called culture can begin to become some local craft.

Conventions are just one of the ways to fill winter days. The city could be drawing in an ocean of quarters by now...and pennies, dimes and dimes, or whatever else the expressway engineer has dreamed of.

vening out. With a theatre that seats 1,000 and an assembly area that seats 6,000 for a conference, Virginia Beach is heading into the big time.

Praise council for its attempt to cut a few more corners and trying to get down to the earlier estimated costs.

At an informal meeting last week, Hollans said that the architectural firm of Odell Associates, Inc., was selected because of its reputation for waterfront architecture close to the bays. He said the firm has never been over three percent of the estimates on other jobs and could attribute the difference this time only to the rise in the inflationary spiral. Hanbury said that if the project were rebid the bids would be greater.

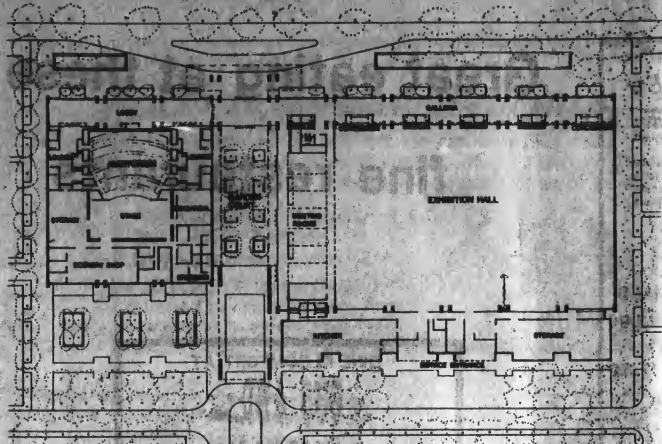

McCoy remarked that if in less than a year the costs have gone up $2 million, "what will happen in two years?"

Mayor Holland said that "maybe we did know too close as we should have," but that "there had a few things we could do to stay within the budget."

Hollans remarked that "we spent a whole session being told there's no overruns."

Hanbury went out on a limb, Hollans said, and "now it's saved off."

Payne said it's time to decide whether it's in the best interest of Virginia Beach. "We will lose back and say it is one of the best things that happened to Virginia Beach."

Floor Plan, Arts and Conference Center

Dear Mr. Mayor Holland, Members of City Council, Members of Planning Commission, Mr. Hanbury, Mr. Webber, and Mr. Scott:

Within the past year, the subject of rapid population growth in Virginia Beach, and the problems associated therewith, have been discussed at many of our public meetings of the Council of Civic Organizations (CCO). These numerous discussions have evidenced considerable interest and concern among the residents of Virginia Beach relative to the future growth rate and development pattern of our City.

Responsive to motions passed by our general membership and subsequent to committee deliberations and communications with all of our "57" member organizations, the CCO has developed recommendations for future management of population growth in Virginia Beach. These recommendations, in the form of a resolution, were adopted by unanimous vote of our general membership on November 9, 1977.

Said resolution is entitled "Recommended Growth Management Policy for Virginia Beach" and is forwarded herewith. Knowing that you likewise are profoundly concerned about our City's rapid growth, the CCO trusts that you will give careful consideration to these recommendations, and we strongly urge that you act to implement such a growth management policy in the near future.

RECOMMENDED GROWTH MANAGEMENT POLICY FOR VIRGINIA BEACH

Be it resolved that the Council of Civic Organizations of Virginia Beach, recognizing the existing and potential problems resulting from continued rapid and largely uncontrolled population growth in our City, erewith recommends that Virginia Beach adopt a meaningful and definitive population growth management policy. Such growth management policy should include, but not necessarily be limited to, the following general methods and measures:

(1) ESTABLISH A Comprehensive Land Use Plan For Orderly And Managed Growth.

Develop a Comprehensive Land Use Plan which will ensure an orderly, reasonable, and manageable rate and pattern of growth such as to protect the general welfare of the majority of our residents and to maintain the qualities of life which have, in the past, made Virginia Beach an attractive place to live. Such land use plan, while including provisions for reasonable commercial, industrial, and residential growth, should thoroughly consider the natural "physical constraints" to excessive population growth which particularly apply in Virginia Beach—specifically our City's "shortage of fresh water resources, inadequate storm drainage characteristics, water pollution and quality control problems, continuing sedimentation of lakes and waterways, limited beach and park recreational facilities and access, potential flood and storm hazards, and the diminishing amount of open spaces, agricultural and forest lands."

(2) LIMIT ZONING CHANGES THAT INCREASE DENSITY.

Adopt a policy in the zoning decision-making process that changes in zoning which would "increase" the population density use of lands will generally "not be approved" unless, after profound critical analysis, such zoning changes are "clearly" determined to be in accord with the overall welfare of the City and the majority of its residents. Applicants who request zoning changes which would increase density should generally be required to prove conclusively that the existing (lower-density) zoning is improper or inappropriate to the overall land use plan.

(3) ENSURE DEVELOPMENT TIME-PHASED TO FACILITIES. Ensure that the future growth pattern in general and development activities in particular be restrained in rate and extent such that they remain consonant with the availability of existing public facilities or those facilities or those facilities definitely planned and financed (i.e. the development directly to the CIP). Public facilities to which development should be time-phased include: water supply sewerage disposal, roads, schools, storm drainage, fire and police protection, et al.

(4) IMPOSE DEVELOPMENT MORATORIA AS REQUIRED. Ensure moratoria or other interim controls against development, construction, or facilities hook-ups when conditions clearly indicate their use as temporary measures to supplement other growth management methods. In particular, building permit moratoria or ceilings should be readily imposed whenever a shortage of facilities or

(5) ADOPT STRINGENT AND DEFINITIVE COASTAL ZONE DEVELOPMENT RESTRICTIONS. Establish a stringent, forceful, and definitive policy for coastal management and beach development control, in conjunction with the State Coastal Resources Management Program, which will ensure maximum preservation of the physical features, recreational qualities, and aesthetic value of our City's beaches, lakes, and waterways such as to help maintain the attractiveness and availability of those natural assets to both tourists and residents alike.

(6) EMPLOY LIMITED SELECTIVE PURCHASE OR TRANSFER OF DEVELOPMENT RIGHTS, DEVELOPMENTAL EASEMENTS, AND/OR PREFERENTIAL TAXES. In order to preserve or protect select open spaces, agricultural lands, beach areas, forest lands, and historical locales; limited and selective purchase or transfer of development rights/easements should be arranged and/or preferential rights/tax treatment granted. Care should be exercised, however, in the purchase or transfer of development rights, acquisition of easements, and the granting of tax preferences—as well as in all growth management methods—to ensure that application of such measures remains reasonably equitable, consistent, legal and economically feasible.

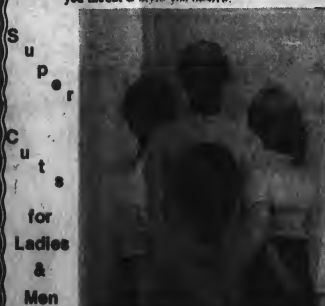

The six methods or measures recommended heretofore in this resolution are proposed as means to supplement laws and policies which already exist in Virginia Beach. Such currently existing controls as the Comprehensive Zoning Ordinance, subdivision ordinance, building codes, site, the separate, albeit sometimes related, issues of resources is determined to be critical (such as a critical shortage of fresh water supply).

City growth...

"We want to make sure it's a good plan," said Scott. "We will bend over backwards to incorporate citizen input. We plan to seek out various groups to get their opinions."

Virginia Beach presently has a general development plan which was completed in 1972, and by state code must be reviewed every five years.

"The city has about 50,000 more people now," said Scott. "So the new plan must be very different."

Questioned about the previous contact with the CCO, Scott said, "we have worked with the group before and found their input helpful."

The CCO submitted the plan as a result of many months of concern and discussion over the realization of growth problems, including water, sewer, traffic and public services.

"The council and the planning department are not sufficiently attending to the problem," said Willenbrink. "They have too many day-to-day tasks to have sufficient time to develop a good master plan."

City bonds on sale

Virginia Beach City Council has authorized the sale of $15,900,000 in general obligation bonds (Charter bond issue for 1977) on Dec. 6.

Projects to be financed by the bonds are:

Schools, $7,672,000; streets and highways, $1,523,156; surface drainage systems, $712,888; Lynnhaven River dredging, $457,000; municipal buildings, $3,253,566, and parks and recreation, $2,551,350.

Faith sees promise in the white world of Winter
When Winter's sun with slanting rays of light
Reveals a world arrayed in glistening white,
Where barren trees and snow-clad peaks beyond
Are mirrored in an ice-encrusted pond; Some see it only as the year grows old,
The earth devoid of life, so dead and cold;
A dormant land where nothing seems to grow
And future hopes lie buried in the snow. But those of faith see beauty in this scene:
Through Church they know that one day it will mean a miracle that God will always bring:
The new rebirth of life that's known as Spring.

FETTUCINE DI PARMA A CLASSIC DISH WITH A NEW TWIST

It is no wonder Italians love pasta! It's delicious, hearty, easy to prepare, and so very versatile. Two main types of pasta are found in Italy today. Pasta Bolognaise, produced in the north, is generally flat and ribbon shaped. Prepared and cooked fresh at home, it is usually made with eggs. In the south of Italy the pasta resembles closely what we have in the United States. Pasta Napolitana is tubular, made without eggs and is purchased in a dried form. One of the most popular forms of pasta bolognaise is fettuccine. Its classic preparation with butter, cream and Parmesan cheese is called Fettuccine Alfredo. Create a sensational budget variation of this famous dish by adding chopped cooked ham, black olives and seasonings. Simple, yes, but what a flavor! Modernize too, by substituting spread for butter. Blue Bonnet Light, Tasty Spread adds a rich buttery taste that will make Fettuccine di Parma one of your family's favorites.

FETTUCINE DI PARMA
1 box (8-ounce) medium egg noodles
1/2 cup heavy cream

1 egg yolk
1/4 cup Blue Bonnet Light, Tasty Spread melted
1/4 pound (1 cup) freshly grated Parmesan cheese
3/4 cup (1/4 pound) chopped cooked ham
1/2 cup sliced pitted ripe black olives
2 tablespoons chopped parsley

Cook noodles according to package directions. Meanwhile, beat together cream and egg yolk. Stir in Blue Bonnet Light, Tasty Spread. Drain noodles. Combine noodles, cream mixture, cheese, ham, olives and parsley. Toss gently until ingredients are well distributed. Serve immediately. Makes 3 servings.

A good crisp salad is a must with pasta. Add sliced cooked eggs for extra taste, nutrition and eye appeal. End your meal the Italian way—with a selection of fresh fruit.

Savor The Flavor Of Vegetable Spaghetti Sauce

With bountiful supplies of all kinds of vegetables, it seems a good time to "cook-up" some vegetable main dishes. Here's one called Caponata that originated in Italy. First cousin to the French ratatouille, it uses eggplant and zucchini as the main ingredients. Hot with spaghetti, or cold as an appetizer or salad, the slightly sweet-sour taste is terrific. The secret in this particular recipe is using a packaged spaghetti dinner which has all of the basic ingredients in one box; spaghetti, a rich spaghetti sauce which adds extra flavor, plus grated cheese. Not only is this sauce delicious on spaghetti as a main dish, it's a real money saver too.

LA CAPONATA

1 large eggplant or 2 small ones, cut into 1" cubes
1 medium zucchini, sliced
1/2 cup olive or salad oil
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
2 medium onions, sliced
1 clove garlic, minced
1 package Chef Boyardee® Complete Spaghetti Dinner w/Meat Sauce
1/2 teaspoon basil
2 tablespoons capers, drained
2 tablespoons pine nuts or sliced almonds
3 pitted black olives, sliced
3 sliced green olives, sliced
2 tablespoons sugar
1/4 cup wine vinegar

Sauté eggplant and zucchini, a few pieces at a time in hot oil. Remove pieces as they are cooked and place in a large-proof casserole (heavy skillet). Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Pour packed onions into hot oil, but not brown. Add garlic and chopped onion. Cook until onion is tender. Add remaining ingredients, stirring and cooking until the sauce is thick. Serve over spaghetti. Makes 4 servings.

FACTS ABOUT WINES

Types Of Wines

Do you know the difference between a varietal and generic wine? You should when you buy wine.

Varietal wines are named after the grape from which they are produced. Some of these are Cabernet Sauvignon, Pinot, Chardonnay, and Gamay. Federal law requires that most of the wine in the bottle must be made from the grape named on the label. It must also have the aroma and taste associated with the grape from which it is produced.

Generic wines are named after the historic wine producing districts of Europe. This has been a custom for literally hundreds of years. Semi-generic names like Rhine Wine, for instance, came into use because the grapes were grown in the Rhine River valley. Burgundy, Sauterne and Bordeaux are other examples. This custom also applies to food, i.e., Swiss cheese, French bread.

Some wines are marketed without any type of name. For instance, "white dinner wine." These are called class names. They are best remembered by their brand name in connection with their class name.

Many wineries have strong feelings about the distinctive nature of their grapes. They give them proprietary names—such as VINO Flamma—which no other winery can use. Most often these names denote location of the winery. You will see many of these at your retail outlet.

At B. Cribari & Sons, we produce both generic and varietal. We hope you'll try some soon and while you're at your store, take a few minutes to find examples of class and proprietary wines. This is the best way to learn the difference.

If you'd like more information on wine, please write me at B. Cribari & Sons, 6th Floor, 500 Sansome Street, San Francisco, California 94111.

FACTS ABOUT WINES

Replacing The "Usual"

Did you know that a drinking revolution is taking place in our country today? Millions of Americans are switching from their "usual" to white wine, chilled or "on the rocks".

Today's cocktail parties, because everyone seems to be calorie-conscious, feature light and simple foods like cheeses and fresh fruits rather than caviar and shrimp on toast. A chilled VINO Bianco is more likely to be served than a martini.

Right now, wine is outselling liquor in seven states. Market forecasts indicate that wine will outsell liquor in all 50 states by 1980. For the host and hostess, this surprising trend means easy, gracious entertaining. An all-purpose wine glass is all that is needed and one just opens the bottle and pours. Guests simply carry their glasses from cocktail hour to the dinner table.

And, don't be hesitant to serve your wine from the new larger size bottles. For instance, at B. Cribari & Sons, we're producing the new 1.5 liter metric sizes in white as well as other wines. They are easy to pour, easy to store and are more economical when it comes to entertaining. But, we still market our traditional fifths of white wines as well.

Be sure and refrigerate your white wine before serving. Some guests may want theirs "on the rocks." It is best to chill your wine for about two hours in advance of serving so it's cold enough to not melt the ice cubes.

If you'd like more information on wine, please write me at B. Cribari & Sons, Suite 601, 500 Sansome Street, San Francisco, California 94111.

Wilderness darn good for Virginia Beach

By JOAN COATES

Ah, Americana.
It's a slice of small town Americana life in the early 1900's that the Virginia Beach Little Theatre brings to Eugene O'Neill's "Ah, Wilderness."

The Millers are the typical American family on the fourth of July, 1900. Tomorrow is out shooting off fireworks, Mildred is practicing different ways to write her name, Arthur is home from Yale and Richard is in love. Newspaperman, Nat Miller and wife, Essie, are the concerned parents of the growing brood.

And then there's Uncle Sid, who likes his drink, and Aunt Lilly, who calls herself a "cranky old maid."

It's a story of growing up and the way a family copes. Richard, the cynic is spurred by his love and resorts to sin, wild women and the "demon drink" to soothe his soul. Played by Jeff Klein, a freshman from O.D.U., Richard is at times stiff and unconvincing. The character is dreamy and an incurable pessimist, but the fire and passion seems lost by Klein.

VI Ragan, who plays Essie Miller is a standout. She's got character and timing that makes Essie an audience favorite. Essie's the typical mother, wanting her children punished, yet not too severely. Ragan's double takes and complete abandon to the character she portrays, makes her Essie unforgettable.

The scene of a holiday dinner of fish and lobster is a scream. Nat and Uncle Sid comes in tipsy and the rest of the family has orders from Essie to act as if nothing is wrong. Essie has prepared big fish for dinner, which Nat claims "just poisons me." But for years, Essie has been serving him bluish while letting him drink he's eating wheatfish. "I like bluish," she said in explanation of her plot. When Nat finds out, it could be an argument found in American homes of 1977.

Uncle Sid's drunken show at the same dinner is the highlight of the production. Eating lobster shell and all, Sid, played by Bob Satterfield, blames his eyes, nods his head and mouths out the 20 year old tale Nat tells once again. Satterfield has the role of an amusing, foolhardy drunk down pat. "I'm in a delicate condition," he said with a grin, "and we're praying for a boy."

The set is superb. Done in antique furniture with reds and blues, the parlour is homey and comfortable. One feels at home emotionally and physically with the Millers as their personal problems unfold.

Pat Bernick has done a fine job with her cast. For the most part the characters work well and bring their own individuality to the characters. Pedro Alad, as the "coo" yalie, and Anita Booher, as Beanie, the wicked woman, are excellent examples of bit characters that are made unforgettable.

It's a refreshing production, one for the whole family. Life in "Ah Wilderness" is much as it is today. People feel the same and want the same. It's a story of hope and of triumph. The story is so good, while he and Essie watch the night, "It's been a good day, Essie, a darn good day." "Ah, Wilderness" is darn good America.

Beach student creates show for Christmas

The program at the Virginia Beach City School's Planetarium for December is entitled, "At Christmas Time." This is an entirely new program to be shown for the first time this December.

The story line was written by Bobby Brown, a student at Old Dominion University and a resident of Virginia Beach. He is also responsible for recording the sound-track, which includes the voices of many Virginia Beach residents and several drama students from Cox High School.

The program includes a review of little-known facts about the evolution of Christmas customs, as well as a different interpretation of what the star of Bethlehem might have been, and where it might have been seen.

This year two extra programs will be given on Thursday nights, one on the 8th, and one on the 15th.

Planetarium hours:
Sunday: 7 pm on the 4th, 11th, and 18th.
Tuesday: 7pm on the 6th, 13th, and 20th.
Thursday: 7pm on the 8th and 15th.

NO PROGRAMS will be given on Sunday the 25th and Tuesday the 27th.

Telephone the main office at Plaza Junior High School...

486-1971 for reservation. Children under age 12 may be refused admission unless accompanied by a mature person.

Hidden talent lurks in Beach showers

By RHONDA MILLER
SUN Staff Writer

Hidden talent lurks behind Virginia Beach doorways. Sundry songwriters are due to come out of the closet if they run into George and Lee-Hope Smith.

They lay their card on the table and it says: Tidewater Talent Search—Have talent, but don't know where to turn or who to ask? We can help.

Abstracted as the service is, George Smith figures that Tidewater is due for its talent to back up with its entertainment and cultural needs.

As a 4-H extension agent in Virginia Beach, George worked with many talented and potentially professional young people.

Lee-Hope Thrasher, a former Miss Chesapeake, serves as the talent director of the company, working mainly with the stage presence, musical and performance part of the work.

George has experience in photography, storytelling and creative writing, and plans to handle the contacts in those areas.

Tidewater Talent Search has obtained a Chesapeake business license and is ready to go.

"There are some people that I've got my eye on," says George. "They've got talent, but they're not using it to their full potential yet."

"The idea is to raise the awareness level of the creative arts in this area."

Raised in the Hickory section of Chesapeake, George got a new perspective on the creative arts while he attended college and lived in Richmond.

"There's a different atmosphere in Richmond. People are used to theatre and other cultural events. I've got my eye on," says George. "They've got talent, but they're not using it to theatre and other cultural events. It's more a part of their life."

That awareness is growing in Tidewater now, he feels, and it's time to bring it into bloom.

His own creativity blossomed with the help of a 10th grade Chesapeake teacher who was so enthusiastic about one of his limericks that he began to think about writing.

The Smiths are ready to pass that encouragement on to Chesapeake and Virginia Beach people looking for an outlet for their creativity.

"Our service could change a person's life. People pay $16 an hour to get their car repaired and all they have is their car. Our service could open up doors to a whole new perspective."

The outline of the operation has been sketched. First step is a talent survey, where George and Lee-Hope will view the performance for a small service charge. They will suggest improvements, contacts for performance or study, and try to get the person and talent happily in motion.

Tidewater Talent Search will operate in a major way as a referral service to hook-up Tidewater talent's local ends. Classes and a newsletter will be included in the service.

It's a unique service for a unique area with lots of potential talent.

Cdr. and Mrs. W. F. Salkowski

House of glass dresses for holiday

By JOAN COATES
SUN News Editor

Commander and Mrs. W. F. Salkowski will open their "house of glass" Dec. 3 and 4 to the public as the Thoroughgood Garden Club's ninth annual Holiday House.

Located at 4121 Hermitage Point in Virginia Beach, the Salkowski home is decorated in oriental overtones. There are only two windows in the eight room house. The rest of the house is surrounded by sliding glass doors with a view of the Lynnhaven River seen from all three sides.

Built in 1961, the house was rebuilt after the Ash Wednesday storm. According to Cdr. Salkowski, they lost three cars located in the underground garage. "We had to seal up the garage," he said. "It sure comes in handy."

The Salkowski home is full of history, Mrs. Salkowski's great grandfather, Dr. J. D. Graves, was shipwrecked on his way to America from an artist's life in Paris. His stone etchings, he carried with him, are now hanging in the Salkowski home.

For the holidays, the home will be decorated in a snowflake theme. Giant snowflakes will hang from the glass doors and a live Christmas tree will sit on the back balcony. There will also be a Christmas tree decorated with shells. Another highlight of the holiday decorations will be a peacock feathered wreath.

Along with the tour of the Salkowski home, the garden club will hold a bazaar in the garage as well as a sweet shop with homemade goodies.

The tours will run from 12 noon to 5 p.m. on Saturday and from 12:30 to 5 p.m. on Sunday. Donation is $1 and will be accepted at the door.

Craft program set

Forty - nine watercolors the provost's suite. The exhibit will run Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Nov. 21 through Dec. 2.

The exhibit is presented by the Art Club of T.C.C. Prices will be quoted on request.

Painting the Beach

... with Eric Stevens

Shake up your over coat if you go hear HMS combo at "The Meeting Room" or "Little Sicily" at Hilltop; they'll immerse you with chill bumps with their beautiful ballads. But if you'll be long before you'll be generating heat with their vigorous toe-tapping and finger-popping, for this group SWINGS. Although they sometimes work as a jazz band, this is a JAZZ scene, and the proprietor gleefully scratched over the words "Country" and "Rock" on their programs, which hangs outside. And though they literally have enough talent for several bands. Since the group is a co-op, with no leader, I'll describe them in alphabetical order. (When is someone going to compose "Alphabet 120's" have you ever contemplated the same situation suffered by persons named Ketteris, Fink or Zantz?)

Henry Harrison was the subject of a lengthy article in the Sun last summer by Blair Thurman because of his track exploits at the age of 41. He was mentioned in this column only shortly prior to that for his awesome prowess as a bassist. But on this job he is ensconced at the Fender-Rhodes piano. I had to ask which came first, the answer: piano, under Frank Silverstein. Kenny's right hand often embarks on rapid flights that call to mind a 500 foot home-run; this is interesting because it is the left hand that chooses the on bass. He is a Capricorn who went from Henry to ODU, where he majored in Physical Education. I have long contemplated an article on the relationship of sports and music, so I queried: does running help your playing? Kenny feels that it does, but not if he runs too strenuously prior to playing.

Dean Kowalski concentrates on guitar and trumpet, but also played bass and drums. He composed, too. He might even be an inventor; he plays guitar as though he invented it. He sometimes sings wordless syllables in unison with his guitar notes. His artistry defies description. Dean's muted trumpet might call to mind Miles Davis or Harry Edison, and runs the gamut of emotions. Dean is an Alsatian and a Pennsylvanian who came here with the Navy Jazz Band. Offstage he's as cheerful as Santa Claus, and has that same sense of humor often found in musicians. I asked for a photo of the band; from the wall he instantly produced a picture. It had been found in the restroom shortly beforehand. It was not of the band it was not printable. But it was FUNNY.

Dean worked for Fred Warde appeared on the Mike Douglas show, worked one night on bass with the Disney Orchestra band, and has played in shows behind innumerable stars, including Anna Bryant and Tim Tim (not together!).

Ken Kowalski is an engineer who just arrived from Long Island. He plays that famous saxophone. The original sax was a joy to hear him construct such variety, logical lines with a growing sorrow that is almost always absent from the electric bass guitar. A Capricorn, he worked with Chuck Foldes, Blossom Dearie, Sammy Beasley, Red Balaban, and John Beach.

Roy Smith sticks mainly to drums in this setting but plays fine bass and is a choir director. He has aged two pretty ballads on tenor sax, in a breathy, virtu style reminiscent of Ben Webster. Roy attended Peabody Conservatory with Tuesday Newmans of the Tonight Show.

Some people have trouble finding "The Meeting Room." From the stop-light at Hilltop, proceed North on First Colonial, make a right before the 7-11, and look slightly leftward. From the west parking lot, head for Carvel, and take a right. (We'll play from 8:00 Friday and Saturday. The November months the view changes; unlike most places, his drinks are mostly WORMS.

Fossils provide interesting science project

"What kind of shell is this, Miss Brand?" "How much is this fossil worth, Mr. Rice?" Those questions and hundreds more rolled excitedly from 114 seventh grade science students of Lynnhaven Elementary School as they dug enthusiastically in the internationally famous Rice Fossil Pit in Hampton last month.

Lynnhaven science teacher Ann Brand, whose major is biology and who claims she is a "fossil nut," decided the best way to teach her science students about geology was to let them "dig in" at the Rice Pit.

When she taught at Williamsburg in 1968, Brand became familiar with the vast range of preserved fossils in the Rice Pit, which is about 125 feet deep and located off Harris Creek Road. The pit's potential was discovered by the son of the owners, Mr. and Mrs. W. Macon Rice, in 1960. Archeology experts from around the world have established that the pit's fossils, which are perfectly preserved, date back 20,000,000 years to the Miocene Epoch.

Among the famous fossils taken from the pit are a 500-pound piece of tropical coral--which established that Hampton was under about 100 feet of water 20 million years ago--and the bones of an 80-foot whale, both of which are now at the Smithsonian Institute.

The day of the field trip to Hampton, Brand was assisted by three other teachers from Lynnhaven Elementary, Clifton E. Austli, Charles Davis and John Roadman, who, according to Brand, "did a super job of helping the kids." "Mr. and Mrs. Rice have dedicated themselves to the geological wonders of their pit, especially in sharing with children," Brand points out. "They have constructed a museum of fossils to explore, and they also let each student dig for his own fossils. They show an endless patience in answering each question about the fossils found."

"When the kids ask me how much a particular fossil is worth," says Rice, "I tell them that I recently sent five small coffee cans of fossils to a museum in South Africa, and they valued the shipment at $5,000. That usually surprises them."

Rice explains that fossils are easy to find in his pit, especially after a heavy rain, and that some combination in the earth and water has preserved them perfectly. "Most people think of fossils as a hardened, brittle imprint in rock. In this pit we've excavated rare shells with spots still on them and clams which still have meat in them--clams 20 million years old," he exclaims. "These are true fossils."

Back at their Lynnhaven Elementary classrooms, the students cleaned and carefully mounted their fossils, and with Brand's help, identified most of them.

Some, however, could not be identified, and at the student's request, the Rices visited the school Tuesday, Nov. 14, as guests to view the collections and help identify the remaining few. For their help, the Rices were also invited to lunch at the school cafeteria.

"This is the highlight of the year's science study," gloved Brand, "it's a happy realization to each student when he actually finds a fossil that he has been studying about and learns from the experience. That's what it's all about."

Mr. and Mrs. W. Macon Rice help identify 20-million old fossils dug from their fossil pit in Hampton by seventh grade science students Chris Carlin (center) and Bruce Donnelly of Lynnhaven Elementary School.

Beach spawns PTA president

After more than two decades of service to local city, district and state parent-teacher associations, Mae Belle Coussens of Virginia Beach has risen to the highest position in the Virginia Congress of Parents and Teachers, the presidency.

Alaza holds Christmas sale

The Plaza Elementary P.T.A. will sponsor a Christmas store the week of Dec. 5. There will be a variety of things for sale, including handmade items. Proceeds from the sale will be used to buy needed articles for the school. All parents and the public are invited to attend.

The first person from Tidewater elected to head the 227,000-member organization, Mrs. Coussens says the credit for her election goes "to the members of the Virginia Beach PTA council who campaigned for me."

Mrs. Coussens began her association with parent-teacher organizations 25 years ago when her oldest child entered school in Jacksonville, Florida. Since then, she has served with Norfolk and Virginia Beach PTAs, has been president of the Virginia Beach PTA Council, district representative to the state executive board of the PTA, state PTA convention chairman, and has served in numerous other capacities.

"Just like most Navy families, we came to Virginia Beach for a two-year stay, but we've been here every since," she says with a smile. The Coussens have lived in their Princess Anne Plaza home for 17 years. Mr. Coussens--Paul--is a retired naval officer and now teaches industrial art at Bayside High School.

She concentrated mostly on local PTA efforts during the years her children were in school in Virginia Beach, feeling that she shouldn't be away from her home and family then. Now, her daughter Paula is married and living in Norfolk, her son Wayne is a doctor of psychology at Georgia College, and her son Dale is a junior majoring in physics at O.D.U.

During her years in the Virginia Beach PTA, Mrs. Coussens has served as president of the PTAs in Lynnhaven Elementary, Kellam High and Princess Anne High and has helped establish PTA councils in several new Virginia Beach schools as they opened including College Park, Holland, Windsor Woods, Windsor Oaks, and B.F. Williams Elementary, Kempsville Junior, and Bayside High School.

"The PTA is continuing to grow in Virginia Beach (last year it had a three per cent increase in membership), and when you consider that PTAs in northern Virginia are losing members, that's a good reflection on Virginia Beach," she said.

Basically, Mrs. Coussens feels the role of today's PTA is parent and citizen education about what the school division is doing and why.

"I think the building administrators are depending more on their PTAs, and this has brought our efforts together," she points out. "Dr. Brickell and his staff have been just beautiful to the PTA. They help in every way. We have very good leadership in our city and our PTA, and that's important."

Reflecting on her years of participation in the activities of the Virginia Beach Parent Teacher Council, Mrs. Coussens is most proud of the role she played in the establishment of the Virginia Beach Vocational-Technical Education Center. A member of the PTA advisory committee which helped with the school's creation, Mrs. Coussens proudly points out, "Now kids who aren't going on to college have a chance to get excellent job skills before they graduate from high school."

In the short time she has served as the state president, Mrs. Coussens has already found that her social and work calendar stay full. "I try to attend our local PTA meetings, but I also get invited to other school division PTA meetings, and it's hard to attend them all."

If her past years of dedication are indicative of her future efforts, Mae Belle Coussens will no doubt find a way to meet all her obligations and provide the State PTA with the highest quality of leadership she is capable of giving.

the fascinating Sotos

From Havana to Virginia Beach

Dr. Lida Soto

Be specific when you ask for Dr. Soto with the Virginia Beach Public Schools. There are two Dr. Sotos.

One teaches at Bayside Junior High, and one teaches at Independence Junior High. Both teach Spanish, and both have PhDs. Both fled from Castro-controlled Cuba in 1962 and are now American citizens. Not surprisingly, they are married to each other.

Emilio and Lida Soto hold doctorates from the University of Havana. However, when they took up residence in Iowa Falls, Iowa, and applied for teaching positions. They were granted their permanent professional certificates for the state of Iowa. So, while teaching Spanish in Iowa Falls schools, Emilio and Lida drove 50 miles most nights to the University of Northern Iowa in Cedar Falls.

"We went to classes in the summer and nights, even during the month of January. It was cold!" said the Sotos, who were more accustomed to the tropical climate of the Caribbean.

Despite the cold weather and long commuting distance, both completed masters degree programs.

The Sotos came to America like many Cubans who wanted to get away from the oppression of the Castro regime. When Castro came to power, Emilio was Regional Director of the U.S. Information Service in Havana, and a natural "political enemy" of Castro. "Many times I was taken to jail and questioned," said Emilio, "and Lida would not know where I was or when I would be back."

The situation became intolerable, so they applied to leave Cuba. "We were lucky. We were able to leave with our family. Many families were split up because Castro's officials would hold one or two back." Lida was pregnant with their third daughter, Jacqueline, who was born a few months after they arrived in Miami.

Their oldest daughter, Hilda, is now studying at the University of Arizona and number two daughter, Lourdes, is a sophomore at O.D.U. Jacqueline, now a pretty, dark-haired teenager, attends the ninth grade at Independence.

The Sotos had an advantage most of the Cuban refugees didn't have. Before gaining his position with USIS, Emilio had been offered a chance to tour the U.S. on a scholarship from the U.S. State Department. For six months Emilio and Lida toured the U.S., learning the language, customs and regions. "We didn't have any trouble adjusting," said Lida.

Emilio's profession was journalism, but with the Cuban refugees pouring into Miami, there wasn't any work. He turned to teaching as a second career, which is how they ended up in Iowa.

Eventually, at the urging of a childhood friend, Dr. Jose Simon, a Spanish professor at O.D.U., the Sotos applied for teaching positions with the Virginia Beach school system in the summer of 1976. Both were accepted; Emilio was assigned to Bayside Junior High and Lida to Independence Junior High.

The Sotos love Virginia Beach. "It (the city) gives us the opportunity to show our cultural backgrounds. We like the society, the environment, the teachers, the principals, the students. We feel very happy here," they both say emphatically.

Jackie echoes her parents' feelings about Virginia Beach. Both of the Sotos say not many people know what is going on in Cuba under Castro. "Sometimes, when I get side-tracked, I will tell my students some of the things that happened to us back then, and they are really interested," remarked Lida. "In fact, they are amazed. None of them were born when we came to this country."

Emilio and Lida are here to stay: they are U.S. citizens and very proud of it; they've just bought a house in Windsor Woods; and they love teaching...especially in Virginia Beach.

PROPOSED HIGHWAY PROJECT
LYNNHAVEN PARKWAY
CITY OF VIRGINIA BEACH

A Location and Design Public Hearing will be held by a representative of the Virginia Department of Highways and Transportation on January 4, 1976, at 7:30 P.M. in the Holland Road Elementary School Auditorium located at 3540 Holland Road in Virginia Beach, for the purpose of considering the proposed location and design of Lynnhaven Parkway from 0.10 mile north of Holland Road to 0.06 mile east of Kings Arms Drive, in the City of Virginia Beach.

All interested parties are urged to attend and give the Department the benefit of their comments and suggestions relative to the proposed highway improvement.

Maps, drawings, and other information are available for public review and copying in the Department of Highways and Transportation District Office located at 1700 North Main Street in Suffolk, in its Resident Office located at the intersection of Business Route 13 (Military Highway) and Route 168 in Chesapeake, and in the office of the Director of Public Works for the City of Virginia Beach.

Representatives of the Department will be present at the Holland Elementary School from 5:00 to 7:30 P.M. on the evening of the hearing, for an informal review of available information by interested citizens. All interested parties are encouraged to review the proposed project in the formal hearing.

Written statements and other exhibits relative to the proposed project may be presented in place of, or in addition to, oral statements at the hearing. Such written statements and exhibits may also be submitted to the Department at any time within ten days after the public hearing.

At this location and design public hearing, relocation assistance programs and tentative schedules for right-of-way acquisition and construction will also be discussed.

For approved and Transportation Commission at Virginia Beach.

The Virginia Beach Jaycees announced and honored the recipients of its Outstanding Young Awards for 1975, Nov. 22 at a banquet held at the Black Angus Restaurant.

The Outstanding Young Awards are given annually to those young citizens of Virginia Beach between the ages of 18 and 35 who have contributed significantly to their profession, community and city.

Those honored were: Alfred T. "Skip" Wilkins Jr. as Outstanding Young Man; Donald H. Harsley as Outstanding Young Farmer; Donald L. Harvey as Outstanding Young Educator; Kaye Mitchell as Outstanding Young Woman; and Jimmy W. Mobley as Outstanding Young Law Enforcement Officer.

Skip Wilkins is currently director of the Crisis Intervention Home where he deals primarily with teenagers and their parents. A quadriplegic himself, Skip is well-known in the Beach community for his assistance and encouragement to the handicapped and the personal example he sets for other handicapped people. He holds three U.S. records for wheelchair athletics.

A former All-Tidewater halfback and track star and 1967 Athlete of the Year, Skip graduated from Princess Anne High School and later from Virginia Wesleyan College. He is presently working toward his masters degree at Old Dominion University. Wilkins is a member of and Sunday school teacher at the Virginia Beach Community Chapel; and he was a former president of the Tidewater Chapter of Fellowship of Christian Athletes, currently serving as a state representative for that organization.

Donald H. Harsley, Outstanding Young Farmer, is 30, married to the former Diane Frost and has one son. A graduate of Virginia Tech in 1970 with a bachelor of science degree in animal science, Harsley has operated and farmed with his father-in-law, Ralph L. Frost of Land of Promise Farms, located in the Blackwater Borough of Virginia Beach. They raise hogs and grow corn, soy beans and wheat.

Harsley's interest in community and human growth, as well as agricultural growth, is revealed by his involvement in community affairs. He is chairman of the Young Farmers Committee of the Farm Bureau as well as a member of the Board of Directors of the Farm Bureau. In addition he is Vice-president and President-elect of the Crockett Buritan Club and a volunteer for the 4-H Club. He is a member of the agriculture committee to the Chamber of Commerce and was past president of the Port Producers Association of Virginia Beach. Harsley attends Bethlehem Christian Church.

Outstanding Young Educator Donald L. Harvey is the assistant principal of Princess Anne Junior High School. As an assistant principal his duties were directed at the "problem areas" of school. One such problem was the disciplinary technique of out-of-school suspension which granted the misbehaving or poor department child the punishment of a one-to-three day bar from attending classes.

Harvey termed this traditional sanction "legalized truancy" due to the fact that many parents work and the suspended child would be totally unsupervised-left to roam the streets. In response to this situation, Harvey and William Moosha, present special assistant for program development of the city of Virginia Beach, combined their efforts and co-authored the in-school suspension program. The program called for the suspension of the suspended student in an "isolated situation." The void of traditional suspension was filled with academic assignments and work geared to developing practical skills in the student.

The program has received praise from many groups throughout the state, including the Virginia Beach School Board, Virginia Department of Education, probation officers and judges. Several school systems, both inside and outside Virginia, have adopted the program for utilization in their schools.

Mrs. Crist

Winners of the Outstanding Young Awards sponsored by the Virginia Beach Jaycees were Outstanding Young Educator Donald L. Harvey, Outstanding young Law Enforcement Officer Jimmy W. Mobley, Outstanding Young Woman Kaye Mitchell and Outstanding Young Farmer Donald H. Harsley.

During the two prior seasons, Harvey has coached in the Kempville Recreation Association Football League. Two articles by Harvey have appeared in education journals; and at the present time he is at work on an evaluation of the in-school suspension program to be published in the spring of 1976.

Kaye Mitchell, Outstanding Young Woman, is married to Everett A. Mitchell Jr. and has one child. She is involved with the daughter of the American Revolution. Under her leadership, her chapter has been recognized not only on the local and state levels, but also on the National Awards in this organization and has helped organize and held offices in the children of the American Revolution Chapter. Mitchell is also involved with the Princess Anne Garden Club, the PTA Girls in Action and Thalia Lym Baptist Church.

Outstanding Young Law Enforcement Officer Jimmy Mobley, 35, has distinguished himself as a member of the Virginia Beach Police Force since Dec. 1967. Many of Virginia Beach citizens know officer Mobley from his daily radar traffic reports on WYAB radio in Virginia Beach.

He is presently a senior at Old Dominion University where he is majoring in criminal justice. In addition to attending numerous police schools, officer Mobley is involved in many professional organizations and has been very active in coaching community league football.

Lt. Governor - elect Chuck Robb was the guest speaker at the awards banquet held by the Virginia Beach Jaycees.

Machines available

Massey-Ferguson's line of industrial machinery is now available for sale and service through L. B. Smith Inc.'s Virginia Beach branch office, located at 600 South Military Highway.

The Virginia Beach dealer will market Massey-Ferguson's line of industrial machinery including backhoes, bulldozers, rough terrain forklifts, industrial wheel loaders and industrial crawlers.

R. W. Nesbit is president of L. B. Smith Inc. of Virginia, and G. D. Tyler is general manager and vice president of the eastern Virginia branches.

Campbell-Crist are married

Karen Ann Campbell and William Conrad Crist were united in marriage on Nov. 22 at 6 p.m.

The wedding took place at historic Old Donation Episcopal Church with the Reverend and Beverly D. Tucker officiating and the Reverend Robert B. Newland, St. Alden's Episcopal Church, the celebrant of holy communion.

The Victorian style gown was designed by the bride and executed by her mother. It was fashioned of blue cashmere and silk organza and trimmed with 36 yards of hand-tatted silk lace.

The sash bodice was cut away to reveal high-necked Victorian blouse of silk organza with shepherdess sleeves ending in long pointed cuffs. The sash skirt and train were overlaid with a wide border of silk organza. The lace scrollwork design on the border was inspired by an heirloom necklace worn by the bride.

Her satin Camelot cap with lace medallions caught long English illusion veil and face veil edged with lace.

Ms. Campbell wore her great-grandmother's gold wedding ring on her right hand. She carried the groom's great-grandfather's Bible covered with matching satin and lace and topped by a small spray of lilies of the valley, stephanotis and pale pink roses with ivory foliage.

The flowers were made of candy clay by the bride's mother and father.

Laura Pickett of Virginia Beach was the maid of honor.

Her gown was of light Victorian rose brocade and trimmed with crystal beads at neck and cuffs. The gown had an Empire bodice, a free flowing waltz sweep in back and long pointed sleeves.

The bridesmaid's gowns were of the same design as the maid of honor's, but fashioned in Victorian rose satin with crystal bead trim. The attendants were Marie

Johnson, of Kallispell, Montana; Lane Campbell of Atlanta, Georgia and Mary Suzanne Aller of Columbus, Ohio. All attendants carried frosted stemmed candleholders trimmed with matching sprays of candy clay roses made by the bride.

Kitty Reed was the flower girl, daughter of Mrs. Camille Reed of Virginia Beach. Her long gown was made of palest pink taffeta brocade with log-of-mutton sleeves. She carried a candlelight basket trimmed in pink roses and she scattered rose petals before the bride.

The ring bearer was Steven Decker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Decker of Virginia Beach. His pale blue tuxedo suit was designed with short pants.

The groom and his attendants wore dove gray with pale pink boutonnieres. The best man was Lawrence Corra of Lynchburg, and the ushers were Peter Landry of Roanoke, Joseph B. Crist, of Colonial Heights, Kevin S. Campbell of Homestead, Florida, Kenneth M. Campbell of Tallahassee, Florida and Paul Ridley of Ann Arbor Michigan.

The reception was held in the bride's home and catered by her mother. The wedding cake was done with rolled fondant icing and decorated with Australian type lace frosting.

Mrs. Crist graduated from VPI in 1975 with a bachelors in Biology and is presently at the Medical College of Virginia.

The groom holds bachelors and master degrees from VPI and is presently employed by the Chesterfield County School System.

The bride is the daughter of L. CDR. (USN retired) and Mrs. Kenneth C. Campbell of Virginia Beach. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Carter Crist of Colonial Heights, Virginia.

Student wins scholarship

Marcy McGinnis of Virginia Beach has won the Century III Leaders Scholarship competition, at Kempville High School.

The 16-year-old senior is now eligible to compete with other high school seniors throughout Virginia for one of two $1,000 scholarships and also for $10,000 national scholarship that will be awarded in a conference of state winners in historic Colonial Williamsburg.

Miss McGinnis is on the Honor Roll at Kempville

High, a member of the National Honor Society, and a semi-finalist in this year's National Merit Scholarship competition. She plans to attend the College of William and Mary and major in either science or mathematics.

Runners-up in the competition at Kempville High School are Joyce Crabtree and Kevin Platte, both 17.

Miss McGinnis is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. McGinnis, 5106 Hemlock Avenue.

Craft program set

The Great Neck branch of the Virginia Beach Public Library will present a "Holiday Craft Demonstration" for persons of all ages on Dec. 7, at 7:30 p.m.

At this time Hester Meacham and Marilyn Spaul will conduct the program by demonstrating some easy and inexpensive ways to make beautiful Christmas decorations. Some of the decorations that will be made are ribbon frames, dough wreaths and quilted pot-holders.

This program is free and does not require registration.

For further information contact Debbie Carter at 481-6094.

Arrow of Light ceremony held

Cub Scout Pack 419, meeting at Malibu Elementary School, recently featured the impressive Arrow of Light ceremony. The members of webelos one Den explained the requirements that must be met to obtain this award, the highest award in the cub scout program and the only one that carries over into boy scouts.

Bryan Foster, son of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Foster Jr., received the Arrow of Light award in this ceremony. He also received the webelos badge and the geologist activity pin. He was graduated from the cub scouts into boy scouts. John Martin, den chief, and David Martin, webelos one den club master, presented the awards.

Other awards were as follows: new cub scouts, Ronnie Norton, Randy Norton, and Daniel Kluskey from Den Four received webelos badge. Thomas Martin of Den Two received four arrow points. A one-year pin and a silver arrow point went to Danny Hinson of Den Three.

From Webelos Den One, Ronnie Bobbitt received his webelos badge and geologist activity pin. Mike Prather received the webelos badge and the geologist and athlete activity pins. The bear badge, gold and silver arrow points, and athlete and geologist activity pins were presented to Tim Barringer. Mike Alish, Jim Martin, and George Rosen received a athlete and geologist activity pins. Robbie Thompson received the geologist activity pin.

Dependents hold party

A Christmas party for the dependents of USS America and Carrier Air Wing Six will be held Saturday Dec. 3 at the Aerodrome Club on N.A.S. Norfolk. The party, beginning at 12:30 p.m. and running until 4 p.m. will feature entertainment, refreshments and an opportunity for families to video tape Christmas greetings to their Navyman aboard USS America. For further information contact the Commander, Naval Air Force, U.S. Atlantic Fleet Public Affairs Office at 444-3373/4.

Winter registration begins

Starting Nov. 21, new and continuing students can register for winter quarter classes at any of the locations of Tidewater Community College.

Admissions Offices will be open for application and registration each weekday from 9 a.m. to 3:45 p.m. and 5:30 p.m. to 7 p.m. Monday through Thursday evenings.

To meet the increased interest in college courses, an expanded schedule of classes is offered at neighborhood locations throughout the community. Courses are also offered at the Norfolk Naval Station, Little Creek Amphibious Base, Norfolk Naval Shipyard, and other installations.

Early registration is encouraged for the winter classes which will begin January 4. The college will be closed Dec. 23 through Jan. 2. For information concerning registration and classes, call any location of Tidewater Community College.

Movies show at library

The branches of the Virginia Beach Public Library will present special holiday craft programs for young people throughout the month of December. All of these programs are limited in number of participants and all programs require pre-registration. In some cases, the parent's signature is required on the registration form.

The schedule of the programs is as follows: Virginia Beach Branch: Tuesday, Dec. 6 and Thursday, Dec. 8 from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. for ages 6 to 10. Limited to 25. Children will make holiday dough decorations. Attendance at both sessions is necessary for completion of decorations after baking.

Bayside Branch: Monday, Dec. 12 and Wednesday, Dec. 14 from 7 to 8:30 p.m. for grades one - six. Limited classes. Registration ends Dec. 7.

Kempville Branch: Wednesday, Dec. 14 from 3:30 to 5 p.m. for ages six to 14. Limited to 50. Registration begins Dec. 1.

Windsor Woods Branch: Friday, Dec. 16 from 3:30 to 4:45 p.m. for ages nine to 12. Limited to 25. Registration by parent begins Dec. 1.

Great Neck Branch: Tuesday, Dec. 20 at 4 p.m. for ages five to 11. Limited to 15. Registration by parent begins December 12 and ends Dec. 19.

No phone registrations will be taken for any of these programs and there is no charge for any of these programs. If materials are needed by the young people, they will be notified when they register for the program. Most of the craft programs do not require the young people to bring any materials.

For further information, contact Ann Scott, children's coordinator, at 340-2397.

Party for the Nimitz

A Christmas party for the dependents of USS Nimitz and Carrier Air Wing 16 will be held Saturday Dec. 10 at the Aerodrome Club on N.A.S. Norfolk.

The party, beginning at 1 p.m. and running until 4 p.m. will feature entertainment, refreshments and opportunity for families to video tape Christmas greetings to their Navyman aboard USS Nimitz. For further information contact the Commander, Naval Air Force, U.S. Atlantic Fleet Public Affairs Office at 444-3373/4.

It's time for books

It's that time of year again when children's minds are grasping for new knowledge and enjoyment. There's better way to allow them to grow than through the wonder of words of reading.

This year the Troutwood Elementary School, Dec. through the 8th, Monday through Thursday the books will be on sale from 9 am to 2:30 pm and on Friday from 9 am to 12 noon.

The books will be available for purchase at the school, in the front foyer. This would be an excellent chance to buy a worthwhile Christmas gift. Proceeds from this sale go into the General Library Fund.

Minister conducts service

On Thursday, Dec. 1 at 8 p.m. Rev. Floyd Baker will conduct a Miracle Service at St. Nicholas Catholic Church, 944 Little Neck Road in Virginia Beach. His service will be presented by the Spirit of Jesus prayer community.

States where the audiences numbered in the thousands.

In 1977 he resigned his post at CBN to resume his independent ministry with Miracle Ministries, Inc. At the same time he became the pastor of the Church of New Life, a nondenominational church in Portsmouth, Virginia.

Rev. Baker is known to many because of his radio and T.V. broadcasts that reach nearly 30 million people. He has been asked to share his testimony and hold miracle services at many Full Gospel Business Men's meetings, regional conventions, and in many mainline denominational churches, both Catholic and Protestant throughout the country.

During the year of 1976 Rev. Baker was appointed staff evangelist for the Christian Broadcasting Network, with headquarters in Virginia Beach and studios in Portsmouth. In this capacity he traveled to many major cities in the United

New York. Soon after he founded Miracle Ministries, with headquarters in Syracuse.

The public is cordially invited to attend the Miracle Service at St. Nicholas Church. Anyone wanting more information may contact Jim Monag of the Spirit of Jesus Prayer Community at 340-9093.

Children store opens

Stopping flowers, an apparel store for children and instant, opened its doors at 24 in Fairhead Shopping Center in Virginia Beach.

Sixth graders compete

Students of Annette Mand's sixth grade class at Hebrew Academy of Tidewater in Virginia Beach, are official entrants in a world-wide economics contest.

The contest, sponsored by Wheelabrator-Frye of Hampton, NH, is based on "The Golden Goose," a special annual report written in simplified language for young people. The contest will test students' knowledge of how business works and produces jobs.

Fifty winning classes will each receive a cash prize of $100. Each school and teacher who produces a winning class will also win a special trophy and prize.

Robotics is a very old science; as old as legend itself. Some interpretations of the Genesis story hint that humankind itself is a bio-engineered species.

As controversial as these views are, they are certainly understandable in the light that the human has made repeated efforts to design anthropomorphic surrogates to serve him in his unceasing combat with the laws of Entropy.

Others receive credit for outstanding success

By JOAN COATES
SUN News Editor

"Anything outstanding in me is not in me," said the outstanding young man of Virginia Beach, Skip Wilkins. "I came to a revelation of reality that anything outstanding in me... is strongly representative of those who developed me."

Wilkins, who felt "excited" and "very honored that they would consider me," was selected the Outstanding Young Man of 1977 by the Virginia Beach Jaycees, Nov. 22.

"I started examining why I would be outstanding," he said. After a thorough self-evaluation, Wilkins decided that others were the root of his success.

"First there was my parents who raised me," Wilkins said. Although headminded to not being a perfect child, "I was mischievous," he said his parents used a lot of discipline and love.

"They were the greatest of psychologists. They did everything with consistency and love," he said. Their faith in God held us together. Wilkins is presently working towards his masters in psychology at Old Dominion.

Athletics have always been a part of Wilkins life and strangely were the catalyst for the direction of his life. "I wanted sports as a goal since I was small," he said. But when he was 17 and seemed to have everything, "scholarships, money, jobs, girls," he was involved in a water skiing accident that broke his neck. As a result of the accident, he is now a quadriplegic.

"My family didn't panic," Wilkins recalled. "There was no sense of why... We all felt there was a purpose... and held our beliefs that there is a God who loves us."

The older brother to three sisters, Wilkins feels his sisters are another factor in helping him develop. "After the accident they taught me. One sister drove me to school every day," he said. "My sisters had to give up the normal needs of children that age... for me."

"And my grandparents gave of themselves too," Wilkins emphasized. "They gave a certain amount of allowance... enough for me to carry on a normal life. It was a sacrifice of themselves... that's love."

A born again Christian, Wilkins is married to a nurse. "On the first date I knew she was the girl I'd marry. Three months later, I asked her to marry me."

"She's always backed me in everything I've done. It's always 'should we do it for us.' It's never a question of whether it's 'for you or me.' Her support... this is what is outstanding."

"My family didn't panic. There was no sense of why. We all felt there was a purpose..."

Homes found for 21 puppies

The SUN Freebee ads have done it again. This time they helped Mrs. Robert J. Buchanan find homes for 21 puppies.

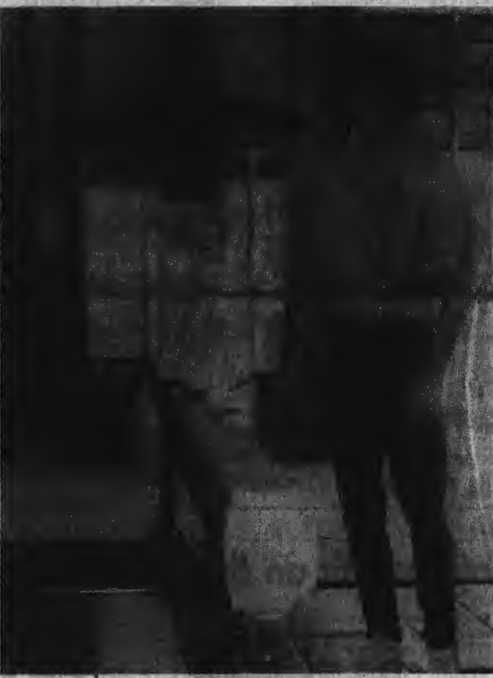

The Buchanans placed a Freebee ad for a litter of 11 half Irish setter, half labrador puppies in September. When all the puppies were given away, Mrs. Buchanan forgot to cancel the ad.

But the Buchanans had another dog with a litter of puppies on the way. Ten more puppies of the same mix breed were soon born and inquiries about the original ad served to find homes for this second batch.

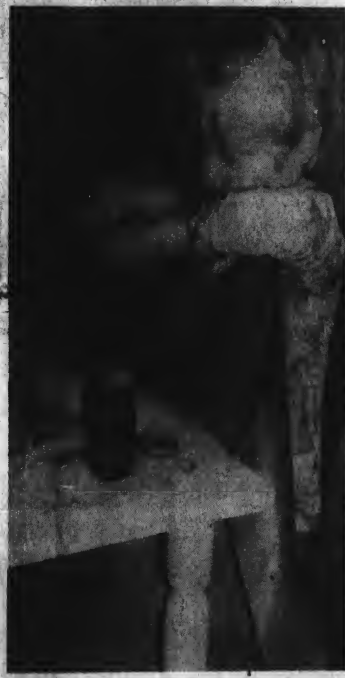

The last puppy was given away this week, thanks to the SUN Freebee ad.

Service held for survivors

On Sunday, Dec. 11, at 2:30 p.m., memorial services will be held for the Pearl Harbor Survivors Association for their fallen shipmates. The services will be held at the Amphibious Base Little Creek Chapel. The public is invited.

Auerback to speak

Sports Jamboree is coming

The Virginia Beach Sports Club announced its plans for its 1978 Silver Anniversary Jamboree. The Jamboree will be held at the Mariner Resort Inn, Virginia Beach, on Monday night Jan. 30, 1978.

The main speaker will be Red Auerback, president and general manager of the Boston Celtics.

A fierce competitor whose run-ins with officials are now legendary, Auerback is also basketball's foremost ambassador. His trips on behalf of the U.S. State Department have taken him to every corner of the globe.

Red, who has a reluctance to appear at banquets, agreed to come out of friendship for his long time friend, Al Rothenberg, chairman of this year's Jamboree, who announced that for the first time ladies will be invited to the Jamboree. Tickets are $12 and can be obtained through Bill Holland at the Virginia Beach Dome 428-8000. Attendance at the banquet will be limited to 370 persons.

At the same time it was announced that the master of ceremonies will be Mike Barrett, Gold Medal winner of the 1968 Olympic Games and one of the most popular players of the Virginia Squires.

Auerback is a graduate of George Washington University and was stationed in Norfolk during World War II. He was the baseball coach of a Navy team that included Phil Rizzuto and Yogi Berra.

When the NBA was organized in 1946, Red was the coach of one of the original franchises, the Washington Caps, and he immediately won his division. Four years later he began his association with the Boston Celtics that in the next 16 years as coach would bring the single most incre-

Beach futurists tap world perspective

By RHONDA MILLER
SUN Staff Writer

On the Virginia Beach border, a look at the frontiers of the future took place Friday at Tidewater's first "Future Forum," held at Virginia Wesleyan College.

Virginia Beach councilwoman Myra Oberndorf, in advocating a more humanistic city government of the future, said that the "raising and dashing of citizen's expectations is one of the most inhumane municipal practices ever evolved."

"The raising and dashing of a citizen's expectations is one of the most inhumane municipal practices ever evolved," Councilwoman Myra Oberndorf on his investment," and that she, personally, doesn't always accept the recommendations of the city planning commission.

Oberndorf was featured at the forum, along with Georgetown professor and "futurologist" Dr. Victor Ferkias. Ferkias explored the problems of today's society that must be put into a future-oriented perspective in order to come up with guidelines for an orderly and free society. "We face a critical shortage of capital in the United States," he said, and a scarcity of resources that he said may be a "period when the utopian drive has reached a climax."

Futuristic perspective is sometimes accused of leading to a manipulated society, said Ferkias, but he stressed the importance of avoiding chaotic development in order not to become a slave to its momentum.

A group of about 125 people attended the morning forum, made up mainly of students and professors, including the youngest group from the Holyroth Academy of Tidewater. The forum was partially funded by a grant from the Virginia Foundation for the Humanities and Public Policy, and organized in coordination with the World Future Society. It included nine workshop sessions on government, education, land use, aged, arts, crime, bio-ethics, business and film.

Prof. Dora Dobrin, director of the forum said that the conference "was to address the lack of future-consciousness and the extreme confusion we are in regarding our values, to speak to the need to plan and to construct a future oriented toward human values."

The forum was free and open to the public.

Ferkias is the author of several books, including "Futurology--Promise, Performance, Prospects," "The Future of Technological Civilization," "The Shape of the Future," and others on foreign and national government and culture.

"We cannot escape change," he said. "We have to get some kind of a handle on change."

Thermal pollution is the world's major problem, he said, and added that implications are that things like home auto mechanics may become non-existent in order to assure that anti-pollution devices be left on cars.

Club presents wreath

The history and making of Della Robbia wreaths was presented to the Laurel Cove Garden Club by Mrs. H. O. Freeman at the November meeting. The Club purchased the completed wreath and Connie Brown was the winner in a drawing. Among the artistic design exhibits were:

The next meeting will be the Christmas party at the home of the club president, Regina Howard. dley, "an arrangement using fresh or dried fruits and vegetables; and, "Indian Summer", which used various forms of dried materials in wreaths or decoration.

Thanks to the media

Editor, Virginia Beach SUN:

Whereas, the Tidewater area media has served the South-eastern Virginia citizens with dedicated coverage of the critical water shortage during 1977; and

Whereas, extensive publication of practicable, voluntary water conservation techniques, as well as related city ordinances have kept citizens informed of ways to alleviate the water crisis; and

Whereas, the aggressive role of media coverage evoked citizen concern and cooperative action, which proved most effective in controlling wasteful water usage; and

Whereas, the Southeastern Public Service Authority of Virginia desires to extend its gratitude to the Tidewater area media in recognition of commendatory public service;

Now, therefore, be it resolved, that the Southeastern Public Service Authority of Virginia shall and hereby does express its appreciation to the Tidewater area media, who, through superior journalism helped accomplish effective water conservation for the area.

Be sure of Montessori

Editor, Virginia Beach SUN:

It is appropriate at this time to notify you and your readers that there are several Montessori schools in the Tidewater area that are well established and productive in this community. They are: Montessori Children's House and Montessori Children's World; both founded in 1972 and Montessori Christian School (1973).

All of these schools are owned by women who live in this area, and none of the above mentioned schools had any connection with Tidewater Montessori or Montessori Schools of Tidewater which were closed by their owner Arthur L. Reed.

People should be aware that just because the name Montessori appears in a title of a school it does not mean that it is under one large organization's heading or ownership. Maria Montessori's name was never patented before she died in 1952, so the public should not only make sure that the school which carries her name is equipped properly, but has a Montessori certified director.

We understand that the parents of the now defunct schools are glad to attempt to stay together. We wish them well and know that they will find support from the other operating schools in the community.

Appreciation from CARE

Editor, Virginia Beach SUN:

As the holidays approach, we want to express our deep appreciation to the press for its invaluable coverage of CARE's work overseas. The media's warm and vocal support of CARE programs of assistance to the poorest of the poor in Africa, Asia, Latin America and the Middle East over the years has carried the story of CARE to the American people. Their enthusiastic response has provided real help and hope to millions of poor people in developing countries.

Although the needs of the poor are many and the remedies diverse, food is the core of both immediate help and long-range planning. CARE must raise $6.5 million in this year's Holiday Food Crusade to provide nourishing food to more than 25 million people, most of them children.

A farmer whose family is hungry today is in no position to learn ways to improve next year's harvest. To feed that family without offering a way out of the cycle of poverty is only half the answer. Helping people to work toward self-sufficiency is central to CARE's integrated approach to feeding and development. Projects include helping families grow more food themselves, construction of water systems, schools, nutrition and health centers, farm-to-market roads and setting up small industries.

CARE is supported by public donations supplemented by U.S. Government Food-for-Peace commodities and host government contributions. Last year each dollar donated to CARE by the public provided more than nine dollars' worth of aid.

Again, our heartfelt appreciation for your past support. Our staff across the country and around the world joins me in sending you and your staff our warmest season's greetings and best wishes for the New Year.

Veteran appeals to SUN

Editor, Virginia Beach SUN:

I lived in Virginia Beach in 1952 for 11 months. I am a 53-year-old disabled veteran of World War II and was wounded three times in action in the Battle of the Bulge. I have had seven operations and had my left leg amputated and still still four more operations afterward. I had my right leg amputated in my right leg and had to have my right leg amputated also just last year. I now have a liver ailment.

It would make me very happy if you would publish my letter in the SUN. It would make me very glad to receive get well cards or Christmas cards from your readers to help cheer me up these long dreary days. Receiving mail makes me happy and it gives me something to look forward to. Thank you.

A look at smoke detectors

Once you have made that important lifesaving decision to buy a smoke detector, the second and equally important decision to make is where to install it in your home.

The improper placement of a smoke detector in your home can render it totally ineffective. When installing a smoke detector, here are some guidelines to follow: If you have only one detector, it should be placed between the bedrooms and the remainder of the dwelling. If you have more than one area of the home which is used for sleeping, then each area should be protected by a detector.

There should be a detector located on each level of a dwelling. Example: one story home with basement two detectors; two story home, two detectors; two story home with basement, three detectors.

The detector should be located on the ceiling or, if installed on a side wall, six to twelve inches below the ceiling. When locating detectors, avoid the "dead air" spaces in high corners.

Do not place smoke detectors within three feet of an air supply register or between furnace air returns and the sleeping area as they may cause a delay in detecting a fire.

Once your smoke detector is properly installed, it should receive regular maintenance and testing. Your owner's manual should be consulted to determine what type of maintenance is required and how often maintenance should be performed.

Maintenance for AC powered units may consist of only an occasional vacuuming. Maintenance for battery powered units is just as simple, however, battery units require an additional and very important step, the battery must be replaced at regular intervals. If you have a battery powered unit, choose a prominent day during the year (a holiday, birthday, etc.) to replace the battery.

Testing the unit is a simple process. Many detectors have "power on" lights to let you know there is current going to the unit; some have test buttons so you can check the power and horn on the detector. However, even if your detector is equipped with a test button, at least once a month or anytime you have been away from home for an extended period, check the detector using smoke. This will alleviate any doubt about the detector working in the event of a fire. Proper installation, maintenance, and regular testing will ensure that the detector will operate properly.

Losing at parking

Virginia Beach has one heck of a parking problem. And somehow it always comes back to me.

I live in a small apartment complex with no more than five buildings. Each building has four apartments. Most of the tenants are calm, respectable folk who try to get along with their neighbors.

The main problem we have as tenants is the parking problem. Due to lack of surrounding space as well as being close to the ocean, there is only one parking space per apartment. The majority of the apartments need three or four spaces just to accommodate the tenants...much less the guests.

Last week-end was a case in point. Friday night, I came home ready to relax from work. Someone had parked their car in my space so I forgivably parked in the space next to mine.

Joan Coates

I had just taken my coat off when someone began knocking at my door. It was my "across the hall" neighbor. "It's okay for you to park in my space," he reassured me, "because I'm in your space." I could suddenly feel my mouth drop open.

He went on to tell me that since he and his wife had lived in the complex for 22 years, they were entitled to two parking spaces. Bewildered, I asked him when I would be entitled to one. He informed me pleasantly that he would be leaving town for three months and I could have one of his. I hadn't been back in my apartment five minutes when I heard another knock on my door. This time it was my upstairs neighbor. "If you don't move your car out of my daughter's space, I'll have it moved", was what greeted me when I opened my door.

Trying to explain that my other neighbor had said it was alright to park where I was, a woman in a giant car (the daughter) jumped out of her car. "This has been mine for 14 years," she yelled.

After I promised to never park in her spot again, we all became buddies. I surmised that perhaps parking wouldn't be so bad when our other neighbor left town. "Honey, it gets worse in the summer with people trying to park close to the beach," she reassured me, and Mrs. Michael Her father suggested that I park in someone else's spot on the other side of the complex, where he did. I decided to give it a try.

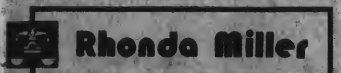

The next morning, I awoke to a irate woman who had located me through the Division of Motor Vehicles. You'd better move your car," she threatened. "The landlord is getting ready to tow it." Sometimes you just can't win.

Mailbox stir on 65th Street

Mailing a letter was once an easy task. It's getting tougher at the north end of the Beach these days.

Approaching what seemed to be an average mailbox (from a distance) a bill payment was sent off with a sigh of relief. (It's always a great lightening experience to pay one of those hanging-on debts.)

Checking the pick-up time—there wasn't any pick-up time. Suddenly the mailbox appeared to be in suspicious disrepair.

Panic set in: Maybe this mailbox isn't in operating condition. That bill may never get to its destination to be paid. Woe is that hard-won credit rating. Just what makes for an operational mailbox anyway?

Panic changed to anger. Anger changed to action. A call to Seapines post office settled the whole ordeal.

Yes, mail was picked up every day from the box on 65th Street. It should be repaired. (Peeling paint isn't aesthetically pleasing on a mailbox anyway.) The message would be relayed to the manager.

Mailboxes usually don't create much of a stir, and the 65th Street one wouldn't have either, had it not been for the shiny, deposit-from-your-car box on 79th Street. After the glamour of that new one, the older ones just seem to lose their sparkle.

Council questions water hook-ups

By LEE CAHILL
SUN Public Affairs Writer

The City of Virginia Beach is trying to determine whether it would lose sufficient revenues to justify retention of its mandatory hook-up requirements.

Asked to make a cost study of the matter by Mayor Clarence A. Holland Monday, City Manager George L. Hanbury said that the report would be ready by the Dec. 12 meeting.

Hanbury asked whether it would be possible to require tenants who pay for the front footage water line and the basement sanitary line, but do not allow them the use of their water, to make a water fire protection and higher water rates. Willing for the property owners.

Hanbury said that the city's ordinance requires a physical connection to the water supply, but that the property owner is allowed to use water if he desires.

Hanbury said that he would like to know what the assumption would be for people who would be required to hook-up to city water and to determine how much the city would be losing in water fees if property owners continued to use wells.

The discussion arose during the consideration of an ordinance formally extending the mandatory hook-up deadline from Feb. 7, 1978 to May 1, 1978 commensurate with the period of the water conservation program initiated Futures Forum...

Oberdorfer, said she spoke as an idealist looking into the future, but one who was slightly "bruised and battered by the real world."

Society must regain the precise use of language, she said, to do away with misunderstanding, as often evidenced in the political area.

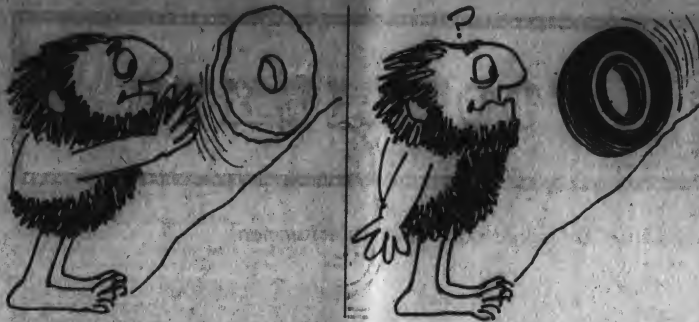

Beach police told Council that the July 4th incident was not a "riot" but "a spontaneous outburst of aggression."

When speaking of the July 4th "riot" of two years ago at Virginia Beach, she said, city council was told by police reports that the July 4th incident was not a riot, but "a spontaneous outburst of aggression," and an "exuberance of youthful enthusiasm."

That misuse of language is "cheap, dishonest, and perpetuates a myth," said Oberdorfer.

Virginia Beach city government of the future should make detailed declaration of its services along with their justifications. Also included should be the city's expectations of its residents.

One of the outgrowths of the forum could be the formation of a Tidewater chapter of the World Future Society.

Contractor dispute arises

By LEE CAHILL
SUN Public Affairs Writer

Only contractors registered with the State Board of Contractors are permitted to contract for jobs greater than $30,000 under state law.

Virginia Beach Councilman John A. Baum Monday afternoon asked whether that figure was unrealistically low in view of current prices. He noted that the matter might be discussed with Tidewater legislators next Monday morning when council presents its legislative proposals to the delegation.

Contractors need experience to get registered and need to be registered to get work or experience.

The question grew out of a controversy over bidding procedures for the Social Service Building--the renovation of the old Miller's Department Store.

Meredith Construction Company, Inc., submitted the low bid of $656,998 which was accepted by council Monday after being advised by city attorney Dale Blinson that the city was acting legally in making the award.

The second and third low bids, W. S. Meadows Engineering, Inc., and W. H. Belanga and Associates, Inc., had argued that the city should reject the Meredith bid because the company had not complied with the law. Since the project is federally funded the contractor is required to use minority subcontractors for at least 10 percent of the total project, or in this case, $100,000.

Meredith includes minority contractors, but had them down for over $30,000 jobs. The state prohibits the use of contractors who are not registered with the State Board of Contractors for jobs over $30,000. The minority contractors included by Meredith were not registered. As a result, Meredith will have to renegotiate bids with the minority contractors so that he will be complying with state guidelines.

C. E. Payne, attorney for Belanga, said that if Meredith can go back and renegotiate the bid, the general contractor is put in the position of working one contractor against the other. They will underbid each other until they can't make a profit on the contract.

Minority contractors were concerned that if the minority contracts were not assured at the time of the contract award the 10 percent minority construction require-men would not be adhered to.

James Hawks had bid $29,990 on a contract, staying within the $30,000 requirement because he was not registered. "I'm not a minority," he told council. "I'm a man and I'd like to stay in business." The federal requirement gives the small man a chance to get into the construction business, he said.

Jasper T. Davis, who described himself as a housing consultant and small contractor, maintained that the general contractor should be required to state who minorities are.

Robert R. Jones, another minority contractor who had submitted a bid of $29,632 with Belanga, said that he complied with the law and then found the contract was awarded to someone else.

Public Works Director Oral Lambert said the federal government will require an audit of the job to determine whether the contractor uses a bona fide minority on the job. Information on who the minority subcontractors are will be available before the project is begun, he said. Payne said it is a case of the chicken and the egg. Contractors need experience to get registered and need to be registered to get work or experience.

W. S. Meadows said that contractors probably spent more time finding minority contractors than they did on the remainder of the contract. The total utilization of the funds revolves around the minority commitment. He said that Meredith's proposal package was incomplete and should be rejected.

Councilman Robert R. Cromwell said that the federal government is going to police the project and that whoever gets the job has to comply with the minority commitment. Since Meredith is qualified, he said, it was the Council's responsibility to award the job to the lowest bidder.

Meadows claimed that if his firm had submitted its bid on the same format as Meredith's its bid would be lower.

Bank moves

Citizens Trust Bank moved from its temporary office on Newtown Road to the Citizens Trust Bank Building, located on the same site at 6330 Newtown Road.

Just off the Norfolk-Virginia Beach Expressway, the new 6-story office building will house Citizens Trust Bank on its first floor. Mrs. Billie S. Jones, vice-president, is responsible for this office.

Bids accepted

By LEE CAHILL
SUN Public Affairs Writer

Virginia Beach City Council will meet at 12 noon Dec. 8 to receive bids for the $15,900,000 general obligation bond issue for schools, streets and highways, surface drainage systems, Lynnhaven River dredging, Municipal buildings and parks and recreation.

Tidewater representatives to the General Assembly will meet with council at an informal session on Dec. 12 from 9 to 10 a.m. to discuss legislative proposals which would benefit the beach.

At 10 a.m. that day, Dr. Arthur C. Munyan, oceanographer, will present information to council on Virginia Beach's coastline.

Dec. 12 is also a regular council meeting day and council will meet at 1 p.m.

FAITH IS AN INFALLIBLE CURE FOR SELF-PITY

The insidious disease of self-pity is one that we all contract at least once in our lives; usually following some sorrow, major disappointment or the conviction that we have failed ourselves and those around us. However, the remedy is simple and unfailing. Instead of wallowing in this morass of despair, we need only turn to faith in God in order to see the fallacy of this waste of our resources, and to divert our energies to the positive channels of helping to ease someone else's misery. So stop feeling sorry for yourself and go to your Church; you will learn that there is always someone out there who needs you -- and your help. It works every time!

Audience and judges add to the entertainment

Dick "Cowboy" Gregory was the Gong Show's M.C.

Judge Steve Holt laughs at the antics of Judge Shelly Robbins after she was booed by the audience for her low evaluation of the Powell duo. Judge Dennis Bennett manages to ignore the other judges.

"The Two Carolinas," Mandell and Mandelyn Carolinas, were top winners of the show with their dance and mime act.

In an attempt to bring live entertainment to Naval Air Station (NAS) Oceana, Aviation Ordnanceman Airman Apprentice (AOAA) Dick "Cowboy" Gregory of Attack Squadron Sixty-Five (VA-65) organized a variety road show based on the TV Gong Show. Sponsored by Special Services, the show was held recently at the station theater. As in the TV show, three judges sat on the side to evaluate performances. Lieutenant (LT) Dennis Bennett, Aviation Structural Mechanic Safety Equipment Chief (AMEC) Steve Holt, both from VA -65, and Shelly Robbins were the judges who gonged, gave points and in some instances, tries to compete with the scheduled act.

In an impromptu move by LT Bennett and Robbins, they danced during Aviation Machinist's Mate Petty Officer Second Class (AD2) Dennis Baker's performance. During a duet by Bob and Sharon Powell, "jealous" Judge Shelly Robbins had to be restrained from gonging the act by the two male judges.

Audience participation was encouraged by Master of Ceremonies Gregory. Several youngsters were brave enough to add to the entertainment. A total of nine acts participated in everything from gymnastics, piano playing, guitar, singing to school cheers and dancing.

The hit of the afternoon was Mandell and Mandelyn Carolinas who are billed as "The Two Carolinas." They do a precision dance routine which then becomes a "mime" act to music. Judges gave them a total of 30 points. Later on it took an audience vote to name them winners because of a three-way tie for first place on judges' points. "The Two Carolinas" are dependents of Aviation Ordnanceman Petty Officer Third Class (AO3) Mandell Carolinas of Fighter Squadron Eleven (VF-11).

Second place went to Bob and Sharon Powell, singing duo, with Bob on the guitar. Singer and guitarist AD2 Dennis Baker of Fighter Squadron Thirty-Three (VF-33) came in third. It took an audience vote to break the tie for second place.

Dennis Baker, guitarist and singer, was a solo act until an impromptu dance by judges Dennis Bennett and Shelly Robbins.

All American Girl pageant accepts candidates for contest

The All American Girl Pageant is now accepting candidates at large from all counties to compete in Virginia's second state pageant to be held in Roanoke, Feb. 17 - 19, at the Downtown Holiday Inn. Winners of the state pageant will represent Virginia at the National Pageant to be held in Peoria, Illinois in late August.

Contestants will compete in the following age groups: tot, ages three to six, Little Miss, ages seven to nine, Miss, ages ten to 12, Teen, ages 12 to 17, and All American Girl, ages 17 to 26.

Contestants ages three to 12 will compete in short party dress and sportswear. Contestants to ages 13 to 26 will compete in formal gowns and sportswear. All contestants, except the three's to six year olds will be judged on a talent presentation.

The talent, amateur or professional, may be anything that shows a girl's poise before an audience. Trophies will be presented for dance, baton, voice, instrumental music, gymnastics and drama. In addition an overall talent winner will be selected in each age group and will be invited to participate in the National Pageant. Beach boxing bruises bodies

SUN Staff Writer

"Hit him again." Knock him out. "You've really got his respect now, Johnny."

A bit bored by too much dancing around the ring, the Thursday night crowd at the Dome urges the boxers to get on with more flesh contact.

Van Tate, the only Virginia Beach fighter on the program, easily wore down his opponent, Joe Smith, and convinced him not to return to the ring in the fifth round. The crowd loves seeing a fading fighter just barely hanging in there. That's when the energy level picks up to leaning forward, comforting faces, groaning, waiting for a punch that brings them to an outburst.

Fairly well-behaved, in general, the Beach crowd is probably like a Sunday school compared to the smoke-filled dome of howling that usually come to mind thinking about a boxing match.

Dome boxing is a decent enough place to take a lady, though if men or women have any reservations about seeing a couple of guys getting pounded in the head, it's a better idea to go dancing at a local nightclub.

Short on the success of professional sports, Virginia Beach has recently been proud to claim boxing as a new entertainment for hungry city.

Boxing, as a sport, of course has its beauty. Lights glistering on muscles, the dance of the virility rites around a center of energy, the masculine power of total self-protection coupled with the ability to dive into the opponent's weakness.

If it weren't for the continual blows to the head, Beach boxing could grow to be a sport for a town that is ready for new dimensions. Local boxing fans already admit that a dedicated group of followers has developed and local heroes have begun to emerge.

As a social phenomenon, Beach boxing has indirect merits. It's one of the few activities, (besides the annual circus) where the crowd is racially mixed and that draws people of all ages. It is a predominantly male crowd (as evidenced by the scantily-dressed blond that designates the beginning of a new round,) but many of the women who do attend seem to be among the most ardent enthusiasts.

The fraternity of fighters which apparently exists make the whole spectacle a bit less brutal. Boxers volunteer to risk scrambled brains, bruised bodies and disgrace, whether it be for ego satisfaction, physical activity, the possibility of being "undefeatable," or the cold cash. (Like they say, the better a fighter gets, the less he gets hurt.)

The cost of $4.50 per seat earned at least one father and son to leave due to lack of funds.

Corny as it may seem, the first few blows to the head tend to register queasiness in the stomach area, in spite of the fans' protestations that the boxers really aren't getting hurt that much. (Boxers on television are far enough away not to feel the blows, but live battering of man against man for amusement has a touch of decadence.) Boxing fans are welcome to their pleasure. But when women's wrestling comes to town...now that'll be a show.

Center ring is the center of energy, as boxers, referees and coaches get ready for the fight to begin.

Readers Theatre company presents "A Christmas Carol"

The Performing Arts Unit of the Virginia Beach Department of Parks and Recreation proudly presents Charles Dickens' "A Christmas Carol," Dec. 8 - 17, 8 p.m. curtain, at the Virginia Beach Recreation Center Theatre.

"A Christmas Carol" is presented by the Readers Theatre Company who previously presented the theatre's first production, "Jonathan Livingston Seagull." Henry deShields, theatre supervisor will be directing this production.

"A Christmas Carol" will be performed Dec. 8-17, with a 3 p.m. matinee, Dec. 11. All performances are free, but reservations are requested by calling 499-1281.

Hallelujah holiday set for Dec. 18

Walter Noona

The Virginia Beach Civic Chorus, directed by Walter Noona, with the accompaniment of the Virginia Beach Pops Symphony, will present its annual Christmas concert, entitled "A Hallelujah Holiday," on Sunday, Dec. 18, at 2:30 P.M. in the Virginia Beach Dome.

The first part of the program will be the acknowledged Christmas Sections for chorus and soloists of Handel's "Messiah." The guest soloists to be featured will be Nancy Bolling, soprano; Patricia Saunders, alto; Henry Bernick, tenor and Robert Randolph, bass.

The second half, of a lighter nature, will include, "The Many Moods of Christmas" arranged by Robert Shaw and "Twas the Night Before Christmas" composed by Ken Darby. The latter, arranged by Harry Simeone, is a delightful musical rendition of the well known Clement Clarke Moore poem.

Tickets are available from any chorus member or at the Dome Box Office in advance of the concert and at the door on the day of the concert.

Bayside high performs drama

Bayside High School's Drama Department will present David Roger's modern drama, "Here and Now," on Dec. 8 and 10 in the school's auditorium.

With an increased interest in communication and human relations, people are currently becoming aware of the value of encounter groups. This play deals with the problems and discoveries of an encounter group made up of parents, students and a teacher.

Ranging in subjects from drugs to teenage suicide, the play deals with real problems experienced by today's high school students. In doing so, it makes a positive statement in favor of greater communication between the generations.

"Here and Now" takes place on a bare stage and has a cast of 16. Emphasis is placed on acting rather than production.

Under the direction of Linda Carol Cobb, the play will begin at 8 p.m. Tickets will be available at the door.

Combination of academics and gymnastics coordinate children

Benjamin Manuel, 4, has to concentrate in order to make sounds from the words in his mind.

Instructor Steve Knott, of the Montessori Children's House, explains to his students the importance of following verbal instructions during Gymstrada warm-ups.

Safety is the name of the exercise with Gymstrada— from buckling the children into their bus seats to teaching them the proper way to fall. Young children need strong minds and bodies, so the combination of Gymstrada and Montessori Children's House compliment each other beautifully.

At Montessori Children's House, the students work on building up their concentration and following through until their work is completed. The same holds true at Gymstrada since it takes a great deal of concentration to work on the balance beam, trampoline and to do tumbling exercises. Balance and co-ordination are as important to three to five-year olds as learning their phonetics. Many children cannot run, hop, skip or jump. These loco-motor skills are a must for a well rounded educated child.

Jenny Wadiak finds the trampoline a fun way to work on the skills of balance, coordination and rhythm.

VIRGINIA BEACH PUBLIC NOTICE

VIRGINIA: Notice is herein given that on Wednesday, December 7, 1977, the City of Virginia Beach shall submit to the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development a request and certification for the release of $2,280,000.00 in Entitlement Funds under Title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974. The request and certification for the release of funds pertains to the Seaback Sanitary Sewage Facility, Seaback Water Facility, Newsome Farms Water Facilities, Newlight Sanitary Sewage, Seaback Street Improvements, Newlight Street Improvements, Gracelawn Water Engineering, Grant Program, Newsome Farms Sanitary Sewage, and Contingency monies as outlined in the City's application to HUD on March 15, 1977.

The City of Virginia Beach has prepared an environmental review record respecting the above project for which the release of funds is sought. This record may be reviewed and copies obtained thereof at the Virginia Beach Grants Office from 9:00 A.M. to 5:00 P.M., Monday through Friday, at the request of the public.

The City of Virginia Beach is the official Applicant for the above-referenced funding and the address is: Municipal Center, City of Virginia Beach, Virginia 23465. George L. Hanbury, City Manager, is the Chief Executive Officer representing the Applicant.

The City of Virginia Beach will undertake the project described above with Block Grant funds from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) under Title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974. The City of Virginia Beach is certifying to HUD that the City of Virginia Beach and George L. Hanbury, in his official capacity as City Manager, consent to accept the jurisdiction of the Federal courts if an action is brought to enforce responsibilities in relation to environmental review, decision making, and action; and that these responsibilities have been satisfied. The legal effect of the certification is that upon its approval, the City of Virginia Beach may use the Block Grant funds, and HUD will have satisfied its responsibilities under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969. HUD will accept an objection to its approval of the release of funds and acceptance of the certification only if it is on one of the following bases: (A) that the certification was not in fact executed by the chief executive officer of the applicant; or (B) that applicant's environmental review record for the project indicates omission of a required decision, finding, or step applicable to the project in the environmental review process. Objections must be prepared and submitted in accordance with the required procedure (24 CFR Part 58), and may be addressed to HUD at 701 East Franklin Street, Richmond, Virginia 23219. Objections to the release of funds on bases other than those stated above will not be considered by HUD. No objection received after December 29, 1977 will be considered by HUD.

Derrick Nottingham of Bryn Mawr Lane, Denise Jones of Basilica Circle and Phil Price of Goolagong Road prepare for a night of fashion modeling Dec. 8.

Kempville High School mannequin models, Sheryl Turner, of Old Providence Road, Lisa Ruffledge, of Wingate Lane and Joan Williams, of Centerville Turnpike, demonstrate their techniques to be used at the school's fashion show, Dec. 8.

"Frosty Fashions for Winter", a four theme fashion show, will be held in the Kempville High School Auditorium, Dec. 8 at 7:30 p.m.

The show will consist of disco, mannequin and robot movements, as well as traditional fashion show modeling.

Tickets are $1 in advance and $1.50 at the door. Approximately 45 prizes will be given away during the intermission and one must present in order to win.

The clothes for the fashion show will be provided by Casual Corner, Sears and Prince Formal.

Milmon Wilson of Tompkins Lane and LaVida Sanderlin of Princess Anne Road will be featured in the Kempville "Frosty Fashions for Winter" fashion show Dec. 8.

Hussell Assists

Mrs. Thelma Hussell, former owner of the Chesapeake Beauty Academy, assists the new owners in business matters. Veteran cosmetologists Mildred A. Miller and Mary W. Pyatt started operating the large school by themselves this week after many years of business together in other schools and shops. The school itself was built in 1968 and is the first private beauty school in Chesapeake.

Koehler Frisbee Promoter

John L. Koehler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard F. Koehler of Virginia Beach, is co-chairman of the Richmond Freestyle Company at Virginia Commonwealth University.

The Richmond Freestyle Company is an organization at VCU which promotes frisbee as a sport.

Koehler, a sophomore at VCU, is majoring in Communication Arts and Design.

Seatoek Ctr.

Gets English

In January, Seatoek area residents will have an opportunity to enroll in a basic English course in their own neighborhood.

The Virginia Beach Campus of Tidewater Community College will conduct the Verbal Studies English course at the Seatoek Neighborhood Center during the winter quarter. The class will meet on Tuesday and Thursday from 2-3:30 p.m. with the first class being held on Jan. 5.

This course will provide an ideal opportunity for the students to refresh themselves in the basics of English grammar and writing. A special registration will be held at the Seatoek Neighborhood Center on Dec. 19, from 1:30-2:30 p.m. For further information call the Office of Continuing Education at 427-3070.

Contract bridge

Joel Weintraub, 3523 Sierra Arch, Virginia Beach, and Shirley Presberg, of Norfolk, were section leaders in the open pairs, flight B, in a one day regional at the 1977 Fall North American Championships of the American Contract Bridge League in Atlanta, Ga. Nov. 18-27.

There were 1068 players competing in this event.

Spectrum program taught

Expectant parents, nurses, firemen, police officers and rescue squad workers will have an opportunity to receive childbirth training beginning in January at the Virginia Beach Campus of Tidewater Community College.

The course, Prepared Childbirth Training, is part of the Spectrum Program and will be taught by certified instructors provided by the Prepared Childbirth Association of Tidewater. Students desiring certification in this field can make the necessary arrangements during their course.

Expectant parents can expect to be better prepared for the childbirth experience which often results in healthier babies, speedier recovery and, in general, a more positive birth experience. For more information call the Office of Continuing Education at 428-6395 or 427-3070.

Holiday house is Christmas wonderland

Cdr. Salkowski welcomes all to his home for some Christmas cheer.

Located at 4121 Hermitage Point, the Salkowski home was turned into a holiday wonderland in celebration of the Thoroughgood Garden Club's ninth annual Holiday House.

The home of Commander and Mrs. W.F. Salkowski was turned into a holiday wonderland last week-end as the Thoroughgood Garden Club honored their ninth annual Holiday House.

Snowflakes, Christmas trees and other holiday decorations surrounded the crowd of people as they toured the oriental-themed house Sunday and Monday. Hostesses from the garden club gave each individual a complete and informative tour.

A bake shop, a bazaar and a raffle were going on in the garage of the Hermitage Point home.

Lila Morris, of Almore Lane and Eleanor McLean, of Ewell Road make all the decorations for the Salkowski Holiday House.

Paula Harrison of Hermitage Road guards the Sweet Shop.

Music and trees for Christmas

Princess Anne High Schools Concert Band and Orchestra will present its annual Christmas Program on Thursday night Dec. 8, at 8:00 p.m. in the school auditorium. The cost is students $1.00, adults $2.00, and family $4.00.

Again this year as is the past their program will feature Leo Lively and his version of "Twas the Night Before Christmas," a special so one will want to miss. While attending the Christmas program, folks may want to stop by out front and see what the Cavaliers have to offer in the form of Christmas trees.

Each year the Marching Cavaliers sell Xmas trees to offset their expenses from trips they have made throughout the year.

The trees this year are a variety of sizes and styles and the prices range from $9.00 to $25.00.

Christmas trees will be on sale from 8:00 till 10 p.m. seven days a week from now till Christmas.

Water proposals given top priority

Water, or the lack of it, which has dominated so much of Virginia Beach City Council's time for the past two years, has been given top priority in the city's list of legislative proposals for the Virginia General Assembly.

The proposals, a tentative list of eight, presented by City Manager George L. Hanbury, will be considered at a joint session of council and the city's representatives to the general assembly at 10 a.m. Dec. 12. Many are repeats of proposals of previous years which were never enacted by the General Assembly.

The city may also consider asking the state to determine the use of Camp Pendleton. Vice Mayor Patrick L. Stangor noted that the location of the camp, at the south end of the Virginia Beach borough, is "so strategic and is being used by the state less and less." He suggested a committee of the general assembly be asked to determine the use of Pendleton.

Mayor Clarence A. Holland said that he had already discussed the situation with delegate Owen Pickett and that Pickett may have something to suggest. The council, which has been looking for more public beach front, had tried to have the state convert part of Seashore State Park into a day beach, but was turned down.

With its water proposal, the city wants legislators to change the law to permit that the transfer of water from one water basin to another to furnish water for Tidewater communities. Hanbury said that at present a transfer from one water basin to another requires the approval of all localities involved in the transfer. Outside localities with adequate water, however, are reluctant to agree to a transfer, he said. Any permanent source of water for southside Hampton Roads will require such a transfer of water so that it is necessary for the state to make a transfer possible in critical cases, he said.

Hanbury also said that he believed that the Blackwater River is the source which would solve the city's water problem and places the least demand on the river as it goes through North Carolina. The North Carolina government has been opposed to the diversion of any of the waters in that state to serve Virginia localities. Hanbury said the river at least is within the Southeastern Virginia communities, unlike other sources which have been suggested such as the Appomattox River and Lake Gaskin.

Mayor Clarence A. Holland said that the legislation would probably receive support from representatives from Northern Virginia because their water basin is located outside their area.

The Southeastern Public Service Authority of Virginia which represents Virginia Beach and five other cities and two counties, is currently trying to develop regional water sources for the area which has a population of 800,000 people.

Virginia Beach has employed a firm to study possible water sources within the city.

Oceana men graduate

Naval Air Station (NAS) Oceana will award diplomas to Troy M. Curmette and Charles F. Fink, two Public Works Department (PWD) graduates of the apprenticeship training program on Dec. 7.

These employees entered the program in 1974 and will have the distinction of being the first to graduate under the NAS Oceana Apprenticeship Program.

Upon graduation these men will be promoted to the journeyman level in their respective fields of study. Curmette will advance to the rating of electrician and Fink to refrigeration and air conditioning mechanic.

Curmette and Fink will receive their diplomas from Captain M.G. McCanna, Jr., NAS Oceana Commanding Officer, at a ceremony to be held in the Public Works Department, 2 p.m. on Friday, Dec. 7. Speaker for the event will be Commander Thomas J. Hoffmann, Public Works Officer.

Refrigeration and air conditioning apprentice, Charles Fink, began training for journeyman in 1974.

Troy Curmette, electrical apprentice, maintenance division, Public Works Department, has a promotion to journeyman "wired."

Wrestling honor for Cox grad

The new men's wrestling program at Longwood College this year is headed by Scott Conkright, an individual well known in wrestling on the Atlantic Coast.

A four-time state champion at Cox High School in Virginia Beach, Scott continued his career at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. He wrestled to the Atlantic Coast Conference championship while there, and attained a ranking among the top eight in the NCAA in 1976. Scott also boasted undefeated seasons in 1975 and 1976 at UNC-CH.

Scott's interest in wrestling may well be inherited. His father wrestled while in the Navy, and later served as team physician for a high school wrestling team. Scott often accompanied his father to wrestling practice. This influence led to five years' participation in high school wrestling for Scott. He also was a member of the football and cross country teams.

Scott received a B.A. in Botany from UNC-CH. At Longwood, he is working on his Master's degree in Supervision and serving as an adjunct faculty member. Scott also teaches biology at Randolph Henry High School in Charlotte Court House where he is the assistant football coach.

Mood for Holiday

Holiday time. Days of party-throwing. Nights of noise-making. Yet, despite all the commotion, fashion generates its own subtle excitement. There's a seasonal focus on newly softened shades, reminiscent of childhood pleasures. (Remember ballet slippers, cotton candy and birthday cake icing?)

Gentle, subdued tones of pink, blue, peach and mint green cast a dreamy effect on soft, fluid fabrics like crepe de chine, silky jerseys, chiffon, challis, satin and velvet. And details, petti-coat-pretty, grace dresses, blouses and sweaters with romanticism and femininity. Ruffles and lacey trim edge necklines, collars, cuffs; fine tucks and narrower bows complement blouses; and delicate pointed petting makes its way across baby-soft sweater knits.

Looking great means versatility

On a typical day, Miss Universe never stops moving! Miss Universe 1977, Janelle Commissiong, rustles about her New York City apartment at 6:30 a.m. to prepare for a 7:30 newspaper photo session. At 10:00 a.m. she attends a breakfast to receive an honorary award. Then it's a quick trip out to the airport for a noon flight to Los Angeles, where she arrives just in time for a national television talk show rehearsal and taping.

Somewhat Janelle finds time to squeeze in one more interview with a major motion picture company before dashing off to catch the all-night flight back to New York. Her new day begins the minute she steps off the plane with an equally tight-scheduled itinerary.

Here, the 24-year-old beauty is photographed during a rare day at home in her Galaxy Apartment southwest overlooking the Hudson River. Janelle says that her title has brought her a non-stop pace of travel to exciting places and the opportunity to meet many interesting people.

But no matter where she is, Miss Universe must live up to her image of being the most beautiful woman in the world. One of the important tricks of looking great is versatility and Janelle's wardrobe of Sarah Coventry jewelry offers her the ensemble to take her from sunup to sundown.

It's not always possible for a complete wardrobe change going from the busy days to the equally busy nights. But by changing her jewelry, Janelle has found the can turn easy daytime separates into smashing evening looks. "Best of all," Janelle comments wryly, "using accessories to expand my wardrobe allows me to travel lightly—a real necessity for anyone who's on the move as much as Miss Universe."

Fashion Forecast

If fashion this season could be summed up into one word—that word would be "romance." Romance is the sensation seen in the softness and flow of clothes. Look for defined waists and full skirts—all softness and charm with lots of ruffles and lace. The trend is away from strict, utilitarian sportswear to sensual, body conscious clothes and a feeling of luxury. And ruffles—everywhere—around the neck, up the front, around wrists and as rouches on skirts. For fun there are shawls in every imaginable size to wrap up anything and everything, and make you feel gloriously feminine. Fall colors range from vibrant jewel and berry tones to subdued dusty or earthy shades, and pale and tiny florals are the favorite prints for soft, romantic clothes. The best thing about the new clothes is that they are both very wearable and very flattering. Here is the year to put things together however you like and invent new looks all your own. But with a dramatic look you can't be disappointed—your grooming won't be perfect. This fall we're not wearing makeup to hide behind, but to play up what we like about ourselves.

If you feel good about yourself, you'll want to try some of the new clothes, but by all means, don't forget to update your makeup as well. The new makeup is sheer and luminous with burnished, earthy colors and there's a definite balance to the brow, eye, lip, cheek—all the same intensity and all very close to the same color. For example, you could wear a pinky brown eye shadow and a pinky brown lip and cheek color for a wonderful harmonious look that is the perfect foil for the soft romantic look of fall.

Winter Tips

Use hand cream or hand lotion during cold spells no matter how soft you THINK your hands are. We've shaken hands with more housewives with cardboard hands than we care to remember... so use your hand care preparations the way you use your toothbrush—every day... and wear gloves in the open air even if you think you are too rugged to be bothered with such trivia.

If you plan to walk—some of us try to get in 30 city blocks a day (it's a great complexion purifier)—wear shoes with crepe soles for bottom-of-foot comfort. When your feet hurt, your ankles are likely to swell so be comfortable while you walk off the lumpy reminders of a sedentary summer. Wash your hair more often than in any other season if you wear a hat in winter. Trapping your hair under a hat "stales" it. Lubricate your face after a walk in the wind the way you would treat it after a day at the beach. It's the "cracks" of winter that lead to the wrinkles of spring.

If you can't get to the manicuring board too often—try wearing colorless nail polish. It gives your hands a well-cared-for look and keeps your nails in shape a long time after darker polishes look ragged and chipped.

Geologist feels dunes role overemphasized

The importance of sand dunes for the protection of the coastline and beachfront property has been overestimated, according to geologists addressing Virginia Beach City Council Monday morning.

Dr. Robert Doland, University of Virginia geologist, said that, although sand dunes do provide some protection from storms and other beach replenishment, "I am convinced that the role of the dunes is overemphasized."

Dr. Doland was commissioned to make the presentation by Dr. Arthur Manya, retired Old Dominion University professor and currently geological and physical consultant. Dr. Manya said he represented developer Edwin B. Lindsey of the Lake George Corporation.

The city has been studying the possibility of adopting an ordinance regulating beachfront construction. While Lindsey favors the recent policy of using the six foot contour line, the place where the dunes rise six feet above sea level, to regulate construction.

Dr. Doland traced efforts of the Federal government to protect the Cape Hatteras Lighthouse. Neither a wall of seabags nor a seawall were successful. The final solution was beach nourishment undertaken in 1973 for $4 million, which has been successful, he said.

The solution currently turned to more frequently, he said to protect beachfront property are massive concrete structures.

He said it would be a mistake to eliminate elevation (that is, destroy the dunes). At the same time, he said he "would be very cautious about developing the dunes for protection."

Beach residents are true Claus'

Alice Watkins, or Mrs. Santa Claus, has the true spirit of Christmas. Mrs. Watkins and husband, Claude, donated their good cheer to local hospitals, nursing homes and the underprivileged all over the Beach area. A story on the Watkins and more pictures are on the inside pages of this week's SUN.

State reps hear from Beach council

By LEE CARILL
SUN Public Affairs Writer

Virginia Beach representatives to the General Assembly now know what City Council wants in the way of legislation. But they aren't too sure about how much the city will get from the 1978 Assembly.

The law makers generally offered support of the Beach proposals but were candid about telling Council members Monday morning about the proposals which don't stand a chance of passing.

Real estate tax

Of the local option surtax on the State Income tax, Sen. Peter K. Bakalis said it didn't have much of a chance. He said there was a strong feeling about increasing the sales tax to one per cent, which would bring in $160 million in revenue, and limiting or reducing the real estate tax.

Mayor Clarence A. Holland referred to the regressive nature of the real estate tax pointing out that more people on fixed incomes are moving to Virginia Beach and although the tax rate has been kept low, assessments have increased. Delegate Bernard G. Barrow said that although the House Finance Committee is concerned about financing local government, the approval of the surtax is "less likely now than last year."

Water sources

The legislators supported a request from the city for special legislation proposed by the Southeastern Public Service Authority of Virginia to allow interbasin transfer to provide a permanent source of water for the eight jurisdictions in the authority. Del. Glenn B. McClanahan emphasized the importance of having equal support from the six cities and two counties in the Authority.

Vice Mayor Patrick L. Standing said that all the jurisdictions in the Authority agreed on withdrawal from the Blackwater Nottaway River system which was the "first time to my knowledge that they have agreed with anything."

McClanahan said that he hoped that the support from the other jurisdictions was as strong as "Pat would hope it is."

Standing said the area-wide committee also plans to include the inter-basin transfer of water in its legislative package. Standing wanted the legislators to be sure that Northern Virginia, which is experiencing the same type of water source problem, did not have such legislation approved for just that area "and not us."

Hambury said that Norfolk is definitely endorsing the plan.

Standing said that Tidewater may get help from Northern Virginia for the first time and "I maintain that the water belongs to everyone."

The state prohibits inter-basin transfer of water without the approval of all localities involved. Any permanent source of water for southside Hampton Roads will require interbasin transfer.

Camp Pendleton

The legislators also agreed to have the General Assembly designate a committee to study the feasibility of using part or all of Camp Pendleton for a public day-use beach and recreation facility. Senator Bakalis suggested the inclusion of Seashore State Park in the study.

The city has been as persistent in its efforts to acquire more public beachfront as it has in finding a water source. The State Department of Parks turned down a request to turn Seashore State Park, or part of it into a day Beach, efforts to open the beach at Fort Story to the public have also been unsuccessful. The city maintains a small beach at Fort Story and also leases a 600-foot wide strip of beach at the north end of Pendleton for a surfing area.

Pendleton, used by the Virginia National Guard, houses few permanent military personnel.

Delegate Owen Pickett said that in April 1977 some consideration was given for the justification of the use of the camp by the National Guard.

St. Bernard jumps out of SUN classified ads

"He's a jumper," Sandra Devey of Chesapeake says about her St. Bernard, and with the success of the Virginia Beach SUN classified ads, the dog practically jumped into a new home.

Mrs. Devey just didn't have enough room to keep the large dog happy, and now a Chesapeake doctor with three children is happy to own the dog.

"The man who took the dog lives on a farm, and it's the ideal place for a St. Bernard."

Whatever it is that needs to be bought, sold or given away, do it best with the Virginia Beach SUN classified ads at 446-0340.

Smart shoppers win at Christmas

The hustle and bustle of holiday shopping often brings disappointment and dissatisfaction to Virginia Beach shoppers. But it doesn't have to be so.

If a shopper is careful and smart, there's no reason why Christmas shopping can't be a prelude to a happy holiday season.

Here's some tips offered by the Tidewater Better Business Bureau to help get the most out of shopping this year:

1. Trade only with concerns known to be reliable or with those whose reputation can be established by intelligent inquiry.

2. Unless there is a written or provable agreement otherwise, all sales are final--and the matter of a refund or exchange is dependent on the policy of the seller.

3. Decide definitely what you want before you buy so as to avoid difficulty or delay in take-back, exchange, or refund.

4. Buy with care. Read labels. Be sure of the correct size, color and other requirements. Keep your sales slips or receipts.

5. It is best to examine Christmas purchases before Christmas, so that any claim for defect or damages may be made immediately rather than after Christmas.

6. Don't try to get cash refunds on Christmas gifts given to you. The fact that you don't like it is no reason for a merchant to give you a refund.

7. When you buy articles before Christmas, and bring them back after Christmas--don't expect to get full credit or refund if the article has already been marked down--unless the store wants to do so.

8. Don't contract to purchase anything beyond your capacity to pay.

9. If you pay an advance deposit on the "lay away plan" be sure that you can and will go through with the deal--otherwise you may sacrifice your deposit.

10. Never let yourself be rushed into buying anything by high pressure sales talk or claim that it is your last chance. Take your time and make up your own mind carefully.

11. Read all papers you are asked to sign and keep a copy.

12. Don't buy from advertisers who attempt to discourage you from buying low-priced advertised goods, but who instead try to high pressure you into something else. That is "bait advertising."

13. If you find the article received is not as ordered, do not use it. Notify the seller immediately and give him the opportunity to adjust it.

14. If you do business by mail order, first make sure you are dealing with a reliable company. Allow plenty of time for delivery and write very plainly; printing or typing is best.

15. No one can continually sell retail at wholesale prices, so an appeal "Buy Wholesale" is generally wholesale bunk.

16. Transient vendors, sidewalk hawkers, and peddlers are not around after Christmas to listen to complaints.

17. A guarantee should be specific and in writing.

18. When you know about cases of false or misleading advertising or unfair schemes, report them to the BBB. Your name will be held in confidence and your report will serve in the protection of others.

Changing in the cold...

It was a cold night for Jeff Dano and Charles Welch as they changed the Creative Designed Signage located at the corner of Virginia Beach Blvd. and Windward Road last week. Temperatures have been reaching below freezing in Virginia Beach lately.

OPINION

Letters to the editor

Editor, Virginia Beach SUN,

I came first to Virginia Beach as a tourist in the late 1920's and returned here to retire seven years ago. In the interim I had lived in Seattle, San Francisco, Denver, and Chicago. I was familiar with the Pacific Ocean, the Sierra and Rocky Mountains, but decided to retire here in Virginia Beach. A main reason was that here the Atlantic is a warmer, friendlier ocean than the Pacific most of the time. And I find I love the sea more than the mountains as I grow older.

I am here today to add my voice to the many others that have been raised since the Coast Guard Station was abandoned in 1969. I am representing a group of concerned citizens, and our purpose is to convince the Council to act to save the building for the citizens of Virginia Beach. As an Historic Landmark.

The Virginia Beach city council has endorsed the designation of the station as an historic landmark. The Virginia Historic Landmark's Commission has indicated its readiness to list the station as an historical landmark. They will also recommend it for listing in the National Register of Historic Places.

The General Services Administration (who took over the building as surplus government property when it was abandoned and who are one of the possible owners) have recommended to the Virginia Historic Landmark's Commission that the station be listed by them as an historical landmark. Also that it be listed on the National Register of historic places.

Regarding Ownership. It also appears from the records that no matter whom the Court decides is the owner of the building - such owner does not want to keep the building for themselves. (And this will probably be true if there is an out of court settlement).

It appears that who ever is the owner will be willing to transfer the ownership of the building to the city of Virginia Beach at no cost to the city.

It goes without saying that if the city accepts the building it will have to move it - and very soon! Studies show that it is feasible to move the building to the end of 24th Street.

The critical question - Should the city accept the Old Coast Guard Station? And should it be preserved? The answer has to be resounding YES, so let's look at a few reasons WHY!

The first life saving station came into existence about one hundred years ago - at the same time our city was founded. The station was named "The Sea Tack" Station, because it was located where the British launched a sea attack against our young nation in 1812.

There is no other building, to my knowledge, in the original old beach city which has been such a part of the city's history. They - the city and the building - were "born and raised together."

At one time there was one such life saving station built on the beach every few miles south from Cape Henry to the Carolina border, each one a day's walk from the other. Now they are all gone or beyond our reach - save for this one. If we let this one be demolished, it would be like letting the old Cape Henry Light be torn down.

Almost every American boy and girl and certainly all of those who grew up on the Atlantic Coast have been inspired by stories and pictures of the bravery and endurance of the men who manned the life boats and the breeches boys and who lived in such life saving stations. To let their last home in our city be destroyed is almost a sacrilege.

The federal government in public law 888-685, enacted in 1966, recognized the need to "preserve historic properties throughout the nation". This law was supplemented by executive order 111593 in 1977 to assist in the preservation of historic properties.

I firmly believe that the city will be able to obtain federal and state grants to assist in the repair and preservation of the Coast Guard Station. I know that the city will obtain additional tax revenues from the land on which the building stood - more than enough to pay the expense of the love and the continued preservation of the building. I know that several prominent citizens have already agreed to have the building painted.

Like the tall ships of the bicentennial, in whose age the life saving station was active, the restored building can be a great tourist attraction. As a life saving museum and/or an art museum. (I think the Board Walk Art Show was held there).

Lastly - there is a law of the sea which I'm sure all of you know. That when a ship signals it is in distress, every skipper who sees or hears the distress signal is duty bound to go to her assistance. Now the old Coast Guard Station, from which so many distress calls were answered, is in distress herself. I say, and I believe, that most citizens of Virginia Beach want to see it rescued.

Have a safe beach holiday

The holiday season is upon us and our thoughts are turning to our homes, families and friends. As we decorate our homes for the viewing pleasure of one-and-all, we should keep in mind several things which will make this a happy, fire safe holiday:

Be sure the decorative lights used do not have any frayed wires, broken cords or loose sockets. These conditions result in a severe hazard of electrical shock as well as a potential cause of fire.

Do not overload electrical circuits in your home. Overloaded circuits can overheat, causing a fire.

Be sure to turn off all light sets, colored spot lights and other decorative fixtures when you are leaving home or retiring for the evening.

Only buy light strings and fixtures which bear the UL label, telling you they are approved for the usage listed. When purchasing your Christmas tree, buy only a firm, fresh tree; store it in a cool place with the base in water until ready for decorating. Use a tree stand which will allow you to water the tree while it is in your home.

Avoid the use of candles around the tree or any decorations which may ignite easily. Do not place the tree near fire places, radiators, television set, or other sources of heat which will dry the tree, causing it to become a fire hazard.

When buying artificial trees, look for the UL label telling you the product is flame resistant.

Be sure all electrical gifts bear the UL label. This assures you the item has been tested for safety by Underwriters Laboratories.

While you are Christmas shopping, remember items such as smoke detectors, fire extinguishers and home escape ladders make excellent gifts.

These thoughts, along with good fire-safe sense will provide you with the peace of mind necessary for a happy holiday season.

Pen pal wanted

Editor, Virginia Beach SUN:

I'm presently confined in a federal institution and have lost all contact with the outside world. Would you please help me by publishing my ad for a pen-pal in your paper so maybe one of your readers might see it and like to write to me.

It gets very lonely being in a place like this. One single letter would help to brighten up my lonely day.

Away with sand burrs

Invitation time is at a peak, but mixed among the ones to Christmas parties and pre-campaign parties comes one that stands out like a boll weevil.

The Department of Agriculture invited the SUN staff to a press conference in Raleigh "to kick off a three-year eradication campaign against the boll weevil—a destructive pest of cotton."

Now that's an invitation not to be snickered at.

Rhonda Miller

SUN Staff Writer

Since none of the SUN staff was immediately available to learn the intimate details of extinguishing the poor helpless creatures, it seems that the boll weevil project will have to carry on without eye witness coverage by the SUN.

Fortunately, Virginia cotton growing has just about become a thing of the past, leaving the weevil problem on the shoulders of North Carolina and the other cotton-producing states.

What Virginia Beach needs is a conference on the elimination of sand burrs.

It's a blue Beach Sunday

It was a blue, blue Sunday for Virginia Beach when the city decided to enact the blue law for the first time in about five years.

It seems kind of funny that with all the flea markets, a garage sales and tourist attractions, that as "old timey" flea market would be hit. Especially right before Christmas. We sure could use Elvis to sing as a few bars from "Blue Christmas." Especially the merchants.

Virginia Beach now has a bad name. The dealers who were turned away and had traveled from neighboring states will surely no longer sing the praises of the "largest resort city in the U.S."

Joan Coates

SUN Editor

And how long can the Beach hold that title when merchant doors are closed on Sunday for the sake of the views of a polluted few. Tourists will surely spend their money somewhere else - somewhere they "can" spend their money. I'm sure no one wants to work everyday of the week. But shouldn't that decision be left to merchants? Alternate days off could be an adequate solution for employees. The main question is freedom. Freedom for the worker, Christian as well as the Sunday worshiper. Something could be worked out for the benefit of Virginia Beach, merchants and employees.

Let's not wait another five years to botch the blue law again.

Road widening offense to residents

By LEE CAHILL
Public Affairs Writer

The City of Virginia Beach will study ways to make the widening of North Plaza Trail less offensive to nearby residents.

The Kluge Point Civic League opposes construction of the road which will be a four-lane highway with a 15-foot median strip.

From Douglas, spokesman for the League, told City Council, "The widening of the highway will come within 23 feet of the sleeping areas of the homes and cited the noise and pollution which will result."

The road, which carries 3000 to 7000 cars a day now, is expected to carry 23,000 cars a day within eight years.

It will be a major artery eventually connecting to Old Dominion Parkway.

The League suggested moving the highway westward, creating buffer zone on each side and to construct a sound barrier.

Council took no action on the League's request to defer the construction until the first meeting in February to allow time for a cost and feasibility study on the suggested alternative.

Two other alternatives suggested - to drop the project or to reduce it to two lanes with a median strip - were considered to be so viable by the League.

The homes in the area have been constructed within the past two years while the road was first proposed in 1964. Douglas said that the builders may not have intended the buyers of the homes that the road would be widened.

City Manager George L. Hanbury said that he would be pleased to look at alternatives, but that it would be difficult to relocate the right of way to the west because of the cost of acquiring additional rights of way. He also said it would be a waste of money to build a median strip because most lanes were needed.

Commissioner Fred R. Coates said that it was Council's responsibility to promote the construction of homes that close to a major highway.

Hanbury said he would look into the situation but that the city has been limited to asking for a 30-foot distance between construction and major roads.

He said the median strip will be beautified and that he would look into the cost of a fence or other buffer. The residents do not want a wooden fence.

Beach proposes to state...

Del. McClanahan said that since there is no amphibious training there is no need for the camp at that location. The Guard can use some other camp such as Camp Pickett. Mayor Holland also suggested the possibility that if the Guard needed a beach front location it might share Fort Story with the Army. Councilman J. Curtis Payne said that it was "inconceivable" that the National Guard could justify the use of Camp Pendleton when Camp Pickett has thousands of acres, now that amphibious warfare is out.

Retirement system

Councilman R. L. Riggs also asked for clarification of proposed legislation relating to benefits of city employees in the Supplemental Retirement System.

Hanbury said that Virginia Beach started this year to pay all of the employees' contribution to the system which employees thought would come to five per cent. Now that the State, under the proposal, would reduce the payments as well as the benefits, Hanbury was concerned that employees might feel let down.

Pickett said that the changes in the Social Security System have distorted the structure of the Virginia Supplemental Retirement System. Actuarial studies made of the system, he said, show that the income of some retirees exceeds the take-home pay before retirement. To eliminate this occurrence, the proposal is to reduce the payment from one and a half per cent to one per cent. The change, if it is enacted, will not affect existing retirees. Pickett said that although the proposal came out of his committee it was not supported by him and it was "premature to assume there will be a reduction."

Blue laws

Riggs also said that the blue law was impossible to enforce, and "why have it on the books if we can't enforce it?" He said that he was sure that some of the people who voted for the blue law in a city-wide referendum are now breaking the law.

Pickett said that it was worthwhile to consider another referendum on the matter.

Babalas said that he did not think the General Assembly was doing anything about the blue laws because the Assembly feels it has given localities a way out—through referendums.

Horse racing

Babalas said that pari-mutuel betting "which carried the Senate three times will be put in the House side in '78. Riggs remarked that even if pari-mutuel betting is legalized laws would have to be changes to allow horse racing on Sunday.

Hanbury said that a study made by the Virginia Beach Development Council was in favor of pari-mutuel betting only if the city received a net cost.

Babalas said that in the last version of the bill the localities were given some of the "handle." He said uncertainty still exists about whether the activity will be state or privately owned or located in Virginia Beach or Williamsburg.

Other proposals presented by City Council included: Distribution of net sales tax revenue to operate five public schools based on the average daily membership of the school divisions of each county and city as certified by the Comptroller of the Department of Education on Sept. 30 of the calendar year. The tax is presently distributed on the basis of a triennial census of school-aged population. Dr. E. E. Brickell, superintendent of schools, suggested that this proposal be "placed on a back burner," because the recent census, in which the age of children included were lowered, is beneficial to the Beach. He added that he still thinks the proposal is the most equitable way to distribute the money.

Distribution of net profits from the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board and the State Tax on wines based on either the last preceding United States census or the latest estimate of the population made by the Bureau of Population and Economic Research of the University of Virginia, whichever is the most recent.

Barrow said the proposal was offered last year and didn't get past the appropriation committee. There is even less sense of urgency this year he said, because of the approaching census.

Beach erosion

An appropriation from the State of $400,000 for the Virginia Beach Erosion Commission for the 1978 biennium which would result in the State and federal governments contributing 50 per cent of the total expenses and the city contributing the remaining 50 per cent. Cost in 1978-79 was $715,527.16.

Babalas said that the city will have support from Norfolk because of erosion problems in Ocean View.

Sen. Joseph Fitzpatrick said it would be helpful to have the amount of tax dollars tourists spend in the state because "money will be tight again this year." Hanbury said the city research staff has determined that Beach tourists generated $5,689,963 in sales and cigarette taxes for the Commonwealth in 1976 alone, not including gasoline taxes, ABC profits, wine taxes and other indirect benefits.

Designate a particular committee to study the feasibility of a partial allocation of the state tax collected on motor fuel for marine purposes to localities for inspection and safety patrols on the waterways and shoreline of the state, and establishing a State Marine Police Force under the Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries similar to that established in the State of Maryland for the enforcement of motor boat safety regulations and all other marine law enforcement activities. The representatives agreed to ask for the study of both.

Hanbury said that the Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries spends 95 per cent of its funds on Game. Currently, of the nine cents per gallon state tax collected on motor fuel, 1 1/3 cents per gallon is allocated to the Game Protection Fund and the remaining 7 1/2 cents per gallon is returned to residents who file a claim for refund.

Vice Mayor Standing estimated that over half of the money is not claimed by Virginia Beach residents, and it is this unclaimed portion that the city wants. It now reverts to the state.

Babalas suggested establishing a state-wide service to be taken over by the State Police.

Pickett said the proposal was made once before and that the state would rather not do it. If the state were to establish a state-wide service, it would have to patrol the whole coastline, he said.

Fish and crabs

Councilman Floyd E. Waterfield Jr. in a related matter, suggested that the State establish a license system for fishermen and crabbers from other states. He said that North Carolina watermen were allowed to fish and crab in Virginia waters but that Virginia watermen were required to have licenses in North Carolina.

Appropriation of funds for libraries up to the level already authorized by State law. In 1976-77 Virginia Beach was eligible for $215,470 in State Aid funds but received only $55,690.

Allow cities the ability to exercise condemnations in the same manner as the State Highway Commissioner. Prior to the last printing of the Code of Virginia Hanbury said the cities had this ability. Babalas said that a study is being made for remaking laws for localities. He said that under new proposals, cities will have a greater advantage financially and condemnation proceedings.

McClanahan said he didn't expect prior approval from Council for his actions in the Assembly any more than he expects Council expected to have him approve of anything it did.

In addition to McClanahan, Pickett, Babalas and Fitzpatrick, other legislators present were Sen. A. Joseph Canada, Jr., and Del. Bill O'Brien and Bernard G. Barrow.

Council John R. Griffin took issue with the "attitude of (State) Legislators that they are overlords of local government."

Striking the only note of discord during an agreeable meeting between the Virginia Beach City Council and area legislators, Griffin wanted to know "what the legislators are planning to do in reduce that we are not appraised -- of such as the election of a mayor."

Griffin was alluding to remarks made during the November election that the General Assembly should consider legislation to permit the election of mayors. At present the mayor is elected by members of City Council.

Del. Owen B. Pickett replied that he had no legislation in mind that involves the city.

Delegate Bernard Barrow said he had no legislation which would affect Virginia Beach specifically.

Sen. Peter K. Babalas said that he had none, but that as chairman of the local Government and Finance Committee he had found that on the Senate side as much autonomy is given the localities as possible.

Sen. Joseph Fitzpatrick, said that he could not commit himself to abstain from legislation unless approved by Council because the people may make requests. He added that he would cooperate with Council.

Pet of the Week

"Fat Boy"

Four - month - old "Fat Boy," a cocker terrier, is looking for a home ... and hopefully before Christmas. He's had all his distemper shots and is paper trained. Fat Boy has a really good disposition and would fit right in to a loving home.

If you could give an orphan a good home, come on down to the Virginia Beach S.P.C.A. or call 428-2601. They've got lots of pets, just ready to make your Christmas a special one.

Virginia Beach received a $1,575 federal grant for traffic engineer training.

Light to be installed

By LEE CAHILL
Public Affairs Writer

The City of Virginia Beach will install a traffic light at the intersection of Wildwood and First Colonial Roads within 60 to 90 days.

City Manager George L. Hanbury said Monday afternoon that city studies show that a traffic light is justified at the intersection and that one of the lights which have been replaced during the widening to six lanes of Indian River Road and Great Neck Road will be transferred to the intersection.

Residents last week bombarded City Council with petitions and information in support of a light at the intersection.

Hanbury also said that bids on the widening of First Colonial Road will be ready in March.

"While the earth remaineth, seedtime and harvest, and cold and heat, and summer and winter, and day and night shall not cease."

—Genesis 8:22

If Winter comes, can Spring be far behind?

—Percy Bysshe Shelley

Faith sees promise in the white world of Winter.

When Winter's sun with slanting rays of light reveals a world arrayed in glistening white, where barren trees and snow-clad peaks beyond are mirrored in an ice-encrusted pond; Some see it only as the year grows old, the earth devoid of life, so dead and cold; A dormant land where nothing seems to grow And future hopes lie buried in the snow. But those of faith see beauty in this scene: Through Church they know that one day it will mean a miracle that God will always bring: The new rebirth of life that's known as Spring.

The SUN goes Christmas shopping

SANTA CLAUS WAYNE SCHOOL of Wedgewood Ct. Virginia Beach. "I got requests for presents from 'kids' ages two to 12, but most are between the ages of two and five."

The SUN went Christmas shopping recently to see what everyone is buying for the holidays. Even Santa Claus was interviewed to find out what kids are asking him to bring.

None of the shoppers could really think of anything that is a big fad this year. You can remember former Christmas wishes when all anyone wanted was a mood ring, a pair of toe socks or a CB radio.

Everyone did agree that they are spending more money this year, however. But people seem to be spending that money on practical gifts rather than the frivolous.

R.C. Swain, general manager of Rose's at College Park Shopping Center, said big selling items this year are small appliances such as kitchen aids, blenders and toasters. Lots of bicycles are being sold, and in the toy department, anything that has to do with space—thanks to the movie "Star Wars."

He added that shoppers started earlier this year and that Christmas decorations have really come back strong after a decline due to energy conservation.

Santa Claus Wayne School of Wedgewood Ct. in Virginia Beach said boys are asking him most of all for "Stretch Armstrong" and "Stretch Monster"—dolls that stretch into almost any shape and then return back to their original form. Next on the list is bicycles.

"Little girls are asking for dolls of course. Most popular are "Baby Comeback," "Baby That-a-Way," "Baby Heartbeat," Barbie, Charlie's Angels and Doan's and Marie. A stroll down the aisles of the toy department revealed the latest in entertainment for children.

"Baby Comeback" by Mattel "toddles like real tots do, but comes right back and lifts her arms to you." She is 16 inches tall, operates on two "C" batteries, is recommended for children over age three and costs approximately $14.

"Baby That-a-Way" and "Baby Heartbeat" are also made by Mattel and cost about $13. "Baby That-a-Way" walks, crawls and fusses, is 15 inches tall and runs on two "D" batteries.

"Baby Heartbeat" has her own special stethoscope and thermo meter with which you can listen to her heartbeat and take her temperature. She is 13 inches tall and operates on one "AA" battery.

A search for "Stretch Armstrong" and "Stretch Monster" proved fruitless, as they were sold out in every store checked. But some of the new space toys were available.

There's the Remco "Star Trek CSF Controlled Space Flight" which sells for approximately $11, and the Mattel "Flying Aces - Squadron Command Cockpit Launcher" costing about $12.

"Nerfman, the flying hero," sells for $2.50 and the "Goodyear Blimp" by Revell (about $8) sends lighted moving messages and operates on two "D" batteries.

MR. and MRS. HARRY L. BUSHONG of Bowman Rd. say they have spent more money this year on Christmas gifts. "But we are staying practical in our choices of gifts," they add.

MRS. ALBERTA PARRY and son EDDIE of Virginia Beach Blvd. are doing their Christmas shopping. Eddie would like to get a new skateboard; Mrs. Parry says she'll be buying housewares and small appliances as gifts.

R.C. SWAIN, general manager of Rose's at College Park Shopping Center. "People started doing their Christmas Shopping earlier this year—over a month ago!"

What would you like for Christmas?

Mrs. Albert Parry, 40, of Virginia Beach, says she would like a new house for Christmas. "I'd like a new house, but I'm not sure I can afford it," she says. "I'd like a new house, but I'm not sure I can afford it," she says.

Beach has a treasure of unusual gift ideas

The closer Christmas gets, the harder it seems to find those unusual gifts that just hit the spot.

The Virginia Beach Sun in checking around Virginia Beach has found many unusual often inexpensive ways, to patch up that Christmas list.

For a special touch in the kitchen, and some insight into what puts the joy down on the farm, try giving someone, "Whats Cooking In Farm Bureau Kitchens."

The cookbook covers everything from soup to dessert, and is available through the Women's Committee of the Chesapeake Farm Bureau at 482-4522.

Dolls are definitely the thing to make this Christmas, according to Joann Britt and Delores Davis of "Hobbies & Crafts" at College Park Shopping Center.

"You use Joy or Ivory Liquid bottles for the bodies, and then add on faces and trimmings," said Ms. Britt.

"We have probably sold 3,000 faces since September." Owner Barbara Myrick says many people are making things instead of doing a lot of buying this year. Her shop is full of materials and ideas for many inexpensive Christmas gifts and decorations.

Straw wreaths may be purchased and trimmed with ribbon and doll-like figures for around $10, depending on the trimmings used.

Ms. Davis displayed a pair of "snowflake" earrings that can be made in a minute. A package of sequin snowflakes contains about 20 sequins for 39 cents. One sequin is hung from an earring backing. The backs sell in a package of 12 for 39 cents.

Little magnetic worms, often used for holding messages on refrigerators, can be made for around $2 out of styrofoam packing material, chanille and decorative straight pins.

Homemade Christmas decorations in the shop included a felt and braid candy cane chain that counts off the 24 days until Christmas; a nativity scene made out of a Pringles can, old jewelry and angel hair, costing about 50 cents; an egg beater filled with styrofoam eggs and Christmas ribbon; and poinsettias fashioned of ribbon, wire and florists tape.

Daph Windley, of Sunland Drive, is making placemats this year as gifts. Depending on the kind of yarn you buy, a set of four placemats and two hot pads only cost from four to six dollars.

Mrs. Windley made a frame from wood and nails in which to weave the placemats. She suggests using the four ounce-four ply washable yarn.

"You weave the yarn kind of like you do a pot holder," she said. "After you've finished weaving, you tie off the ends in different colors and then trim the loose pieces. This gives it the shaggy look."

Mrs. Windley said the entire process only takes about four hours of concentrated work.

Her daughter, Janice, came up with another gift craft idea for this year's Christmas. She covers a box of tissues with needle point.

Janice uses a fashion case plastic for needlepoint and three-ply colored yarn. "You use different stitches in any design and your imagination," she said.

Costing between three and five dollars, Janice's box cover takes her about four hours.

Penny Marshall of Tudor Court has a couple of suggestions for easy craft gifts.

Her holiday bread warmers made from a round basket and trimmed quilting, are super quick and easy. Garnished with fresh homemade bread, the warmer makes a very attractive gift. The warmers cost under $1.50 and only takes "30 minutes at the most" to make.

Mrs. Marshall suggests a great way to remember favorite wines is to decoupage wine labels on a piece of beveled-edged wood. She recommends varnishing the wood with 30 to 40 coats, applying a coat a day. The cost for the wine calander is around five dollars.

JOANN BRITT of Marlon Drive in Virginia Beach and DELORES DAVIS of Chesapeake model snowflake earrings they made while working at "Hobbies & Crafts" in College Park Shopping Center.

VIRGINIA BEACH PUBLIC NOTICE

Correction from Dec. 7, 1977 issue

VIRGINIA: Notice is hereby given that on Wednesday, December 21, 1977, the City of Virginia Beach shall submit to the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development a request and certification for the release of $2,380,000.00 in Entitlement Funds under Title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974. The request and certification for the release of funds pertains to the Seastack Sanitary Sewer Facility, Seastack Water Facility, Newsome Farms Water Facilities, Newlight Sanitary Sewer, Seastack Street Improvements, Newlight Street Improvements, Graceland Water Engineering Grant Program, Newsome Farms Sanitary Sewer, and Contingency monies as outlined in the City's application to HUD on March 15, 1977.

The City of Virginia Beach has prepared an environmental review record respecting the above project for which the release of funds is sought. This record may be reviewed and copies obtained hereof at the Virginia Beach Grants Office from 9:00 A.M. to 3:00 P.M., Monday through Friday.

The City of Virginia Beach is the official Applicant for the above-referenced funding and the address is: Municipal Center, City of Virginia Beach, Virginia 23456, George L. Hanbury, City Manager is the Chief Executive Officer representing the Applicant.

The City of Virginia Beach will undertake the project described above with Block Grant funds from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) under Title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974. The City of Virginia Beach is certifying to HUD that the City of Virginia Beach and George L. Hanbury, in his official capacity as City Manager, consent to accept the jurisdiction of the Federal courts in relation to enforcement of responsibilities under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969. HUD will accept an objection to its approval of the release of funds and acceptance of the certification only if it is on one of the following bases: (A) that the certification was not in fact executed by the chief executive officer of the applicant; or (B) that applicant's environmental review record for the project indicates omission of a required decision, finding, or step applicable to the project in the environmental review process. Objections must be prepared and submitted in accordance with the required procedure (24 CFR Part 68), and may be addressed to HUD at 101 East Franklin Street, Washington, Virginia 22202. Objections to the release of funds on bases other than those stated above will not be considered by HUD. No objection received after January 18, 1978 will be considered by HUD.

Christmas music at base

Christmas: a time for joy and sharing, a time for music and singing—but most of all, a time for children.

The Armed Forces School of Music will share a feast of Christmas music on Dec. 14, at the Naval Amphibious Base Theater, Little Creek. So that more children may attend, the time for the concert is 7:15 P.M. The program is free and open to the public.

Christmas songs old and new will be performed by the School of Music band and chorus under the direction of Lt. Raymond A. Aedon.

Joe Poulkes, Tidewater television personality, will make a special guest appearance as narrator of Clement Moore's immortal "Twas the Night Before Christmas".

Pygmalion is 'production brainstorm'

By JOAN COATES
SUN News Editor

The Stage Down Under's production of George Bernard Shaw's "Pygmalion" delves into the science and psychology of words with professionalism, sophistication and good plain fun.

It's the story of Eliza Doolittle, Henry Higgins and the transformation of a "gutter slut" to a duchess.

The musical version of "Pygmalion," "My Fair Lady," is a play often laden with tiring, extra long speeches and songs.

But "Pygmalion" moves. The Stage Down Under paces it to the hilt. The use of an added media is a production brainstorm: Motion film opens the play and is projected in between scenes as well as acts.

It provides the audience with the experience of viewing action that would have been very difficult, if not impossible to view on stage. The filmed excerpt of Eliza taking a taxi ride through London is a treat.

Paul Dicklin, as Henry Higgins is fine. He is loose and free and is highly believable as the eccentric professor. Stephanie Rula is an outstanding Eliza. She's got the fire and passion that is so necessary to the role of Eliza.

The "at home" scene when Eliza first appears in public, is hilarious. And the reason it is hilarious is due to Rula. Her comic timing and forced diction make the scene the highlight of the production.

Virginia Beach resident, Vera Moore, as Mrs. Pearce, the housekeeper to Henry Higgins, does a very nice job of taking a minor character and making a memorable one. Her tactful yet firm manner of telling Higgins his bad habits is witty, excellent paced and another high point of the production.

Another thespian in the production from Virginia Beach is Mai Valles, who plays Mrs. Higgins' parlour maid.

Magic, munchies for Dam Neck

A Christmas party for about 140 children, moms and dads took place last Saturday at the base theatre at Dam Neck at 10 a.m.

MSRN Bob Bryant, who is stationed at Dam Neck, donated his services as Mr. Magic and Santa Claus.

Each child received a coloring book, a candy bag, candy canes and a reach into a grab bag at the party.

Mr. Magic's Christmas Carol was the filmed entertainment.

Cupcakes, cookies, punch and coffee were donated by the galley at Dam Neck.

The party is run each year by NWCA Dam Neck 307. Monetary assistance came this year from the Dam Neck Officers Wives and the officers and chiefs stationed there.

Food, entertainment and "partying" were what the children at the base at Dam Neck had on their minds at their Christmas Party.

Beach legislators to hold public meeting

On Thursday, Jan. 5, the Virginia Beach representatives of the General Assembly will hold a public meeting with citizens.

The purpose of the meeting is to enable Virginia Beach residents to express their concerns regarding the upcoming General Assembly session convening Jan. 12.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the city council chambers, Administration Building, Princess Anne Municipal Center.

At 7:30 p.m. in the city council chambers, Administration Building, Princess Anne Municipal Center.

Mr. Magic entertains the 140 children gathered.

Cutting a tree still a Beach tradition

Out cutting their own tree were the families of the Mathews and Stricklands. (Left to right) Newton Mathews, Dawn Mathews, Donna Mathews and Roscoe Mathews, all of Hampton. The Strickland family from Norfolk are: Gloria, Bob, Keith and Rhonda.

By JOAN COATES
SUN News Editor

Ah, for the days of yesterday, when Mom, Dad and the kids drove out to the snow-covered woods to choose and cut their own Christmas tree. It was a family tradition.

Virginia Beach may be an area slightly sparse of snow, but that old Christmas tradition of cutting and choosing one's own tree remains at the Beach at Sam's Christmas Tree Farm located at 1993 Oceana Blvd.

Owned by R.L. Samuels, Sam's has been in the Christmas tree business for five years now. They're cutting Scotch Pines this year although they grow Blue Spruce as well.

The Blue spruce won't be ready until next year, said Charlie Bailey, an employee. "Our largest trees are eight and nine feet. We sell them for $2.25 a foot," he added.

Up until this year, tree shoppers have been able to have their tree dug up and balled at Sam's, the work being done personally by Samuels. But this year Samuels is in ill-health and is unable to do the work.

Christmas tree farming is a family affair with the Samuels. Their son, Robert, and his wife, the former Elizabeth Faulkner of Virginia Beach, own and operate a 200-acre farm in Scottsville, Va.

"Our daughter-in-law came up with the idea for us," said Mrs. Samuels. "But this is their first year."

Mrs. Samuels, who said her husband was getting to where he really enjoyed the farm, told of her husband's 24 years in Tidewater. "He's always loved the soil," she said. "It gives him a lot of pleasure."

Sam's farm employs seven employees, most of them from the immediate area. Bailey lives next door and Robert Frazier and Robert Dickenson, who cut trees and tie them up, live across the street.

The Samuels operate the farm every day of the week from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m. from Dec. 1 until Christmas Eve.

Sam's Christmas Tree Farm is for families inside and out. The family who comes to buy gets to know the family who operates it. It's the feeling of an old time Christmas tradition right here in Virginia Beach.

Richey, Susan and Richard McCormick of Great Neck Road, came to Sam's Christmas Tree Farm for the second year to select their tree "It stayed until after Christmas," Susan said. Richard holds a giant ruler in which to measure their tree.

Robert Frazier and Robert Dickerson haul the selected tree for the McCormicks.

The people at Sam's help with the tree from start to finish. Here Robert Frazier ties a tree to a car and away they go...

Santa's elves visit Holland elementary

Santa's helpers are Martha Tucker, Phoebe Field and Mario Lyons. Tumbling into Christmas, the helpers give the kids a laugh.

Pantomime came to Holland Elementary last week to show students just what Santa's helpers have been so busy doing these days.

The elves jumped out of the Virginia Beach Parks and Recreation traveling stage to tumble, smile, and brighten the day.

Students left the elves their cards for Santa, and the elves were last seen heading up to the north pole to pack up the sleigh with all those presents for Christmas.

Santa and Mrs. Claus live in Virginia Beach

By JOAN COATES
SUN News Editor

Most people think Santa and Mrs. Claus live up at the North Pole. Actually they're permanent residents of Virginia Beach.

Claude and Alice Watkins, of Sunland Drive, are a rarity in the commercial Christmas of the 70's. The Watkins are true givers of the spirit of Christmas.

Christmas is a busy time for the Watkins. For the last six or seven years, their December has been as filled with visits to hospitals, nursing homes, the underprivileged, and starting this year, children of military dependents.

"Next year, they want us all through the month of November for all the ships," Alice said with a smile. Ship crews can be with their families at Christmas, a la the movies. And it's not a visit a day. On the week-end they hit three or four places a day. Dressed in their holiday garb, Santa and Mrs. Claus give out fruit, cookies and good cheer.

"I get the most pleasure from the nursing homes," Claude said. "They're just like babies. It's just somebody a few minutes, paying attention to them. It's just like giving them a million dollars."

The Watkins have all year to give out their "million dollars". "This is our Christmas to each other," Claude said "we get a lot of pleasure from it. We just wanted to do something different."

The thought is not quite enough for the Watkins. It costs them more than time to spread their kind of giving. Santa and Mrs. Claus's constant Christmas clothes are in need of repair and the cost of goodies given out are footed largely by their own funds.

Their front yard, in the Homestead section of Virginia Beach, looks like the North Pole itself. Sleighs, reindeer and a fireplace with stockings grace their lawn.

"The sleigh, I bought in Pennsylvania and then rebuilt it," Claude recalled. "I started off with a teeny-tiny one, but we soon outgrew it."

Each summer he repairs and repaints his sleigh, which is now big enough to hold Santa and a couple of Children as at one time.

Each year, the Watkins invite surrounding neighborhoods to their home to visit Santa. Sunday, children were lined up in front of their door, 30 minutes before Santa was to arrive.

The tots climb up in the sleigh and sit on Santa's lap. They reveal their Christmas longings for the year. After receiving bag of apples and oranges, they head for Mrs. Claus and her homebaked cakes.

"See where Rudolph ran across the cake and left his hoof marks," Mrs. Claus points out to the excited youngsters.

"Even when the children know the Watkins, Claude said they're not too positive it's me in there. They're in between...they're thinking."

It's hard to tell where the Claus' end and the Watkins begin. Inside, there's no difference.

"Come on up and tell Santa what you want," Claude laughs with a ho-ho-ho. "The more the merrier."

Mrs. Claus takes care of Timmy and Lisa Fryer of Aragon Village, with plenty of Rudolph cake.

Christmas is coming at Beach libraries

Special Christmas movie programs will be held at the Virginia Beach Branch Library on Thursday, Dec. 15 at 10 a.m. for ages three to five years and at the Windsor Woods Branch on Saturday, Dec. 17 at 11 a.m. for ages four and up.

To be shown at Virginia Beach Branch are "The Little Drummer Boy" and "Christmas in Denmark." Windsor Woods Branch will show "A Visit from St. Nicholas" and "Yes, Virginia, There is a Santa Claus."

Beach Students dominate VWC basketball

The city of Virginia Beach is well represented on the 1977-78 edition of the Virginia Wesleyan College basketball team. Coach Don Forsyth has four Beach players who will be helping the Blue Marlin in their quest for the Dixie Intercollegiate Athletic Conference crown.

Gary Edwards, a 6'3" junior who averaged 6.3 points and three rebounds per game last year, leads the Beach contingent. Other Virginia Beach players are 6'2" guard Mark Butts, 6'3" Dave Schultz and 6'4" center Norman Billups.

Billups, the only freshman to make the varsity team, was a star performer on last year's Bayside High School team. Butts and Schultz are both transfer students. Butts, a former First Colonial player, transferred from Tidewater Community College and Schultz from Mansfield State College.

Edwards, a three sport letterman "golf, cross country and basketball" at VWC last year, won the W. B. Schafer award as the best student athlete in 1973. Wesleyan began its home season Dec. 9 against Greensboro College. Season tickets are $12 and single admission tickets are $1.50.

A shot at being discovered

The Virginia Beach Arts Center is restaging its immensely popular Undiscovered Artists Show again in January. Any artist who has felt left out, who has not had the opportunity to exhibit in local galleries or to attract any attention to their work is able to have a shot at being discovered.

Jurors Barclay Sheeks and Neil Britton, professors of art at Virginia Wesleyan College, will select three winners and ten honorable mentions from the entries. Sheeks is a noted painter whose third book, "Painting With Oils" has just been published, and Britton is a distinguished artist who specializes in ceramics.

Garden club plans party

The Kingston Garden Club, continuing its interest in the people of Virginia Beach, is planning the annual Christmas party for the St. Aidan's STOP program on December 20.

Meals on wheels, another club interest, is being supported again this year. Members donate their time helping to deliver a hot meal to people in this program.

Boy's Club sponsors Christmas dance

The Boy's Club of Virginia Beach, a United Way Agency will hold a Christmas dance on Wednesday, Dec. 21 from 8-11 p.m. Cost is $1.50 per person. Music will be provided.

Undiscovered artists who wish to participate should bring a maximum of two works to the Arts Center, at 18th and Arctic Avenue in Virginia Beach, between the hours of 10 a.m. and 5 p.m. on Thursday, Dec. 19 and Friday, Dec. 20.

An entry fee of $2 per work is charged. The jurors will select prize-winners and others to be included in the exhibit, which will open with a reception and awards presentation on Wednesday, Jan. 4 from 7 to 9 p.m.

Artists participating should be aware that space limitations require that a limited number of entries will be chosen for exhibit. The show will continue throughout the month of January.

A jog to the Pentagon

The Armed Forces Staff College is participating in a Jog-A-Thon from Virginia Beach to the Pentagon with all contributions going to the Tidewater Chapter of the American Heart Association.

Departure is Saturday, Dec. 17th at 8:30 a.m. from Tidewater Chapter, American Heart Association at Norfolk Square, arriving at the Pentagon on Sunday, Dec. 18th at 1 p.m.

by Phil Breckner of WORK. The dance is opened to the public, ages 12 and up.

The club is located next to Mt. Trashmore at 4441 South Boulevard.

Free testing for blood pressure

Give yourself a healthy New Year!

General Hospital of Virginia Beach will do blood pressure testing in its Emergency Department, free of charge, throughout the holiday season. The service will be available 24 hours a day, from Dec. 18 through Jan. 2.

Persons coming to the hospital for blood pressure testing should park in a visitors' area (not an Emergency space) and check in with the clerk in the Emergency Department.

Remember, high blood pressure can be controlled, if you know you have it. There are no symptoms in the early stages. One out of every seven adult Americans has this disease—and you could be that one. The test is quick and painless and you should have it at least once a year.

Beware of the Christmas racketeer

The Tidewater Better Business Bureau warned shoppers as the Christmas season is officially underway, to be particularly wary of sharp operators who step up their activities during the holiday season.

Charles A. Martak, general manager, said "these seasonal swindlers are as much a part of the holiday scene as the street-corner Santa, draining millions of dollars annually from consumers and businessmen. These racketeers capitalize on the Christmas rush and the fact that people tend to be more generous and trusting at this time of year."

According to Martak, the Christmas gyp has many guises: -He may be a street corner peddler hawking cheap watches, perfume, gadgets, toys, ties and other shoddy merchandise.

-He may work for mail order firms offering toys, watches, jewelry and other items supposedly at a fraction of the retail price. When the merchandise arrives, if it ever does, it may be a cheap imitation of the item thought to have been ordered.

-He may be a telephone voice making appeals for some unknown charitable organization or a self-described needy individual seeking clothing, food or funds.

-He may be a glib, well-dressed salesman harassing businessmen to buy gifts in quantity at Christmas. Sales may be attempted in offices, at factory gates, on the street or door-to-door.

Martak said "The perfume hoax is one of the most widespread of the Christmas gyps and has appeared in Tidewater in the past years."

This racket involves the sale of well-known brands of colognes and toilet waters rebottled in small purse-size containers by companies having no connection with the original manufacturers. The public is fooled into believing

Thoroughgood House dresses for Christmas

To celebrate this Christmas season, the members of the Adam Thoroughgood Chapter, National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution will tour the Adam Thoroughgood House, which will be decorated for the holidays, on Thursday, Dec. 15th, at 1 p.m.

Class of 1958 to reunite

from Princess Anne High School.

Addresses are needed for all graduates. Graduates and family of graduates are urged to contact Dickie Lyons at 481-5701 or Diane Seay Willes at 460-3739.

The guest speaker and guide will be the director, Mrs. W.H. Pfingst, who will discuss colonial Christmas traditions in this American Heritage program.

Following the tour, the members will meet at the home of Mrs. Milton Thorpe, 1636 Whitethorne Road, Thoroughgood Virginia Beach. The co-hostess will be Mrs. Franklin Livsey.

As a Christmas project, Mrs. Cecil Harrison, service to veteran-patients committee, delivered on behalf of the chapter members 20 Christmas gifts, approximately 30 pounds of clothing for men, and $15 for the Christmas fund for the veteran patients at Kecoughtan Veterans Hospital. In addition, a check for $15 was contributed by the chapter toward the purchase of a washer-dryer for the use of the veteran patients. This machine is being purchased by District 1 of the Virginia DAR.

Mrs. Richard S. Baird, chairman of the DAR School Committee, sent 86 pounds of clothing and other items donated by the chapter to the DAR School at Tamasee, South Carolina.

Suite of prints opens at Chrysler

An exhibition of a suite of prints by British painter and printmaker, David Hockney, will open at the Chrysler Museum Thursday, Dec. 15.

This latest series of prints by the well-known artist, titled "The Blue Guitar," is one of the most imaginative of his projects this decade. The etchings are based on a work by American poet, Wallace Stevens—a poem Hockney admits deeply affected him in the summer of 1976: "The etchings themselves were not conceived as literal illustrations of the poem but as an interpretation of its themes in visual terms. Like the poem, they are about transformations within art as well as the relation between reality and the imagination, so these are pictures within pictures and different styles of representation juxtaposed and reflected and dissolved within the same frame."

The inspiration for the poem, written in 1936, is the painting of the same title done in 1903 by Picasso; so Hockney's suite becomes his interpretation of Stevens' interpretation of Picasso.

These 20 etchings by Petersburg Press were done in the autumn of 1976 and the spring of 1977. The edition numbers 200, and there are 35 proofs.

Hockney will attend the opening of the exhibition—an 8 p.m. preview set for Thursday, Dec. 15. The preview will be open to museum members only.

The exhibition will be shown through Jan. 23.

Virginia is in one of the fastest-growing areas in the world. And Southern Railway is growing right along with it.

Take a bow, Virginia, you're in one of the fastest-growing areas in the country. And, as part of the South, you're in one of the seven fastest-growing areas in the world.

There's no need to tell you why this is. You know about the combination of factors that makes Virginia, and the rest of the South, attractive to industry.

But what you might not know is that the Southern Railway is growing right along with you. In several ways.

First, who do you think carries the raw materials to all these new factories? And the finished goods to market? We do. In large measure.

Who do you think brings the cars, the carpets, the appliances, the clothing, the sporting goods, and the food to the ever-growing population of Virginia? Largely, we do.

But, we're not growing just to keep up with the demand. We're growing to be ready for an even bigger future. According to the federal government the railroads will get an increase in freight volume of 143% by 1990. And railroads' share of market will go up by a whopping 24%.

Will we get the lion's share of these increases when they come? Maybe. But whatever happens, we're getting ready for them by expanding right now. We're putting in a new $40 million push-button freight classification yard in North Carolina. We're adding to our microwave communication system, which is already the largest in the South. We're changing our track to smoother, more reliable welded rail.

And that's why the Southern is growing right along with you: when the demand is there we want to be there, ready to serve.

SOUTHERN
THE RAILWAY SYSTEM THAT GIVES A GREEN LIGHT TO INNOVATIONS

The Southern Railway is one more good reason for living in the South.

NEW TOLL-FREE NUMBER FOR ARMY RETIREES

The United States Army now provides a toll-free hotline for Army Retirees who have questions or problems pertaining to their pay. The number is 1-800-325-5380 and the hours of operation are from 7:45 a.m. to 4:00 p.m., Eastern Standard Time and from 7:45 a.m. to 2:30 p.m., Mountain Standard Time, Monday through Friday. Calls received at other times will be recorded automatically and a return call will be made within two days. The toll-free line is designed to allow Army Retirees to call in no expense and, hopefully, to provide them with better service from the Army Finance Center, Indianapolis, Indiana.

THE CLASSIC - For over 10 years, JOTUL (Tobu) No. 118 has set standards by which all other box stoves are measured.

Many imitations and modifications later-No. 118 still can't be improved upon. Wood burns from front to back like a cigar... burns longer... large areas can be heated efficiently.

Traditions: Norwegian Bar-ruled design. Send $1 for Woodburner's Resource Guide to Jotul Wood heaters, fireplaces, wood stoves, etc. Jotul, Inc., P.O. Box 118, Oslo, Norway.

Fashion FORECASTS WHAT TO EXPECT

Understatement Under Soft Fashions

People who understand fashion say that understatement is overwhelmingly important today. Now the eye-catching look is soft and swinging, clingy or flowing free.

Dresses, suits, sportswear, at home and evening clothes all are softened in silhouette and fit. Rows of ruffles, blouses and swaying pleats abound.

To go with these softly understated clothes, many

FLOWING FABRIC AND ULTRA SHEER HOISERY

women are wearing fingerless that's barely there; a combination of ultra sheer hosiery and a delicate diamond textured panty with just a touch of spandex for super fit. It's made all-in-one so there's no demarcation between panty and hose. This means that the soft fabrics that form today's fashion understatement—jersey, chills and crepe de chine—can be worn with severe a bulge showing.

Frankly Feminine

Fashions this season feature soft, full skirts, flowing fabrics in chills and crepe de chine, ruffled and bowed blouses. The new look is frankly feminine. To complement it, Avon has created Arlene in France—an elegant, sensuous, distinctively feminine fragrance.

A provocative blend of jasmine and other exotic florals. It is tinged with hints of tropical fruits. Precious woods and animal notes underscore the haunting, long-lasting creation for the totally feminine woman.

Beauty Tips for Travelers

- Pack lightly, without skimping on beauty routines, by using these space-savers: Products in small travel sizes (the containers can be used for future trips too); one eye-shadow compact holding four or five different shades to complement all your travel clothes; foundation with built-in moisturizer; combination shampoo/conditioner or conditioner/wetting lotion; cosmetic crayons or pencils (pink triple as lip, cheek, highlighting color; browns as lid, brow, contour color).
- Prevent splits by packing liquids in unbreakable plastic; by using pre-saturated eye-makeup-remover pads, nail-polish-remover pads, moisturizing baby-oil towelettes.
- Pack beauty items, according to frequency of use, in a large plastic-lined cosmetic case with compartments. Or use plastic bags to organize your beauty essentials. Put your daily needs in one bag, once- or twice-a-week products in another, items for occasional use in a third.
- Rethink your beauty needs in terms of climate and activities. Take more concentrated creams for colder or drier places. Light ones for warmer weather; both powder and hair spray for a humid atmosphere; scarves for windy weather; sun-protection lotion, tinted glasses and deeper-toned foundation for beach vacations or skiing at high altitudes; well-fitting shoes, foot deodorant powder, foot-refreshant sprays if you'll be walking more than usual. And always bring your own facial cleanser because soap provided in hotel rooms may not be suited to your own complexion.
- On-the-go hairstyling is easy with a compact blow-dryer or curling wand for quick sets and touch-ups. There are also mini electric hair setters that hold just enough rollers to curl the ends of hair for sleek, carefree styles. (If you're traveling abroad, be sure your appliances are adaptable to foreign electric current.) A wig can also be a big time-saver when you're on the move.

Mad Pungo doctor becomes TV star

By PAM VANDEVEER
SUN Staff Writer

Jerry Harrell didn't think there would be much response when several Great Bridge High School students approached him with the idea of starting a fan club for his "Dr. Madblood" television show.

But the fact that the "Merry Madblood Mirthmakers" now number in the 70's "is very reassuring for me," said Harrell.

He occasionally throws in a plug for the club on his show, which airs on Sundays at 1 a.m. on WAVY TV, Channel 10.

The premise is the show, which is a horror, suspense and comedy," Harrell said.

Harrell, alias Dr. Madblood, broadcast his first show on Halloween in 1975. Up until that time the station had been airing a regular weekly horror show which had about 5,000-5,000 viewers.

Harrell approached the management with the idea of adding a local to it. The management was reluctant at first because of the small audience at 1 a.m.

"I wanted to do something different besides the standard thing where the guy gets up out of the coffin. That's so limited," Harrell said. "So we came up with the idea of a mad scientist who lives out in Pungo."

"Originally it was just going to be a one shot thing—just one show," he said. "But during the broadcast we asked viewers to call or write if they liked us and we had about 100 phone calls within 15 minutes."

"I wanted to do something different besides the standard thing where the guy gets up out of the coffin."

Jerry Harrell, alias Dr. Madblood

The show seemed to take wings as more characters were added, including Dr. Madblood's assistant Vally, Count Lacodra (that's Dracula spelled sideways), Queen Mememara, Princess Lygia, Father Beerbelly, Betsy von Baskatcase, the Audio Shadow and the Brain, to name a few.

The cast presents 52 episodes a year, with virtually no repeats. In the Madblood Manor house. There are usually 10 segments per week which are presented during breaks in the horror movie being shown.

"In the first two or three segments each week we usually do silly takeoffs and spoofs," said Harrell. "Then in the remaining parts we develop a story."

"We have to do something to try to keep people watching, because the movies are so bad sometimes!" he added. He explained that many of the popular and better horror films are simply not available or are out of the station's price range.

Their efforts must be working, since the most recent rating estimates their current viewing audience at 45,000.

"You have to know your audience," said Harrell. "We try to gear ourselves to the same type of humor used on 'Saturday Night Live.'"

Does the popular "Saturday Night Live" have any influence on "Dr. Madblood" viewership, since it precedes the show?

"There's a percentage of viewers who watch 'Saturday Night' and then just stay tuned to us," said Harrell. "But I think a bigger majority watch us for us. We don't lose viewers when 'Saturday Night' isn't on before us."

Harrell began working at WAVY in 1974. Prior to that he worked for WTVR in Richmond, where he hosted a 30-minute daily children's program and did some announcing and production work.

"I originally started out in radio and then graduated into television," he said.

His current title is Director of Creative Services and his main job at the station is writing and producing commercials. "Madblood is actually a very small part of what I do here," he said. "It takes up about eight hours

Where's your spirit?

Virginia Beach residents were having a hard time finding the Christmas spirit last week.

Some looked inside themselves and others looked outside in the Bible, most all were having difficulty finding it in the stores while Christmas shopping.

One lady found it in her church. One man found it in his daughter. With Christmas fast approaching, everyone was looking for the spirit. The best way to find it was just where the Christmas spirit was. (Story on page 2A)

A reindeer dances...

Two-year-old, Jesse James, of the World of Tomorrow Day Care Center sang and danced in his reindeer outfit for the residents of Canelot Nursing Home of Virginia Beach last week. More pictures of the children and their show are inside this week's SUN.

Blue laws confuse Beach council

SUN Public Affairs Writer

Councilman R. L. Riggs brought his fight against the State blue law before his colleagues on the Virginia Beach City Council, received some glimmers of support, but no action.

"The law is so complicated that the public doesn't know what's legal."

Councilman John A. Baum

Although there was general agreement among the councilmen that the law was poorly written, confusing and difficult to enforce, Council failed Monday afternoon to give Riggs the endorsement of a referendum which he sought. Enacted by the State Legislature, the blue law provides localities with a local option through a referendum.

Councilman Robert R. Cromwell, who said that he was in favor of the blue law although he thought it should be clarified, said that, "If it were put to a vote today, it would still be supported."

Cromwell thought the argument should be addressed to State legislators. "The thing to do is not to eliminate it but to change it."

Riggs had initially asked Council to endorse a referendum on May 2, the date of the Councilmanic election. He said that the last referendum, in which voters supported the law, was held three years ago, while the State allows another referendum in two years. He said, "I want your support in giving the people a chance to vote again."

A referendum may be held only if five percent of the registered voters (4,000) petition the Circuit Court for a vote.

Mayor Clarence A. Holland said that he would have no trouble with the referendum—at another time. "I don't think councilmen should be elected just because of how they stand on the blue law."

State law does not permit referendums on dates State delegates are elected so that a special referendum which would cost between $12,000 and $15,000, might be the only way to satisfy all conditions.

Farmers' strike causes no direct local effect

By PAM VANDEVEER
SUN Staff Writer

The American Agricultural movement's nationwide farmers' strike probably won't have much direct effect on Virginia Beach, according to local farmers. A SUN interview with several key farmers in this area revealed their general attitude toward the strike. W. Harvey Gilbert, president of the Virginia Beach Farm Bureau, said he knew of no local farmers participating in the strike. "But there needs to be an increase of some sort in farm product prices."

"The Farm Bureau has been put down because it won't support the strike," he said. "But it could have a federal lawsuit if it did."

The strikers are asking for 100 percent parity. I think that's a little bit out of line. That would be almost doubling the price of wheat, then foreign countries wouldn't buy.

"We need to get the government to support fair prices," he added, "but I think most farmers would agree that 100 percent parity would be a little bit too high."

Norris Shirley of Courthouse Forest, who farms a large amount of land in Virginia Beach, said, "Maybe the strike is good in that it draws attention to our problems, but at this point, it's not my way of doing things."

Is the farmer's plight serious? It certainly is, area farmers agree.

Prices of equipment and chemicals have skyrocketed.

A new tractor that cost $10,000-$11,000 in 1973 costs $21,000 today. But prices for corn and beans haven't doubled, farmers point out, and they can't just mark up prices as is done in retail.

"I think the strike would be a good thing if all farmers would do it," said Don Horsely, who was selected Outstanding Young Farmer of Virginia Beach by the Virginia Beach Jaycees.

"The landlord expects to get his rent money. If you didn't plant Spring crops how would you come up with the $25,000 to $40,000 needed for rent?"

"If I thought it would be of any benefit I would do it," he added.

"I personally refrain from striking because I rent a lot of land," said Gilbert. "The landlord expects to get his rent money. If you didn't plant spring crops how would you come up with the $25,000 to $40,000 needed for rent?"

Gilbert said that the strike probably wouldn't have too much effect on this area for the consumer. "I have already sold my crops for this year so I would have nothing to hold back," he added.

Horsely agreed that the strike won't have much immediate effect locally since this is mainly a grain producing area.

"There's not that much I could strike with because I've already sold my crops for this year," he said. "I'm definitely in favor of the government doing something to help the farmers," said Gilbert, "but I don't know about the strike."

"It's not my way of doing things right now," said Shirley, "but things can change. I'm just taking a wait and see attitude for now."

OPINION

Found the Christmas spirit?

CONNIE MCCULLOUGH, Pine Drive:
"No, not really. It certainly wasn't in the department stores. We're in the military and with being far from home, it's hard. At Christmas you're suppose to be at home."

KEVIN MCGRATH, North Gate Drive:
"It's hard to find it. There's too many things going on at Christmas...too many activities...too many parties."

ROBERT L. PARRON, Parry Drive:
"Christmas is one of the biggest heathen holidays...it's not even taught in the Bible. It's just what Scrooge said, 'bah, humbug'. It's a fraud, a fake. There's not much love in Christmas and most of organized Christianity. I do believe in true Christianity."

MRS. RITTENHOUSE, Mossey Oak Court:
"I found it quite a bit in our church...my husband is the pastor of First Baptist Church of Virginia Beach. Finding baskets for the needy and helping others is where the spirit come in."

MRS. PEGGY MOORE, Aragona Village:
"Not really. I can't really get in the spirit. I hope I do soon because I've got a seven-year-old."

ROBERT EVANS, Malibu:
"Not really. People have got to get back into it. Christmas is important in our house."

FRAN BOHENBURG, Mossey Oaks Court:
"I've found it half and half. It's become too much of a hassle. You do it because you have to, not because you want to."

VERNON FOY, Old Forge Court:
"Most enjoyable part is preparing for my daughter, she'll be ten next month."

Gussy up the old hussy

Weather-beaten and speaking of its seaside habitat, the Coast Guard station on 24th Street is to for a new home. No one knows exactly where that new location will be yet, but where would anyone want to put such a rustic sea monument but back at the sea?

Better to gussy up the old hussy, paint its face, and once more make it a respectable member of beach architecture.

City council seems to want to let the Holiday Inn expand its motel and/or parking lot over to the Coast Guard station's site, so perhaps saving the treasure, anywhere at the beach, is a feat in itself.

After all the bickering over deeds and leases, it's a wonder that the case is being settled at all.

Rumor has it that the building may be moved to 21st Street and turned into a museum. First piece for the museum should be...well, that's the next adventure.

It sounds like Christmas.....

Where is the Christmas spirit?
The stores are jammed. People are pushing and shoving. Lines are long and tempers are short.

"I saw that first."
"Cash or charge, sir?"
"That's a sale item, miss, and can't be returned."
"Hey, get in the back of the line."
"Jingle bells...tinkle bells..."

Financial survey available

The City of Virginia Beach currently has available for public inspection a copy of the Survey of Federal General Economic Statistics and Anti-Recession Fiscal Assistance Expenditures and supporting data for the fiscal year July 1, 1976 to June 30, 1977. Copies of the report are available in the Finance Department, Administration Building, Room 219, Princess Anne Municipal Center from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Office closed

The Treasurer's Office will be closed on Dec. 28, 29 and 30 for the end of the year audit. City Manager George L. Hanbury has announced.

On those days no fees or bills will be deposited but accounts on which payment is made on those days will not be considered delinquent. The office will be open on Dec. 27.

Hospital extends visiting hours

Visiting hours at Chesapeake Memorial Hospital will be extended to 6 p.m. on Christmas Eve and Christmas Day.

They will run continuously from 11 a.m. to 6:30 p.m.; however, the limitation of two visitors per patient at one time will still be in effect.

For maternity patients and those patients in the Intensive Care and Coronary Care Units, the established visiting procedures will be maintained.

of a 40 hour work week "The Madblood show is usually taped on Wednesday or Thursday evenings in an hour and a half time. "We tape the show as if we were doing it live. We don't go back and do things over unless it's absolutely necessary," Harrell said.

"I think the feeling of spontaneity is very important—that feeling of a live show."

Apart from being Dr. Madblood, Harrell spends a lot of time working with magic. He is the president of the local chapter of the International Brotherhood of Magicians and has been involved in magic for the past 20 years.

But he rarely uses magic on "Dr. Madblood" since he feels it doesn't fit in with the show's theme.

Instead he dons his sprayed white afro wig, pancake makeup, white lab coat and a different T-shirt every week. He whistles out his blondish-red beard and begins smoking his skull shaped pipe.

A slight change in his voice, and suddenly Jerry Harrell is transformed into Dr. Madblood. Now that's magic enough.

Councilmen Floyd E. Waterfield Jr. said that the Princess Anne Plaza Merchants Association wants to leave the law the way it is. He said that contractors are against it because they want to work on Sundays.

Vice Mayor Patrick L. Standing pointed out that legislators last week held little hope that the General Assembly would change the law.

Councilman J. Curtis Payne said the blue law might hurt the tourist and convention trade, while Councilman John R. Griffin said it was "unfortunate the way the things are written."

Councilman John A. Baum said "the law is so complicated that the public doesn't know what's legal."

Riggs said that he was not hung up on that the date and that his might be left to the people who prepare the petition.

Councilman George R. Ferrell said that he wanted to know the date before he voted on anything.

Riggs said that he didn't want to "put you on the spot," and withdrew his motion for support.

No action was taken.

No tax cut for church home

By LEE CAHILL
SUN Public Affairs Writer

Virginia Beach city Councilmen are opposed to endorsing a property tax exemption for a church-sponsored home for the elderly.

A request for the endorsement of tax exempt status for Westminster-Canterbury of Hampton Roads was made in a letter to councilmen by the Rev. Dr. Daniel D. Dickenson, spokesman for the Presbyterian-Episcopal church group.

Vice Mayor Patrick L. Standing, remarking on the letter, said that while the home would be for the elderly, it was not for the underprivileged.

He said he was opposed to a tax exemption, saying that the burden will be placed on other people who live in the city.

The home being constructed on a 15-acre site on Shore Drive, will be a 15-story structure with 390 units. The Planning Commission and Council earlier this year approved a change in height restrictions which would permit a 163-foot structure on the site, and later granted a conditional use permit for the construction.

Standing said that General Assembly delegate Bernard Barrow said that if Council adopted a resolution endorsing a non-profit or tax exempt status for the home, Barrow would present the resolution and request to the State Legislature. He indicated that this did not mean that he was supporting the request.

Dr. Dickenson said later that his organization would normally be considered tax exempt under the Virginia Code but that the legislature committee which deals with such matters has required endorsement of the localities. He said he did not know what recourse his corporation, corporation sponsored by the two denominations, operates a home in Richmond which is tax exempt.

Councilman John R. Griffin noted that some church organizations use a non-profit status as a wedge to go

The best of the Beach

All six high schools in Virginia Beach claim to be the best in the city. The SUN set out to find out why. A student from each high school was selected, representing prowess, school spirit and fitness. The students were interviewed and photographed by the SUN. Now it's up to the readers to figure out for themselves whose got the best high school in Virginia Beach.

Bayside

A lot of schools lack a good mixture, according to Bay-side Student Government President, Tony Kilgus, of Frisella Lane. But not Bay-side.

"Bay-side's got an all around good high school program," he said. "We've got a decent sports program, a wide variety of extra curricular activities, an excellent student government and teachers... a good all around mixture."

Tony, 17, is playing his second year of soccer at Bay-side.

He plans to attend William and Mary next fall and is leaning towards law.

First Colonial

Seventeen-year-old Jim Wagner of Kings Grant Road knows First Colonial is the best school in Virginia Beach. "The people make it the best," he said. "There's so much participation. We set new precedents... First Colonial is the arch-rival of every school at the Beach."

Jim, who has played football since he was ten, decided against it this year because "there was so much going on." He was the coach of the powder puff football team and during Homecoming became the Wizard of Oz Dorothy for a day.

Golf is Jim's sport. He plays for First Colonial's varsity team with a handicap of eight and a score running in the upper 70's.

Planning to major in public relations, "that's where the money is," Jim plans to attend Florida State University or East Carolina University next fall.

Kellam

Kellam's Student Government President, Tom Vachirvick of Barcelona Lane, is moving Kellam to action.

At Kellam, "when the students decide they want something, they go out and get it," said Tom. "We get strong support from the student body."

The students recently changed a five-year policy of banning star dances at the school through negotiations and petitions.

Along with his job as S.C.A. president at Kellam, Tom is vice-president of the city-wide S.C.A. He is also co-captain of the school's debate team and a member of the National Honor Society.

Tom plays outfield in intramural softball and jog. Next fall he plans to attend University of Virginia with a major in law and politics.

Cox

The SUN's representative from Cox is 19-year-old Karam Mishalad of Regency Apartments.

Karam is a body builder. "I develop my muscles to the highest degree possible," he said. "I shape it and define it."

He's been involved in weight lifting seriously for about three years now.

One day he hopes to be in contention for the Mr. America and Mr. Universe competition.

Karam has wrestled and hopes to be involved in Cox's track and field this spring, in the shotput.

He plans to pursue criminal justice at Old Dominion next year.

Although Karam has only been at Cox for a year, he said the main reason Cox is the best in the city is because of friendliness. "With all the students, there's friendliness. Everyone knows everyone," he said. He noted that academically, Cox surpassed his other school in Seattle and that "overall it's really good."

Princess Anne

Tony Addabbo, 17, of Bishop Drive, is behind Princess Anne High School physically and spiritually.

He has participated in PA's football program, playing offensive tackle and defense end. During this year's season, he broke a bone and tore a cartilage in his knee. He set a track record in hurdles last year, but doesn't (yet) know if he'll be able to compete this spring.

Tony was recently elected president of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes at Princess Anne.

"There's a lot of unity in our school," Tony said. "Everyone gets along. They all say 'hi', and let everyone know they care."

The Air Force Academy is Tony's first choice for college next fall, although he is considering Virginia Tech and University of Virginia. He plans to pursue engineering.

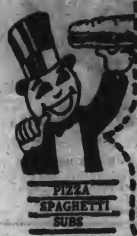

Kempville

David Alcorn is a 17-year-old senior from Kempville High School. He lives on Sherlock Road in Carolands Farms.

A weight lifting enthusiast, David used to wrestle for Kempville and still participates in track. He enjoys coin collecting and fishing. David was recently selected Mr. Kempville in a school sponsored male beauty contest. The contest was based on physique and body posing.

After graduation, he hopes to attend Old Dominion University, majoring in medical technology.

Kempville is the best school at the Beach, according to David, because it's got good people. "It's a good education with good teachers," he said. "And good coaching... they really get into it."

"Sugar plums" dance for the elderly

The decorated children of the World of Tomorrow Day Care Center came carolling for the Camelot Hall Festivity Thursday.

The World of Tomorrow Day Care Center came carolling to Camelot Nursing Home of Virginia Beach last week, spreading their own brand of yuletide cheer.

Children, aged two to eight, were transformed into Christmas trees, snowmen, reindeer and Christmas grandmas as they danced to songs of the season for the home residents.

Reindeers lost a step or two, trees lost their stars, but all came through the program with spirit intact tapping and singing.

At the conclusion of the program, the children passed out gifts to the home residents and sang carols. Young and old joined together to make a merry afternoon full of seasons greetings for all.

Photos by Joan Coates

Melinda Grimstead and Cindy Alechire lead the dance youngsters as they prepare to perform.

The women keeping all together were: Mrs. Sleshen, the director of the school; Dorothy Carol, teacher; Mrs. Blader, teacher; Linda Grimstead, dancing teacher; and Beatrice Yuhas, teacher.

FOOTLIGHTS

Journey through space in January

The program at the Virginia Beach Public Schools Planetarium for January will be "From Mercury to the Asteroid Belt."

The program will begin with "The Origin of the Solar System" which presents the popular theories concerning the formation of the Solar System. It further suggests how the planets may have evolved, and how life may have begun on Earth.

The final part of the program is presented as a journey through space from Earth to Venus and Mercury, and back out to Mars and the asteroid belt. Included are illustrations of possible bases on the moon, Mars and the asteroids.

PLANETARIUM HOURS are:
Sunday: 7 p.m., on the 8th, 15th, 22nd, and 29th.
Tuesday: 7 p.m., on the 3rd, 10th, 17th, 24th, and 31st.
The Planetarium is easily accessible from the 44 toll road by taking the Lynnhaven Exit (Exit five) to the Lynnhaven Parkway and turning right at the first street - South Lynnhaven Road - to Plaza Junior High School, where the Planetarium is located.

The Planetarium seats 120 people. Telephone the main office at Plaza Junior High School - 486-1971 for reservations. Admission is free. Children under age 12 may be refused admission unless accompanied by a mature person.

If you're under 35, the Bob Sheppard Trio may not be your cup of serotonin.

But if you like creative pianistics pick up your phone to see if the group is still at The Hayloft in the Admiralty Motel on Military Highway just north of Jinnal Shopping Center. The place is perhaps misnamed, but is one of the coziest spots in metro, with an intimate dance floor.

The Bob Sheppard Trio keeps extremely busy with parties and lounge or, sometimes adding Walter McLean on sax and flute who is a player of outstanding talent. It is a tribute to the leader to produce so much work, for he has had the courage to keep an integrated group and make no mistake, there are STILL places where this is taboo.

The leader plays drums, makes humorous introductions and sings, including some naughty parodies if the setting permits. But most of the ball-carrying is by pianist Bob Eaton.

No, not THAT Bob Eaton, who was married to Lana Turner, wrote "The Body Brokers," played house with Ginger Rogers and Denise Darcel and claimed to be Howard Hughes authorized biographer.

This Bob Eaton makes love to pianos and to hearing organs. If you truly appreciate jazz piano, not simply to snap your fingers, absorb a "sound," or show people how hip you are to Herbie Hancock, Chick Corea, or Keith Jarrett...then you'll find an endless variety of subtle delights falling from the fingers of Bob Eaton.

One of the rarest, and most admirable traits a person...especially a musician...can possess is individuality. I dare you to accuse Bob of imitating. He'll borrow a few seconds of Basie, Garner, Peterson, Bud Powell and Duke Ellington...Duke Ellington THE PIANIST. We sometimes forget how talented The Duke was at the keys, because he overshadowed himself as a leader, composer and arranger.

Painting the Beach

With Eric Stevens

Agnew was present, the secret service searched for the job. It is good to know our protectors are doing their job, but Sheppard hardly has the demeanor of a mad bomber.

Starting Jan. 10th, and for eight consecutive Tuesdays, this writer will be teaching a course entitled "JAZZ: Its Sounds and Players Since 1900" for TIDEWATER COMMUNITY COLLEGE'S "Spectrum Program" at Camp Pendleton.

It will be from 7 to 9 p.m., with the emphasis on listening. The cost is $20, but senior citizens are admitted free, and teenagers are most welcome. When I define the term "mainstream jazz" I'll regret not having a record by Bob Eaton.

Eric Stevens performs locally as a band leader. During 11 years in NY he worked as a nightclub act, voice coach and disc jockey. Aspiring singers might wish to request a free catalog describing his series of pamphlets, singers. Write Post Office Box 4118, Virginia Beach, 23462.

PTA chapters buy elementary band uniforms

The Kempville area band has new "uniforms." Since formation the band, composed of 120 students from Kempville Meadows, Fairfield and College Park elementary schools, has had no identifying trademark or uniform.

To solve the problem, Mrs. Shirley Mitchell and Mrs. Nell Benham of the Kempville Meadows PTA approached the band instructor,

Dale Browder, with the idea of purchasing shirts for the band that would give them visual identity as the "Kempville Area Band."

Browder liked the idea, so Mrs. Mitchell, who is the Vice-President of the Kempville Meadows PTA, contacted the PTA presidents of College Park ES, Mrs. "Scotty" Breed, and Fairfield ES, Eugene Kanter, to see if they would help finance the purchase of the shirts. The Executive Boards of the three PTAs quickly agreed to the idea, and it wasn't long before the whole band was fitted with blue shirts with a white "Kempville Area Band" emblem design.

The band's first marching performance in their new shirts was at the College Park Christmas parade December 17th at 9 a.m.

Beach questions self-service

By LEE CAHILL
SUN Public Affairs Writer

Whoever thought that the lowly service (full-service) station would become an object of concern for the city fathers?

Amoco Oil Company applied for a conditional use permit for a self-service gasoline station on a 16,000 square foot parcel located at the southeast intersection of Indian River Road and South Military Highway, Kempville Borough.

The company wants to reconstruct the vacant station on the property into an entirely self-service operation.

The Planning Commission recommended approval, but by a vote of 7-3, because, Calvia Spain, attorney for the applicant, said, they were concerned that a full-service station was being changed into a self-service station.

Spain assured City Council Monday afternoon that Amoco expected to remain in the full-service station business, but that at the Kempville location, a self-service station was more practical.

Mayor Clarence A. Holland said that he had "strong feelings about keeping full-service stations," causing Councilman Robert R. Cromwell to remark that he "never thought he'd see the Council vote (in favor of) a service station."

Council concurred with the recommendation of the Planning Commission.

Retirement confusion

By LEE CAHILL
SUN Public Affairs Writer

Some confusion still exists among Virginia Beach employees on how the proposed changes in the Virginia Supplemental Retirement System will affect them.

City Manager George L. Hanbury told Council Monday afternoon that to clear up the misunderstanding representatives of the city will appear before the State House Appropriations and Finance Committees on Jan. 6.

The General Assembly is considering a reduction in collections and payments in the system to avoid situations where a retiree receives more than he did at the time of retirement. Hanbury said that there will be no reduction in the benefits received by employees now covered under the system. The problem arises, he said, in that the city, the only one the state paying 100 percent of the retirement payment for employees, is in treating employees differently.

Choir tours northeast

The ten-member coed Chamber Choir of Virginia Wesleyan College will depart on Jan. 8, beginning its first annual tour of the Northeastern United States.

The singing group will tour Maryland, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and New York as well as the Commonwealth.

The highlight of the tour, according to Dr. R. David Clayton, director, will be a concert in St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York City on Jan. 10.

The Chamber Choir's repertoire consists of choreographed songs by Gershwin and Porter, songs from the thirties, madrigals, folk songs and hymns.

Four members of the Chamber Choir reside in Virginia Beach. They are: Bill Pendergrass, tenor; Lon Ann Russell, soprano; Sue Meulenberg, soprano; and Laurie Ore, alto.

Other members are: Carol Anderson, Shiloh Spring, Pa.; also: Herb Bryalides, Westfield, N.J. bass; Chris Deekens, Richmond, Va.; also: Regina Ellis, Gloucester, Va.; also: Rich Kurzenkabe, Front Royal, Va.; bass; and Ondra Ponds, Chesapeake, Va.; also: Ken Schellenberg, Broad Run, Va., serves as accompanist.

TCC adds course for minority businessmen

Minority men or women who are planning to enter or open a business can get help at the Virginia Beach Campus of Tidewater Community College.

The Spectrum Program for the winter quarter will include a course entitled "Problems of Minorities in Business." This course will begin on Jan. 26, and be conducted at the TCC Camp Pendleton Center on S. Bird-neck Road. The course will explore the unique problems encountered by minority businessmen and suggest how these problems can be solved or avoided. Successful minority businessmen will be invited to give presentations to the class. For further information call the Office of Continuing Education at 428-6395 or 427-3070.

Christmas Greetings

LOVELY TOUCH

Business is good at Paul's place

By Sheila Schwardt
SUN Staff Writer

Folks come from all over to have their hair styled at Paul's Place on Indian River Road.

Gary Barnes, of Mystic Cove Port, Virginia Beach, use to drive in from Hopewell. Last Saturday a lady drove in from Hickory to have her hair done.

Never raising his soft-spoken voice over the blow dryer, Paul Hughes explained, "We never book so close. And we try to satisfy everyone, ladies and men. Husbands send in their wives. Women send in their husbands, children, grandparents."

"Business is good here," said Paul. "I don't know whether it's the location, the word of mouth advertising or the Sassoon Academy I went to last September, but people know we're really interested in their hair."

In September Paul spent a week at the Sassoon School in Chicago, expecting to learn the well-known geometric cut. Instead he found softer hair styles complimenting the softer, looser fashions in pants and skirts.

"Farrah Fawcett is out, and the softer look that's easy to care for is in for men too. Men don't usually spend as much time on their hair as the ladies do. And Paul shows both how to blow dry their hair. He suggests a professional shampoo and a conditioner to keep the hair 'moveable' between visits."

He's proud that Millie Culpepper has won the Virginia State Championship for haircutting and styling. At Paul's Place, Millie prefers to style men's hair. "They're easier to please," she says, "besides I'm single."

Every year more men have their hair styled. This year the New York and Wedge cuts are popular. The New York is a short even haircut, while the Wedge is longer and fuller on top.

Even on a busy Saturday morning Paul's Place is a relaxed and friendly place for the family to have their hair done.

On Saturdays they are open from 8-11; Tuesday through Friday from 8:30-5:00; and on Thursday they are open late until 8:00.

Thoroughgood House dresses for the holiday

The historic Adam Thoroughgood House officially opened for the Christmas season Thursday as the Adam Thoroughgood Chapter of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, toured the decorated home.

Christmas trees adorned the halls of the oldest brick home in America which is located along the Lynnhaven River. The director, Mrs. W. H. Pfingst, guided the group through the home, which contains all sorts of crafts of early American culture.

Members of the Thoroughgood D.A.R. stand before a wooden owl at the garden gate of the Adam Thoroughgood House. The decorated home was toured by the ladies last Thursday.

The holiday tour of the Thoroughgood home was guided by the director, Mrs. W. H. Pfingst.

Mrs. Virginia McCross, of Lakeside and Mrs. Margareta Tugman of 48th Street, descendants of the Thoroughgoods, look through the family Bible.

Mrs. Lillian Yowell, regent of the Thoroughgood Chapter of the D.A.R., admires an iron clamp-type lamp. The term "burning the candle at both ends" came from the custom of lighting both ends of the lamp when an important person came to visit.

Hostesses Nancy Baker, of Greenville Road, and Peggy Iyer, of Fairfield, check over the guest list of the home.

Doors win party at Kempsville

The Cavalier Junior Woman's Club held its 3rd annual door decorating contest at Kempsville Elementary School recently.

All door place winners received $5 for their school Christmas party. In the kindergarten - second grade the winners were:

- 1st - Mrs. Moore's second grade class. This was done by the students who were asked to make a paper angel with a picture of their individual face inserted. The faces floated on a billow of clouds.
- 2nd - Mrs. Lowdermilk's second grade won with pictures of students parted on hand drawn olives. These olives floated on a billow of clouds.
- 3rd - Mrs. Martin's first grade won with handmade Christmas angels on a tree.

2nd - Mrs. Chalmers - This class depicted Snoopy with three-dimensional branches for asters.

Fifth and Sixth Grade winners were:

- 1st - Mrs. Wilson's class with a three-dimensional view of Christmas carollers.
- 2nd - Mrs. Tudor's class depicted a Christmas tree and presents with Santa's bag left for unpacking on Christmas Eve.
- 3rd - Mrs. Parker's class had a six-foot Frosty the Snowman ready for the holiday season.

Christmas services held at church

Two Christmas Eve Candlelighting services will be held at Virginia Beach United Methodist Church.

Featured at the 8 p.m. service will be the Charles Wesley Choir under the direction of Joyce Clarke. The late Christmas Eve service will be at 11 p.m. The beach front Church is located on 10th Street at Pacific Avenue.

Participating in the services will be the pastors of the church, Rev. Bernard Via and Rev. Robert Consovo, also Rev. Scott Myers, a seminarian at Yale Divinity School.

On Christmas Day the church will cancel its early service. Worship will be at 11 a.m. and church school Christmas assembly will be held at 9:45 a.m.

Beach students named to "Who's Who"

The 1977 - 78 edition of "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges" will include the names of 48 students from Old Dominion University who have been selected as being among the country's most outstanding campus leaders. Eight are from Virginia Beach.

Students are selected on the basis of their academic achievement, service to the community, leadership in extracurricular activities and future potential.

Students named this year from Virginia Beach are

Frank William Bass, Robert F. Fields, Christopher Dale Johnson, Robert Eugene Morgan, Alan Kirby Price, Carroll C. Strum, Marjorie Ann Watkins and Samuel B. Wehrenberg.

Lesson learned in Mrs. Mercer's kitchen

First and second graders at Court House Elementary have learned some valuable lessons in Mrs. Mercer's kitchen. They learned about nutrition, vitamins, food groups, and why certain foods are served to them at lunch time.

Linda Atkins and Nancy Gardee, first and second grade teachers at Court House, wanted to teach their classes about nutrition. They asked Cafeteria Manager Elsie a lesson "from the lady who prepares their lunches." Mrs. Mercer, who has been with the Virginia Beach public schools Food Services Department for 31 years, was delighted. She prepared a basic plan which would show the children the four food groups and how it was necessary for nutrition's sake to have food from each group for their lunch.

Using large drawings the children made, Mrs. Mercer showed how the different types of food made up a group. She emphasized the nutritional value of each of the foods, and how they all work together in a meal to provide the nutrition each child needs.

"I was very enthused about the project," said Mrs. Mercer. "I think it should be done in all schools. I've had a ball."

The classroom nutrition project lasted several days, and Mrs. Mercer expressed amazement at the children's response and how well they remembered. "One of the children in the class was going through the lunch line and called out to me that a certain item on his tray was from a particular food group," she smiled.

One of the lessons involved each class preparing a menu that would be served at the cafeteria. Mrs. Carden's class chose fried chicken, gravy over mashed potatoes, green beans, half an orange, roll, butter and milk. Mrs. Atkins' class chose the Thanksgiving meal, and it was the traditional roast turkey with gravy, dressing and mashed potatoes. "But they really surprised me with the vegetable. They chose buttered broccoli," said Mrs. Mercer.

Perhaps the most exciting part came when the children "made their own rolls" in the cafeteria. After letting some dough rise, Mrs. Mercer showed how to form a roll, and each child got to "make" a roll. The resulting messy hands and giggles was predictable but fun.

The two classes finished their nutrition lessons with a tribute to Mrs. Mercer. Using their large drawings as costumes, and with a little help on the props from Mrs. Atkins and Mrs. Carden, the children presented a play entitled "Mrs. Mercer's Kitchen," which was videotaped to the delight of the children and Mrs. Mercer.

Food Services Supervisor James Ratliff voiced appreciation for the efforts of both teachers and Mrs. Mercer. "This type of project gets the kids aware of what's going on in the cafeteria and develops a new awareness of what it takes to prepare the meals," he said.

To make a roll from a pile of dough, Mrs. Mercer tells the second graders of Nancy Gardee to "pinch off a bit and form it in your hands." The kids delightedly dig in.

Second grader Charlie Smith puts his dough into shape while Lafayette Davis reaches for his lump. The Court about nutrition and especially the bread group from Cafeteria Manager Elsie Mercer.

As the finale to their lesson about nutrition learned from Mrs. Mercer, the first and second grade students of Court House Elementary acted out how various foods combine into a meal. In the play entitled "Mrs. Mercer's Kitchen," "cook" Sicilia Haffington opens the oven to find the "cooked meal" - Jim Pirrot.

Using their newly gained knowledge about nutrition, the Court House Elementary students put on a play entitled "Mrs. Mercer's Kitchen" to show how different food groups are used in the school's lunch program. Shushan Cason narrates the play, while (left to right) students Chris Lawrence, Gigi Gallup and Ginger Flora portray food ingredients to be used in preparing a meal. So the other students of Court House could learn about nutrition, the play was video-taped.

Learn to babysit

The Red Cross will be offering two babysitting courses beginning the first week in January for junior high age youth who are interested in becoming Red Cross Certified babysitters.

The courses are designed to teach youth the basics of child care so they are better qualified to babysit infants and small children. Red Cross babysitting certificates will be awarded to participants. There is no charge for the courses.

The Norfolk course will be taught from Jan. 2-30 at the Tidewater Red Cross 611 W. Brambleton Ave. from 4:30 - 6:30 p.m.

The Virginia Beach class will be taught from Jan. 9 Feb. 6 at the Virginia Beach Office at the United Way Family Service Center, 4401 South Blvd. from 6 to 8 p.m.

For registration call the Norfolk office at 625-6791, ext. 242 or the Virginia Beach office at 499-2311, ext. 261. Early registration is encouraged because class size will be limited.

Residents head alumni

Four Virginia Beach residents have been elected to head the Virginia Wesleyan College Alumni Association for 1978.

They are: David Wolfram '73, president; Stover E. Wilthers '75, vice-president; Nancy J. Tarwilliger '76, secretary; and James J. Ragan '71, immediate past president.

Elected to three-year terms on the Alumni Council were: Julia Mulford Nelson '79, Norfolk; Dr. Robert P. Saul '78, Richmond; Timothy R. Albert '77, Virginia Beach; Richard H. Pulley, III, '74, Hampton; G.

Michael Shelton '76, Bedford; and Michele A. Northern '77, Chesapeake.

The 22-member Alumni Council is the steering committee for the full VWC Annual Association.

What's your New Year's resolution for 1978?

RESOLVED.....

THE BEST IS YET TO COME!

WILLIAM MALONEY, Pleasant Hill Ct. - "To quit drinking."

DENISE ROBERTSON, Putnam St. - "My resolution is to not make any resolutions!" Her mother, LINDA TILLER, says, "I'm going to try to be nicer to people."

Virginia Beach residents had a hard time coming up with New Year's resolutions when the SUN polled them.

Most people surveyed hadn't thought about it yet. The ones who had given the matter some consideration came up with fairly common pacts for improvement. Some were going to stop smoking, lose weight, stop drinking or be a better person. Some felt resolutions were unnecessary. One man said he hadn't thought of one for this year yet but that he'd always kept everyone he had made.

The SUN has its own resolutions but Virginia Beach will have to read coming issues to find out just what it is. HAPPY NEW YEAR.

JOAN COATES and PAM VANDEVEER

WILMA ADKINS, Bosworth St. - "I guess I'll try to quit smoking, as usual."

KENNETH ADKINS, Bosworth St. - "I'll try to lose some weight."

STAN FELTER, Greenlakes Circle - "To work harder for the new year."

DEBBIE MARKS, Guther Place - "Not to spend so much money."

THOMAS YOWLER, Country Club Circle - "To make money."

MRS. POFF, Lobsenz Dr. - "To not yell so much."

DAN BOCKOCK, Ocean Dr. - "I want to lose a little weight."

C. E. BLANCO, 8th St. - "I'm not going to exercise. Why should I?"

Shifting sand still shifting

The beach survives another year, amid predictions of tidal waves and the poundings of autumn storms. Just another year spent trying to keep the sand from washing down to Miami. Another year of hastily rebuilding dunes, sticking up sand fences and dreaming up plans to save the coast.

1977: scandal, Liz, lovers

I've never been one to make New Year's resolutions. Since I possess no faults or vices, it's kind of hard to come up with anything that I would need to improve on. Just the same with Virginia Beach. No need for unnecessary resolutions.

At press, 1977, it was another wonderful year for me and Virginia Beach. Full of red roses and promises.

The sand, the sea and "Virginia is for Lovers." John Newhart, Green Run government subsidized housing and beach erosion. Police scandal, city council scandal and scandal, scandal.

The Neptune festival goes broke, Liz Taylor's got an aching back and no one shows to see the King off.

Joe Canada, Buster O'Brien and Joel Smith. Sheriff Joe Smith wins but has a headache, John Atkinson wins but has a headache. I've got a headache too. Jets and the Navy. Hoods and Hilltop. Meyers and the men. Here a stab, there a shot, everywhere a kill, kill. Virginia Beach has its crime. el-el-o.

Doesn't it make you look back with a deep sense of longing for a year now gone...and what a year. Virginia Beach will have to work hard to beat '77 in '78.

Rhonda Miller

SUN Staff Writer

A beach year just like most others, sand wise, trying to keep those hotels from toppling into the mighty blue Atlantic. That's one thing stable about every year at Virginia Beach—the instability of the beach. Nothing like beginning 1978 on solid ground.

RESOLVED...

- That I will have a perfect year.
- That I will do my best to stretch a little closer to heaven.
- That I will work and play and learn and love and try my best, to meet responsibly while feathering my nest.
- That I will spend more time at home, to better know my kin.
- That I will get more exercise (the better for my skin).
- That I'll remember birthdays with gifts and cards and calls.
- That I will do my best to not send people up the walls.

- That I will soon investigate returning to night classes.
- That I will keep the volume low while watching forward passes.
- That, if I am a boss, I'll be patient. I will listen.
- That, if I am a window-washer, all my panes will glisten.
- That I will read this once again, check what I want to do, that I will have a happy year...and I'll help you have one, too!

Learn to use herbs

The Great Neck Branch of the Virginia Beach Public Library will present a program on herbs and their use on Wednesday, Jan. 18, at 7:30 p.m.

At this time Linda Bon-bino Sullivan, a local herbalist, will present a slide and lecture program on the uses of herbs and wildplants that can be found locally.

RESOLVE TO START THE NEW YEAR WITH FAITH

The New Year for many of us usually brings an occasion of festivity, followed by a well-meaning but generally short-lived list of drastic personal reforms. However, one resolution is all you'll ever need, if you will let faith strengthen your determination to become a better person. Let the first page of the new calendar represent that new leaf you are turning over, and if you will resolve to attend the Church of your choice regularly throughout the coming year, all the other items on your list will undoubtedly take care of themselves.

Beach teachers oppose collective bargaining rule

The Virginia Beach Education Association, representing most of the teachers in the city, has voiced strong opposition to the recent decision of the Virginia Supreme Court against collective bargaining for state employees.

The association termed the decision "extremely regretful that its highly successful bargaining relationship" with the Virginia Beach School Board has been jeopardized by the decision.

V.B.E.A. president Ronald L. Pierce said the court's ruling undermines the carefully nurtured working relationship and denies the rights of teachers, as professionals, to have meaningful input into the educational process.

V.B.E.A. officials announced they are urging its teachers to travel to Richmond Saturday, Feb. 5 to participate in a massive lobbying effort with teachers coming all over the state.

Is there really an 89th street?

By LEE CAHILL
SUN Public Affairs Writer

Developers want to build two duplexes on four lots cut out of a 100-foot wide strip of land identified on city maps as 89th street.

But is 89th Street a bona fide 100-foot wide right-of-way owned by the city, or does it belong to Lake George Corporation that claims it purchased it along with the assets of the now defunct Cape Henry Corporation?

The Lake George Corporation wants the city to accept the company's plan as a subdivision which would entail closing the street on the ocean side forming two 50-foot lots backing up against Fort Story. It would also mean closing off the north half of 89th street backing against Fort Story to form two more lots divided from the others by a cul de sac.

Water, sewer laws passed by council

By LEE CAHILL
SUN Public Affairs Writer

Virginia Beach property owners are now required to hook up to city water and sewer lines within one year after the services become available.

City Council Monday afternoon passed the mandatory hook-up ordinances, making them effective immediately, and also called for a public hearing on Feb. 28 to consider nine additional measures recommended by the Mayor's Committee on Sewer and Water Rates.

The committee report, presented by Vice Mayor Patrick L. Blanding, chairman, also recommends that Council this month authorize the sale of $3 million in General Obligation Bonds to be repaid by a $3.1 million Revenue Bond issue to be authorized in April 1977. These funds will finance water and sewer construction through 1977.

School imbalance brings changes to Virginia Beach school boundaries

By GARY FULLERTON
SUN News Editor

Like many other cities, Virginia Beach faces a great population increase. Many families find the suburban life in Virginia Beach attractive and decide to move here.

This "in-migration" seriously affects Virginia Beach schools, causing some to be over-crowded and some to be under utilized. The effect is particularly dramatic at the elementary school level.

Virginia Beach school officials are now faced with this imbalance for the 1977-78 school year and have decided that boundary changes are necessary to bring each affected school more in balance.

Last Thursday night principals and PTA presidents of 20 Virginia Beach elementary schools met with Dr. E.E. Brickell, school superintendent. Dr. Brickell outlined the situation to them and asked for their help in redistricting. Brickell told the PTA heads and principals that redistricting was necessary to equalize the utilization of all schools and to eliminate unnecessary construction of elementary schools.

Dr. E. E. Brickell explained the proposed school boundary changes last March to Beach principals and PTA heads of 20 elementary schools.

Beach Dome lands boxing

By BLAIR THURMAN
SUN Sports Editor

Professional boxing is coming to Virginia Beach on a regular basis.

According to Dallas Tohill, president of Sports Promotions, the first professional boxing card will be held at the Virginia Beach Dome within the next year. The first date is June 6, with 32 rounds of boxing scheduled.

Tohill, along with Ed Owens, vice-president and secretary-treasurer of Sports Promotions Services, is financing the project, and has hired State Boxing Commission Inspector Wally Haigh as general manager to run the operation. Haigh will soon resign his present position in order to work for Sports Promotions Services.

Tohill, a Virginia Beach resident told the SUN, "We want to get professional sports in this town, and we think boxing is a winner." He explained why he thinks the venture will be a success. "There is no place for area amateurs to turn pro, and to my understanding, I'm the only promoter in Virginia."

The June 6 card will feature five four-round fights and two six-round fights in the Dome, which will seat 1,400 spectators. Tohill sees the relatively small seating capacity as a plus. "There will be no bad seats and everyone will be able to see clearly," he said.

Council opens way to growth corridor

A 2,000 acre tract northeast of the Courthouse may provide Virginia Beach with its second growth corridor.

A master plan is being prepared for the entire tract to eventually include single-family and townhouse construction, commercial development, and an 18-hole golf course, two lakes and recreational facilities.

Meanwhile rezoning of the first 137.8 acres of the land to R-5 Residential was approved Monday afternoon by City Council. Developers plan to construct 438 single-family homes on this land.

Residents asked to limit water use

The City of Virginia Beach is asking residents to voluntarily limit their use of water between the hours of 6 a.m. and 9 p.m. for the next 30 days.

City Manager George L. Hanbury told City Council at an informal meeting Monday afternoon that if the voluntary limitation does not work, the city may have to resort to arbitrary restrictions.

The fault lies not with the supply of water, which, he said, would be adequate, but with the city's distribution system.

No more water ban

All water conservation measures in Virginia Beach imposed Aug. 29 in the midst of the summer drought, have been lifted.

Starting November 15 to coincide with anticipated action of Norfolk City Council, restrictions were taken off "non-essential" water uses such as watering lawns, washing cars and filling swimming pools.

At the same time, the city has resumed enforcement of mandatory water and sewer hook-ups ordinances which had been suspended because of the water shortage.

my W. Mobley, Outstanding Young Woman Kay Mitchell, Outstanding Young Farmer Donald H. Horseley and Outstanding Young Man Skip Wilkins.

JOHN ATKINSON; Virginia Beach Treasurer-elect; "Winning beats losing. I'm looking forward to the challenge of doing the job."

CLARENCE A. HOLLAND; Virginia Beach Mayor; "In the House of Delegates race, the incumbents all returned by close margins. It's my observation that the candidate who got the most votes was the only one who did not seem to be involved in Council matters."

BUSTER O'BRIEN; House of Delegates candidate; "We're disappointed we didn't win but we're very proud of the things people did for us."

DECEMBER

"Closed due to the blue law?"

"That's okay, we'll just go around the corner to another one."

Beach blue laws prompted this SUN editorial cartoon in December.

Beach conference center approved

Virginia Beach City Council approved a contract for the construction of the Arts and Conference Center which will push the total cost of the project $2 million beyond the $16 million originally estimated by City Manager George I. Hanbury.

The vote was not unanimous, 7-3, but the item had been placed on the "consent agenda" reserved for matters considered to be routine by the City Council. These items are usually voted with a single motion.

Council approved the low bid of Basic Construction Company for $16,063 which reflects a $2,104,600 reduction from the original bid of $18,168 of $2,104,600.

Architects fees ($1.3 million), roads, curbs and gutters ($700,000) and contingencies ($500,000) will bring the entire project over the $16 million mark.

Blue laws confuse council

SUN Public Affairs Writer

Councilman R. L. Riggs brought his fight against the state blue law before his colleagues on the Virginia Beach City Council, received some glimmers of support, but no action.

Although there was general agreement among the councilmen that the law was poorly written, confusing and difficult to enforce, Council failed Monday afternoon to give Riggs the endorsement of a referendum which he sought.

Enacted by the State Legislature, the blue law provides localities with a local option through a referendum.

Rampant growth hit by CCO

To halt "rampant, uncontrolled growth" James F. Willesbrink and the Council of Civic Organization of Virginia Beach formally submitted a list of suggestions to councilmen and planners.

State law requires a comprehensive land use plan for each city by 1980, and the CCO intends to do its best "to make sure that the plan is more than just a hollow document in response to state requirement."

CCO proposals ask for stringent requirements on zoning regulations and on coastal zone development.

A suggestion that would have a great impact on city development is to "limit zoning changes that increase density, thereby reversing the current trend of responding generally favorably to zoning changes that increase density."

"We don't want to stop growth," says Willesbrink, "we want to develop a new concept toward growth."

Public Notice

PROPOSED HIGHWAY PROJECT FIRST COLONIAL ROAD CITY OF VIRGINIA BEACH

A Location and Design Public Hearing will be held by a representative of the Virginia Department of Highways and Transportation on February 1, 1979, at 7:30 P.M. in the Lynnhaven Junior High School Auditorium located at 1350 Bayne Drive in Virginia Beach, for the purpose of considering the proposed location and design of First Colonial Road from Will-D-Wisp Drive to 0.094 mile South of Virginia Beach Boulevard in the City of Virginia Beach.

All interested parties are urged to attend and give the Department the benefit of their comments and suggestions relative to the proposed highway improvement.

Maps, drawings, and other information are available for public review and copying in the Department of Highways and Transportation District Office located at 1200 North Main Street in Suffolk, in its Resident Office located at the intersection of Business Route 13 (Military Highway) and Route 184 in Chesapeake, and in the office of the Director of Public Works for the City of Virginia Beach.

Representatives of the Department will be present at the Lynnhaven Junior High School from 5:00 P.M. to 7:00 P.M. on the day of the hearing, for an informal review of available information by interested citizens. All interested persons are encouraged to review the proposal prior to the formal hearing.

Written statements and other exhibits relative to the proposed project may be presented in place of, or in addition to, oral statements at the hearing. Such written statements and exhibits may also be submitted to the Department at any time within ten days after the public hearing.

At this location and design public hearing, relocation assistance programs and tentative schedules for right of way acquisition and construction will also be discussed.

State Highway and Transportation Commission of Virginia.

AN ORDINANCE PROPOSING THE IMPROVEMENT AND PAVING OF SPOT LANE, PUNGO BOROUGH, VIRGINIA BEACH, VIRGINIA, AND ASSESSMENT THEREOF.

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF VIRGINIA BEACH, VIRGINIA:

That, WHEREAS, the City Council has been requested by more than fifty per centum of the property owners abutting Spot Lane for the improving and paving of said street to serve their respective properties; and

WHEREAS, it is the judgment of the City Council that said street should be improved and paved, and that the cost thereof be apportioned between the City and the abutting landowners as provided by law; and

WHEREAS, it is necessary for the usual daily operation of the Department of Public Works that provision be immediately made for the construction of such street, an emergency is set forth and declared to exist.

NOW, THEREFORE,

Section 1. The construction of Spot Lane, as shown on the plat attached hereto, is hereby proposed, the cost thereof to be apportioned between the City of Virginia Beach and the abutting landowners and assessed against said landowners pursuant to law.

Section 2. The City Clerk is hereby authorized and directed to publish in a newspaper having general circulation in the City once a week for two consecutive weeks, a notice to all of the owners of property abutting said proposed street of the intention of the City of Virginia Beach to construct the same and to apportion the cost thereof as provided in this ordinance, and stating the time and place where said owners may appear before the Council to be heard in favor of or against said improvements. The last publication of said notice shall be made at least ten (10) days before the parties are cited to appear.

An emergency exists and this ordinance shall be effective upon date of its adoption.

Adopted by the Council of the City of Virginia Beach, Virginia, on the 12th day of December, 1977.

Art course offered on TV

For the first time in its history, the Virginia Community College System, comprised of 33 individual colleges, will offer a college course statewide via television.

"Art America," an historical survey of the visual arts from ancient times to the present, will begin its mid-January. The 20 half-hour weekly programs will be aired on Virginia's five educational television stations and on WHRO-TV in Norfolk.

WHRO-TV Norfolk will cover the series starting January 17, Tuesday, 6 p.m. and repeat every following Thursday, 6 p.m., Cable station 11 in Virginia Beach.

The primary focus of Art America will be on painting and sculpture, with supplemental material dealing with architecture and photography. The series emphasizes the historical significance of art and the presentation of factual information.

To register or obtain further information about the course, call collect (703) 323-3347. The tuition for the community college course is $25.50 for Virginia residents.

The telecasts will be augmented by a workbook and textbook, and an instructor will be available to provide personalized assistance by telephone when it is needed.

Aerographer's Mate Second Class (AGS) Lee Forester (1) of Naval Weather Service Environmental Detachment (NWS-ED), Naval Air Station Oceana, explains weather forecasting equipment to senior citizens from Seatack Community Center who recently toured the facility. The group visits Tidewater points of interest once a week.

Hobos win

The Boys Club of Virginia Beach, a United Way Agency, held a Hobo Day on Dec. 3. The best-dressed hobo in the ten and under category was Ross MacDonald. The eleven and over winner was Joey Niedbala. Winners received a free ticket to "Star Wars."

Sign language continues

The Virginia Beach Campus of Tidewater Community College continues to provide an educational opportunity for those who work with the hearing disabled.

The popular sign language courses will be offered during the winter quarter at the beginning and intermediate levels. These courses are part of the college's Community Education program and have been enthusiastically received. For further information call the Office of Continuing Education at 427-3070.

A Report To Vepco's Natural Gas Customers.

The Supply Is Adequate:

Vepco expects to have adequate gas supplies for its Tidewater customers this winter because—

- (1) Vepco customers are co-operating with requests for gas conservation,
- (2) unlike last winter, the weather in the first part of this heating season has been moderate, and
- (3) gas supplies available to Vepco have improved.

Vepco has done a great deal during the past year to increase the availability of gas this winter. However, additional volumes of natural gas from less costly interstate pipeline sources are limited. Therefore, the extra winter gas has been provided by storing summer gas volumes and by purchasing supplemental volumes in the form of liquefied natural gas, propane and substitute natural gas.

The Cost Is Greater:

The natural gas that Vepco buys from its pipeline suppliers has continued to go up in price. And the extra winter gas purchased to supplement these supplies is considerably more expensive than pipeline natural gas. Some comes from foreign suppliers—the only ones with gas to spare.

YOUR PURCHASED GAS ADJUSTMENT

Because of these increased costs, the Purchased Gas Adjustment on your bill is considerably higher than it was last year.

The increases are due entirely to the higher price of the gas. All of this money is passed on to the suppliers of this gas—without profit to Vepco.

Because of these increased costs, home owners will want to practice sound conservation this winter. The check list below will help you keep your costs in line. Cut it out and use it as a day-to-day cost saving guide.

Natural Gas Cost Cutters:

EVERYDAY REMINDERS:

- Set thermostat at 68°. Turn it down 5° or 10° at night.
- Wear warm clothing.
- Keep doors and windows shut.
- Don't waste hot water.
- Take quick showers instead of tub baths.
- Do only full loads in washer, dryer, dishwasher.
- Use cold water detergents when you can.
- Use covered, flat-bottomed pots for cooking.

- Cook vegetables with as little water as possible.
- Use a pressure cooker if available.

GAS SAVING PROJECTS:

- Install insulation and storm windows—even clear plastic over windows.
- Caulk drafty cracks and crevices.
- Install weatherstripping around doors.
- Keep furnace filters clean.
- Set water heater thermostat at 140°F.
- Fix leaky hot water faucets.

Beach gets its own Social Security office

A new full-time social security office will be established in Virginia Beach.

Second District Congressman, Bill Whithurst received notice of the decision to establish the new office in a letter from Don I. Wortman, acting commissioner of the Social Security Administration. Wortman stated that the opening date and location of the office will depend on the completion of staff and space arrangements.

Presently, Beach residents must travel to Norfolk to file social security applications and to receive assistance in resolving their social security problems.

In a statement, Whithurst said: "I am gratified by the decision to establish a social security office in Virginia Beach. This office will alleviate a major hardship for the rapidly growing number of senior citizens in Virginia Beach, many of whom must now travel 40 miles, round trip, to visit the Norfolk Social Security office. The rapid population growth in Virginia Beach has made the establishment of a social security office essential to insure that senior citizens of the area receive the service they need and deserve."

The Virginia Beach Sports Club announced three award winners to be presented at their 25th annual Jamboree, Jan. 30.

The Dr. L. Curtis Hall Jr. Memorial Award to the scholar-athlete of the year will be awarded to a female for the first time in the club's history. She is Elizabeth Anne Lake of Bayside High School.

Miss Lake is a senior with an "A" average scholastically who ranks 13th in her class. This will be her fourth year as a member of the girls basketball team and her third year on the hockey team, which won the District Championship in 1975.

Her main forte, however, is tennis. Last year her 8-2 record on the girls tennis team was the best in the city. She also played on the Jr. Whitman Cup Team. She reached the semi-finals of the Virginia Beach Junior tournament and won the Virginia Beach City Junior doubles Championship. She has won many junior Championships here and in the Tidewater areas.

Beth is also an accomplished artist and is active in many school activities.

The club's Special Board of Directors Award will go to Mrs. C. French, a teacher at Princess Anne High School, for her outstanding contribution to the advancement of women's athletics. Mrs. French has been a teacher, sponsor, and coach for 21 years at Princess Anne High School. She has served as chairman of the girls health & Physical Education Department for the past 14 years. During her 21 years at Princess Anne Mrs. French has coached the gymnastic team, the hockey team, and various sports in the intramural program. She has also sponsored the Varsity Cheerleaders for the past 14 years.

Mrs. French, who holds an M.A. from ODU, is a member of the Virginia Education Association, the American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation, the Virginia Coaches Association and the Delta Kappa Gamma Education Society.

The third winner announced by the club, was the selection of Wally Browne of Kellam High School as the Virginia Beach High School Senior Offensive Lineman player of the year. Browne is a 6-4 247 pound tackle, and only played offensive tackle. He also played defense and was the snapper on punts, field goals and tries for extra points. In one game in which Kellam was behind at halftime Coach Cooke switched him to the backfield for blocking purposes and the team scored two touchdowns for a come from behind win. Wally is being actively recruited by ACC, SEC and Big Ten Teams.

Still to be announced are the club's selection of the Senior Defensive Player of the year, the Virginia Beach High School Coach of the year and the Athlete of the year from the Virginia Beach area.

All awards will be presented at the 25th Annual Jamboree, Monday, Jan. 30th at the Mariner Motel.

The Club previously announced Carol Belcher of Cox High School as the female athlete of the year and Tom Rozantz of William and Mary as the Virginia College Football Player of the year.

Christmas decorations win prizes

The grand prize winner is the 1977 Christmas Doorway Decorating Contest of Laurel Cove subdivision won by Mr. and Mrs. Philip Thiem, 2260 Trant Lake Drive.

Mrs. Thiem was awarded an engraved pewter Jefferson cup by Mrs. Jay Schumm, one of the judges from Laurel Cove Garden Club.

The prize winning wreath was of many varied pine cones, backed by magnolia leaves and accented with small red bows. The surrounding pine greenery was interspersed with pine cones and small red ribbon bows. The Thiem family enjoys camping and in their travels, the family gather the materials for the doorway in which to make their wreath, according to Mrs. Thiem.

In the wreath category the first place winners were Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Shewchuk of 1320 Yawl Point for their straw wreath and surrounding swag featuring pink plaid ribbons.

Second place winner went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Stone of 2217 Trant Lake Drive. Third place winners were Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Scott Jr. of 2237 Laurel Cove Drive.

In the general category (other than a wreath), the first prize was won by Mr. and Mrs. James Kelly of 2436 Laurel Cove Drive, for a beautiful fan of greenery and Christmas balls. Second prize was given to Mr. and Mrs. Richard Woodruff of 1308 Martine Court and third prize to Mr. and Mrs. Lois Paulson of 1305 Whisper Drive.

The category of Best Use of Natural Materials grew in the number of participants this year and the judging was difficult. First prize was awarded to Mr. and Mrs. William Wright of 1324 Willowood Drive. The Wrights' doorway showed the use of greenery and candy canes.

Second prize was awarded to Mr. and Mrs. Allan L. Grov of 1314 Martine Court. The third prize winner was the home of Linda Smith of 2237 Laurel Cove Drive.

Over three quarters of the homes in Laurel Cove participated in this fourth annual Christmas Doorway Decorating Contest.

Employees receive service awards

Yeoman Second Class (YN2) Dennis Siemers, volunteer worker for the Virginia Beach Navy Federal Credit Union, Naval Air Station (NAS) Oceana, was chosen Tidewater Chapter of Credit Unions 1977 "Worker of the Year" from among eight candidates. The chapter is comprised of 74 Tidewater area credit unions.

Announcement of the award winner and plaque presentation by Nathaniel Beaman, Award Committee Chairman, came during the annual International Credit Union Day dinner held recently at the Mariner Hotel, Virginia Beach.

A yeoman for the Aircraft Intermediate Maintenance Department (AIMD), Denny organized a Youth Involvement Council which aims at promoting the credit union concept among the younger employees at NAS Oceana.

As Chairman of the Tidewater Chapter's Youth Involvement Council, he has increased the participation of credit unions in the group to 16. Under his leadership, they have gained recognition on both the state and national level. At this year's Virginia State Youth Meeting, they had the largest representation.

The Youth Involvement Council sponsored a credit union baseball night at Met Park, selling over 1,400 tickets. A group project to keep local youth informed about financial matters provided a total of 55 "money management" kits to area public schools. In addition to his youth activities, Denny is an active member of five Tidewater Chapter committees.

The 24-year-old Aitkin, Minnesota native adds the "1977 Credit Union Worker of the Year" title to another garnered earlier this year when he was chosen the Naval Air Station Oceana "Sailor of the Year."

Accepting the award, YN2 Siemers thanked the Virginia Beach Navy Federal Credit Union, the Chapter and especially his wife, Nancy, because "she shares my interest in promoting the credit union among younger members."

Library offers child care course

The Great Neck Branch of the Virginia Beach Public Library and the Cooperative Extension Services 4-H will present a child care course for young people ages 13 and up at the library beginning Jan. 3.

The course has been limited to 15 young people and pre-registration is required beginning immediately and up until the course begins.

The classes will be held for four Tuesdays from 4 p.m. until 5:30 p.m. The classes will be held on Jan. 3, 10, 17 and 24.

The course is designed to help teens in all aspects of caring for infants and children.

Registration can be done at the library which is located at 1251 Bayne Drive in the Hilltop area of Virginia Beach.

For further information contact Debbie Carter with the library at 481-8084 or Judy Jackson with 4-H at 427-4611.

Student named to "Who's Who"

Cadet Robert J. Rockefeller, of Virginia Beach, is one of 24 seniors at the Virginia Military Institute who have been named to "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges."

Rockefeller, a dean's list civil engineering major, is academically distinguished at VMI where he is a business manager of the VMI Theatre. He also has received numerous awards for his military achievements at VMI.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rockefeller, of Garrison Place, and was graduated from Floyd E. Kellam High School before entering VMI.

Navy wives meet

The monthly business meeting of Navy Wives Clubs of America, Dam Neck #207 enlisted wives will be held at the Dam Neck Special Services Building, 2nd floor, at 7 p.m. on Thursday, Jan. 5.

All enlisted wives in the area are invited to attend. For further information call Fran Sanchez, President, 425-8467.

Bawdy "Tom Jones" opens at dinner theatre

That roguish yet appealing rascal Tom Jones, whose 17th century exploits have delighted audiences around the world, will share his bawdy, lusty story with Virginia Beach theatre goers when the Tidewater Dinner Theatre of the Stars presents "Tom Jones," from Jan. 10 through Feb. 19.

Adapted from the popular Henry Fielding novel, this stage presentation of England's most amorous era was written by husband and wife team Don and Pat MacPherson. Their musical version of "Tom Jones" became the longest running and most successful musical comedy in Las Vegas history, with a record-breaking run of 22 months at the Desert Inn Hotel.

After the Las Vegas success of the musical "Tom Jones," Universal Pictures also released a major film, "The Adventures of Tom Jones," which starred, among others, Trevor Howard, Terry Thomas and co-writer Pat MacPherson as Tom's true love, Molly.

It is the original Las Vegas production, complete with one of the Las Vegas performers, which will enjoy a six-week run here at the Tidewater Dinner Theatre.

Cast in the starring role will be 22-year old Mike McCarthy, a member of the MacPherson touring troupe who has portrayed Tom Jones in similar theatre productions in West Virginia and North Carolina.

Coming straight from successful runs in Los Angeles and the Las Vegas "Tom Jones" show will be Mike McElroy, who plays the affable Squire Western who raises the founding Tom Jones.

The whole adventurous and lusty story of Tom Jones will be narrated throughout by Kathy Stalabrook, who has toured nationwide in the role.

Mara Joyce, who plays the roles of both Molly and Mrs.

Waters, may well be the performer who is recognized first by dedicated television fans. Mara Joyce, a veteran of road company productions, has appeared on "The Edge of Night" daytime television drama, as well as on T.V. specials with Michael Landon and Alan King.

Cast as a trio of real dandies are William Phaneuf, a MacPherson productions regular, as Master Blinfi; Toby Stephens, a Tidewater resident, as Dr. Thwackum; and Milt Jamin, as Mr. Square.

Regular Tidewater Dinner Theatre-goers will recognize Jamin as the strict guardian, Mr. Spettigue, of the production, "Where's Charley?", now showing through Jan. 1. Another "Charley" castmember, Judith Hachrich, will also appear in "Tom Jones," as Sophia.

Also appearing will be Tidewater resident Pam Manning, in the role of Honor.

Writer MacPherson, who also is an established and successful producer, director and actor, will be directing "Tom Jones" during its run at the Tidewater Dinner Theatre. MacPherson has been critic-acclaimed for his unique adaptations and inventive direction of such shows as "The Fantasticks," "Once Upon a Mattress," "Guys and Dolls," "Lock Up Your Daughters," "The Unsinkable Molly Brown," "Dames at Sea," "Goodbye, Charlie," and "Calamity Jane."

The Tidewater Dinner Theatre is located at 6270 Northampton Blvd., Norfolk, just off I-64. Tickets for nightly performances Tuesday through Thursday are $13.50 per person. Tickets for the Friday night show, the two Saturday performances and the Sunday matinee are $14.50 per person. Group rates are available for parties of 20 and over.

Telephone 461-2533 or 245-8304 (toll free from Peninsula) for reservations.

Beach science fiction writer will edit paperbacks

Frank Kelly Freas, America's most renowned and honored science fiction illustrator, has signed with The Dunning Company/Publishers to edit, design and illustrate a new line of science fiction quality paperbacks called Starblaze Editions. Freas will be an associate publisher with Dunning and Polly Freas will be editor-in-chief of Starblaze.

The Starblaze series will emphasize quality and durability in paper and binding, and will contain a minimum of 60 to 80 interior illustrations with each work as well as a cover illustration by Freas. Some classics will be re-issued, but the line will contain many new, as well as established writers.

The basic concept is to offer science fiction readers a durable and entertaining book, printed on acid-free paper, with large class type, and to offer the author of science fiction a finely designed and illustrated product worthy of his story.

The books will be sold at an average retail price of $4.95. The first four titles, to be released in the spring of 1978, are "Borne Will Not Die," a re-issue of A. J. Budrys; "Metador" by J. F. Bone; "The Tenth and 11" by Robert Asprin; and "What Happened to Emily Goode After the Great Exhibition" by Raylin Moore.

Future books by Robert Silverberg, Roger Lovin, Gordon Dickson and George Warren, among many others, are planned for release in 1978. Starblaze will publish an average of two books a month in the first year. Larger format illustration books and some hardcovers are also planned.

Dunning has just released in November "Frank Kelly Freas: The Art of Science Fiction" (PW, Sept. 12), and the paperback edition (3 1/2 x 11", $7.95) has sold over 8,000 copies in the first month of publication. A recent exhibition of his work, which opened Nov. 17, at the Chrysler Museum in Norfolk, drew over 2,000 people over normal attendance in the first ten days.

Among his numerous awards, Mr. Freas has won ten Hugos for science fiction illustration in his twenty-five year career, and has been honored with the lifetime designation of Dean of Science Fiction Illustrators by the Eastern Science Fiction Society. He resides in Virginia Beach.

Residents earns spot in basketball

Gene Buss, junior defensive halfback for Virginia Tech, was named to the Associated Press' All-South Independent Squad on the second team for the 1977 season.

Buss, a native of Virginia Beach, was also named honorable mention, All-American by the AP.

During this past season he tied the career record for interceptions of thirteen, held by former Tech great Ron Davidson (1964-68), as he intercepted six passes and returned them 69 yards. He also had Tech's longest return of an intercepted pass, 33 yards against William & Mary.

His career interception chart shows 13 interceptions, returning them 92 yards.

With a full season of eligibility left, the 5-10, 167 pound, junior, will have a good chance to set a new Tech career standard for interceptions.

Buss is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph G. Maryko 2307 BB Northland Road, Virginia Beach.

With a name like Becky Noel, one might think that the personal license plate for her car would have something to do with the current holiday season. Wrong.

Becky, a freshman at Virginia Wesleyan College, is so confident that she'll receive a bachelor's degree in four years that she is publicly proclaiming the fact. Her license plate thus reads: "VWC 81."

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Noel of Virginia Beach, Becky is a 1977 graduate of Cox High School. She plans to major in liberal arts management.

Tryouts for "Guys and Dolls"

Little Theatre of Virginia Beach will hold tryouts for "Guys and Dolls" on Tuesday and Wednesday, Jan. 3 and 4 at 4 p.m. in the theatre auditorium.

The musical comedy requires a large cast of mature actresses and actors over age 18. All roles are available. An accompanist will be provided, but those singing are asked to bring a prepared musical selection.

"Guys and Dolls" is a musical fable of Broadway, written by Frank Loesser, Jo Swerling and Abe Burrows and based on a story and characters by Damon Runyon. Performance dates will run Feb. 17 through March 4.

Director Faye Whitlock requests that persons wishing to take part in the play's orchestra and crew also come to auditions.

Beach to house sheltered workshop

The Virginia Beach Sheltered Workshop Association, a non-profit community service organization, is currently conducting a fund-raising campaign to raise money for the development of a work-oriented rehabilitation center in Virginia Beach.

The workshop will provide a place of employment for the mentally and physically handicapped of the community.

Fifteen thousand square feet of the Miller's Department store on Virginia Beach Boulevard has been provided rent-free by the City of Virginia Beach to house the facility. The building, however, must be renovated for the workshop to be operational by the association's scheduled July 1 opening.

Initially, $9,400 must be raised in order to receive a $37,600 renovation grant which has been allocated by the Department of Vocational Rehabilitation. For every additional dollar contributed, four dollars in federal and state funds can be put to work on this project.

Those interested in supporting this community project should contact:

FIRST FOOT FORWARD

The "first foot" is a most important person in Scotland. He is the first person to cross the family's threshold on New Year's Day. He must be a dark-haired man, fair-haired men, and women with hair of any color, are considered unlucky.

In the old days the first foot arrived with a bottle of whisky, a cake of shortbread and a piece of coal. When the door was opened to him, to let the New Year in, somebody in the family opened a window to let the Old Year out.

The first foot presented his head and hoots with the whisky and shortbread, and then threw the piece of coal on the fire, saying: "Lang may yer lum reek and yer kail peil bide, and may the moose ne'er leave yer mealpoe wi' a tear bide o'."

Translated into English, this means: "Long may your chimney smoke, your soup pot boil, and may the moose never leave your bag of oatmeal with a tear in its eye."

Foster homes needed

There is a critical need for emergency and ongoing foster homes for teenagers throughout the city of Virginia Beach.

If there is room in your home and in your heart for one of these youngsters, contact the Virginia Beach Department of Social Services for more details. Just call 427-4451.

Classes cancelled

Due to a change in the holiday schedule, all adult evening classes sponsored by the Virginia Beach Public Schools have been cancelled for January 2. All classes will resume their regular schedule on January 3.

Estes attends conference

Five real estate agents from ESTES Realty Corporation of Virginia Beach attended the Dec. 1977 session of the Virginia Realtors Institute at the University of Virginia.

Those who attended Course III were Gwen Leo and Associates, Pam Muschna and Mary Smith.

Course II was attended by Associate Pam McKinney and Associate Sandra Richardson attended Course I.

The Institute consists of three 5-day courses and leads to the designation "G. R. I." which stands for Graduate, Realtors Institute.

Kittens go fast with SUN ads

"I have never in my life had more success in giving my kittens away in good homes, and I've had lots of cats," says Lynn Sullivan of the Hickory section of Chesapeake.

Just before Christmas, Lynn gave away four kittens in three days through the POST classified pages.

Right after the paper hit the street. The best part of the give-away was that the kittens got fine homes with lots of room to play and plenty of attention.

"I was a little late to the POST classified ads again, she promised.

Happy New Year to Everyone

With 1978 upon us we take this opportunity to thank each and every one we have had the privilege of serving in 1977. One of the nicest things about '77 has been the many people we have gotten to know.

To the families who have lived in our community for years and to those who recently moved here, we express our sincere wishes for a very happy and prosperous New Year.

Thanks for such a fine

Last Page.

We've saved the last page for our advertisers. It is only fitting that we advertise our appreciation to the people who make it possible for us to publish our newspaper every week.

In 1977, Tidewater advertisers used the pages of the Virginia Beach Sun to reach the hometown buyer, stimulating our local economy and providing business growth and employment.

You, our readers, responded by buying shirts, bananas, jump suits, refrigerators, movie tickets, tennis balls, pickles, cars, building materials, houses, boots...the list is endless.

We enter 1978 with confidence that this area will enjoy greater prosperity. We look forward to the role that the Virginia Beach Sun and its advertisers will play in the economic growth of the city of Virginia Beach.
